RED CHARGE 'NOT SUBSTANTIATED'

Soviet "Peace" Move Is Sham, Truman Says

Russian Resolution Is Sent To Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — President Truman sent Russia's "peace resolution" to Congress today with a warning that it fails to guarantee "any change in the hostile and expansionist policies of the Soviet Union, which now threaten world peace."

Sharply discounting the Soviet gesture, Mr. Truman outlined an eight-point program of things he said Russia should do if it really wants peace.

As evidence of good faith, the President said, the Soviet Union should:

1. Stop "flouting the authority" of the United Nations.

Cease Supporting Aggression

2. Cease supporting armed aggression in defiance of the United Nations.

3. Help establish peace with Germany, Austria and Japan.

4. Refrain from employing force to maintain regimes in other countries which lack the support of their own people.

5. Cease supporting subversive movements in other countries.

6. Cease distorting the motives and actions of other peoples and governments.

7. Stop violating human rights and liberties.

8. Join "in good faith in the earnest effort" to find means for reducing armaments and controlling atomic energy "in the interest of peace."

Advises Against Policy Change

But Mr. Truman told Congress: "Until we have concrete evidence that the Soviet Union has in fact changed its policies, I cannot advise the Congress to change the policies of the United States."

Mr. Truman made his barbed comments in a message accompanying the resolution adopted by the Presidium of the Supreme Court and a letter from Soviet President Nikolai M. Shvernik.

The Soviet claim of peaceful intentions came as a belated answer to a resolution passed by Congress last June expressing the friendship of the American people for all other peoples, including the Russians. Mr. Truman had sent the messages to President Shvernik with a request that it be made public to the Soviet people.

Senate Unit May Vote Today On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee failed today to reach the voting stage on its mammoth new tax bill, but Chairman George (D-Ga) said balloting may begin tomorrow.

The House has passed a bill calling for $7,200,000,000 in new taxes. Senators may reduce this amount in their version of the measure and change the method of raising more than $2,000,000,000 in new income taxes.

Truman Asks $400,000,000 For Midwest Flood Victims, Disaster Insurance System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—President Truman today asked Congress for $400,000,000 to aid sufferers of the flood-ravaged Middle West and set up a system of flood disaster insurance.

White House aides said the request was believed to be the biggest in the history of American disaster relief.

Mr. Truman urged Congress to provide the money "with the greatest possible speed" as an emergency measure.

He said physical damage from the flood waters in Kansas, Missouri and nearby states had passed the billion-dollar mark, with loss of income amounting to about $1,000,000,000 more.

$25,000,000 Appropriated

Congress has already appropriated $25,000,000 to cope with the immediate emergency, but Mr. Truman said 16 times that much is needed to help the Midwest dig out of the mud-engulfing cities, farms, and factories.

In a special message to the legislators, the President said the region was of such great importance to the nation that its recovery must be speeded.

Vive President Alben Barkley referred the request jointly to the Senate Public Works and Appropriations Committees in order to speed action. Ordinarily, it would have been considered first by Public Works, later by Appropriations.

The President asked approval of the $400,000,000 appropriation:

1. To indemnify the flood victims "for a portion" of their loss of real and personal property.

Would Make Loan

2. To make and guarantee loans on liberal terms "for the building of homes and business to replace those destroyed."

3. To help farmers drain and rehabilitate their land, replace buildings, "and restore the productive capacity of their farms, through on-farm assistance and disaster loans."

4. To permit loans where necessary to enable state and local government participation in the rehabilitation activities.

5. To provide funds to establish "a national system of flood disaster insurance, similar to the war damage system of World War 2.

Mr. Truman told Congress he expects to establish a "flood disaster administration" as a small policy and control body, with operating functions placed in existing federal and state departments and agencies.

Hurricane Gains Force In Sweep Toward Mexico

"Charlie" Packing Winds Of 120 MPM

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20 (AP) — A tropical hurricane built up its power to 120-miles-an-hour winds tonight in the southwestern Gulf of Mexico and headed for the Mexican mainland.

The hurricane dropped to 75-mile-an-hour winds in smashing across the Yucatan peninsula earlier today. No deaths were reported on the peninsula from the storm that four days ago killed 109 persons in sweeping across Jamaica.

At 7 p. m. (EST) the hurricane was located about 130 miles west of Merida on the northwestern tip of the peninsula.

Moving 16 Miles An Hour

The New Orleans Weather Bureau reported it was moving in a westward direction at 16 miles an hour toward the eastern coast of Mexico.

The storm struck the peninsula with 100-mile-an-hour winds but was slowed in its blast over land. It burst into the gulf with winds of 75 miles per hour, barely hurricane force. But it gained strength over water.

Hurricane winds extended about 50 miles to the north and gales extended an additional 200 miles to the north.

W. R. Stevens, chief forecaster of the New Orleans Weather Bureau termed it "a very dangerous hurricane."

Plane Warns Small Vessels

The same storm, named "Charlie" by the Weather Bureau, was less destructive in its march across the Yucatan peninsula, than when it hit Jamaica with 130-mile an hour winds. Jamaican damage was reported at $56,000,000. No estimate of damage was made of its strike on Yucatan.

As the storm moved through the Gulf, a Coast Guard PBY amphibious plane flew ahead dropping messages to small vessels warning them that they were in the path of a hurricane and should seek shelter.

Motorist Meets Double Trouble

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 20 (AP)—When trouble came to James A. Jones today, it came double.

Jones, 20, stopped his car at a traffic signal. Then, he told police, three young men opened the door, jerked him out and took $15 and his car keys from him.

They fled. He chased them for a block or so but lost them. While he was hunting for them, they returned to his car and stole it, too.

South Korean Troops Seize Four Heights

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21 (AP)—In fierce fighting on the Eastern Korean front Monday, South Korean troops crossed minefields and captured four heights in hand-to-hand battles with stubbornly-resisting Reds.

Other South Koreans, using bayonets and hand grenades to clear the way, surged up the slopes of two other knife-edge ridges, to reach within 50 feet of the top by late afternoon.

Cold And Polio Cures, Moon Trips Seen Within 75 Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Leading chemists predict cures for the common cold and polio, rocket trips to the moon, even guarantees of no rain at picnics.

How soon? Within the next 75 years.

What they see in the crystal ball of the future is told in the diamond jubilee issue of the American Chemical Society magazine, Chemical and Engineering News. The society celebrates its 75th anniversary at a meeting here Sept. 3-7.

Prof. John C. Bailar, University of Illinois, foresees "cures or preventives available for infantile paralysis, mental illnesses, allergies, the common cold."

The complex chemistry of cancer, hardening of arteries, and arthritis will be unraveled, adds Dr. H. B. Haas, General Aniline and Film Corp., New York.

"At least one man will have circumnavigated the moon and returned safely,"—Dr. C. C. Furnas, Cornell Aeronautical Lab., Inc., Buffalo.

The first moon rocket won't be manned, says Dr. A. V. Grosse, research institute of Temple University. "It will be easily observed as it strikes the moon by the flash of magnesium in its head."

"Not only making rain but preventing it will be established practice," assuring sunny picnics—Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen, U. S. Testing Co., Inc., Boston.

11 Killed When Plane Crashes Into GIs' Truck

Both Catch Fire; 22 Others Injured

FORT DIX, N. J., Aug. 20 (AP)—A jet training plane, fighting for altitude, roared into a truck full of soldiers at the edge of McGuire Air Base today, killing 11 men and injuring 22.

The plane bounced off the truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training. Both the truck and the plane caught fire and burned fiercely.

The tired soldiers were just starting back to Fort Dix for supper. As they climbed into the truck they saw the plane bearing down on them at tremendous speed. Before they could jump clear, it plowed into them, showering the truck with blazing jet fuel.

Two Fliers Killed Instantly

Army authorities said the two Air Force officers in the plane were killed instantly. Nine GIs on the ground died in the crash. Of the 22 injured, 16 were treated at the post hospital for minor burns and injuries and released. The other six were detained two of them in critical condition.

More than 50 soldiers were in the group around the truck in a clearing of the woods where the Ninth Division has an outdoor training school. They had just finished the day's work. Some had gotten into the truck. Others were standing nearby.

The plane gouged a 200-yard path through the woods.

Cause Undetermined

An Army spokesman said the control tower saw the plane was in trouble as soon as it took off and was trying to reach it by radio when it slammed to the ground.

The identities of the dead and injured were withheld by Army authorities pending notification of next of kin.

Army firefighters raced to the crash scene and put out the fire in the truck and plane.

The cause of the crash was not known immediately, but some witnesses said the plane was on fire before it crashed.

Suspended State Dept. Aide Tells Of Visiting Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Oliver Edmund Clubb, suspended chief of the State Department's China section, today told of conferring with Communists during a visit he paid to the magazine New Masses while on home leave from China in 1932.

But Clubb introduced entries from a personal diary relating that when he sought out the left-wingers in New York he was "masquerading somewhat under false pretenses" and "felt too much like a stranger to show the proper revolutionary enthusiasm."

Reversing his earlier testimony, the 50-year-old witness told the House Un-American Activities Committee that among those he met at the New Masses office was Whittaker Chambers, who later confessed he had acted as a courier for a Soviet spy ring.

Clubb had told the committee last March that he didn't recall ever meeting Chambers, but he said today a diary had refreshed his memory.

Clubb gave his testimony against a background of charges that the State Department's Far East policies helped bring about the Communist conquest of China.

A veteran of many years' diplomatic service in the Far East, Clubb told the lawmakers he visited the left-wing New Masses office because he liked to meet new people when he was home on leave from foreign duty to "get the picture of conditions" in the United States.

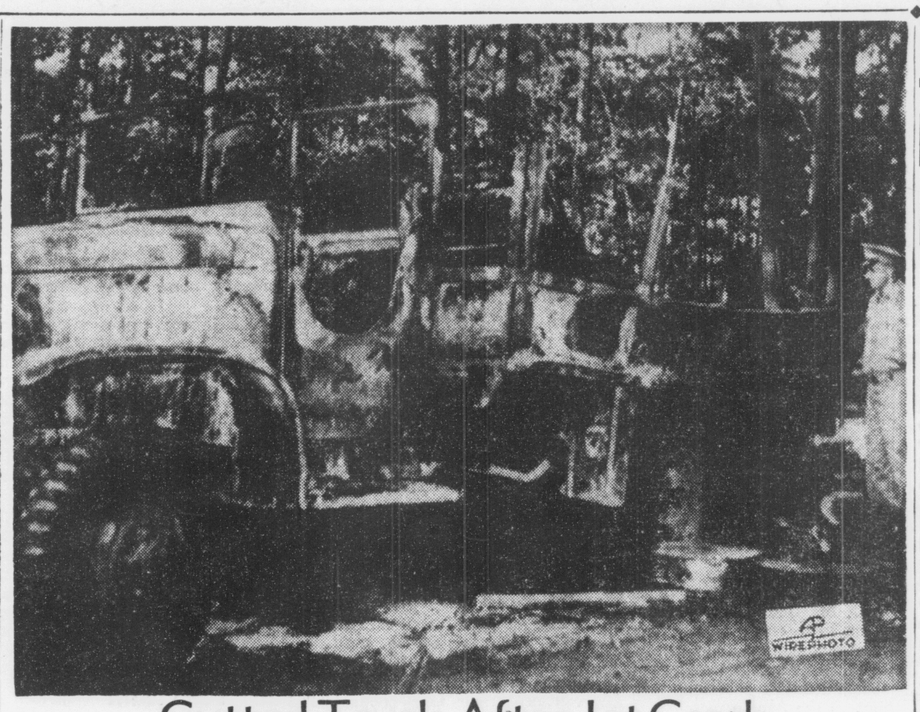
Fires Sweep Forests In Pacific Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20. (AP)—Fires ripped through the forests of Western Oregon, Washington and California today.

At some 50 scattered spots in the Pacific northwest flames ate into huge Douglas fir trees and sent smoke clouds into the sky.

Humidity was down to 10 per cent in some of the woods areas and Oregon and Washington foresters kept all logging operations shut down. That put 35,000 men out of work. The Western Washington ban was on a day-to-day basis. The Western Oregon closure was "until fall rains come."

There has been no rain of consequence since May.



Gutted Truck After Jet Crash

A soldier examines the charred wreckage of an Army truck which was struck and set afire by a crashing jet training plane at Fort Dix, N. J., yesterday, killing 11 men and injuring 22. The plane bounced off the loaded truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training.

Butler's Senate Campaign Hailed By Sen. M'Carthy

Served To Expose 'Reds In Government'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Republican campaign tactics in Maryland's 1950 senatorial election were defended today by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who said they served to expose "Communists in government."

A Senate subcommittee which investigated the contest denounced the campaign conducted in behalf of Sen. Butler (R-Md.) as a "despicable 'back street' type." It said "non-Maryland outsiders" were important factors in it and named McCarthy as one of them.

But the committee did not recommend that Butler be unseated. The Baltimore lawyer defeated former Sen. Millard Tydings, a Democrat, by 43,000 votes.

Butler's Campaign Praised

McCarthy, rising in the Senate to make a minority report on the inquiry, claimed Butler's campaign was "intelligent and courageous." He said it was quite true that he had participated in the campaign and added that he intended to take part in others.

Communists in government was the "one big issue" of the Butler-Tydings campaign, the Wisconsin Senator said, and the investigating committee's report, signed by seven Democrats and two Republicans, failed to take this into account.

Before he ran for reelection, Tydings had directed a Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges that Reds had infiltrated the State Department. A majority of the Tydings committee denounced the McCarthy charges as a hoax. McCarthy repeated today his contention that the inquiry was a "whitewash."

Charges Tydings Lied

"Why the (elections) subcommittee feels it was proper for Tydings to lie and put the finger on the Butler campaign for exposing that lie, I don't know," McCarthy said.

"Sen. Tydings lied about the State Department files, and he lied about the FBI investigation of them. It was a dishonest thing on the part of Tydings. All we did is expose them."

McCarthy also claimed that Tydings refused to call witnesses whose names were offered to him. Some of this evidence is now coming out in other hearings, he said.

Three Money Bills Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today three big appropriations bills, trimmed by a total of $320,000,000 under President Truman's budget requests.

The bills provide $2,512,004,000 for the Labor and Federal Security Departments, $802,988,000 for Agriculture and $511,865,336 for the Interior Department.

President Truman had asked for $251,334,000 more than the amount approved for Labor and Federal Security, $17,017,546 more for Agriculture, and $52,220,664 more for Interior.

1,000 Papers Stolen

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 20 (AP)—The Huntington Publishing Co. today offered $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who stole nearly 1,000 copies of the Herald-Dispatch from West Huntington streets this morning.

Probers Told Red Spies Influenced Jap Attack On U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — A Japanese official swore today that a Communist spy ring helped to influence Japan to attack the United States in World War II, and had tipped Russia before Pearl Harbor that the plans would bear fruit.

The sworn testimony was given by Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for Japan's attorney general, at a surprise meeting of the Senate Security Subcommittee.

Yoshikawa, speaking through an interpreter, said he learned the story from the confession of Richard Sorge, head of the spy ring, whom the Japanese hanged in 1943 for espionage.

Senate Passes Defense Housing Bill Compromise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate approved and sent to the House today a $1,635,000,000 defense housing bill, designed to help provide housing for workers in critical defense areas.

As agreed to by a joint Senate-House committee which worked out the differences between original Senate and House versions of the bill, lower down payments on low and moderate priced houses would be permitted all over the nation.

Down payments would range as low as four per cent of the purchase price of a house costing $7,000 or less, on a GI loan. The GI down payment on a house in the $7,000-$10,000 range would be six per cent, and eight per cent on one in the $10,000-$12,000 class.

A 10 per cent down payment would be required on a $7,00 house on which the Federal Housing Administration insured the mortgage, or which was conventionally financed. This would step up to 15 per cent down on a $7,000-$10,000 house, and 20 per cent on one costing from $10,000 to $12,000.

Purchasers would have 25 years to pay. The terms are considerably easier than those now required under residential credit regulation "X," which also operates on a sliding scale.

The conferees agreed also to permit the government-owned Federal National Mortgage Association to make commitments to purchase up to $200,000,000 in mortgages between now and the end of the year. This would be to cover loans made under the Military Housing Act, dwellings in critical defense areas, and housing made necessary by disasters, such as floods.

McFarland Raps Republican RFC Report Charges

'Political Poppycock,' Ariz. Democrat Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz) told the Senate today that Republican charges made against President Truman in a minority report on the RFC investigation are "political poppycock."

The majority leader accused the Republicans of "smirking piety" and "demogogic political inference and innuendo." No one can charge the President with "personal or official dishonesty," McFarland declared.

His attack was directed at a blistering report written by Sens. Capehart (R-Ind) and Bricker (R-Ohio) as an aftermath of a Senate subcommittee's inquiry into lending policies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Pendergast Politics" Charged

Bricker and Capehart said Mr. Truman and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle have transferred corrupt "Pendergast politics" to a national level. They charged that Donald Dawson, the President's patronage chief, has been proved "incapable of honest duty." They also hit at government "blood suckers" and "political parasites."

The charges against Mr. Truman and Boyle. McFarland said, are "the high point in political effrontery, in sheer undiluted political hokum."

"No man living can point a finger at Harry Truman and charge personal or official dishonesty," McFarland said. "No man living can say Harry Truman is corrupt."

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) characterized the charges against the President and Boyle as "scurrilous."

Democrats' Version Is Milder

Three Democratic members of the subcommittee came out with a majority report asserting they have fully proved charges the RFC fell prey to a political influence ring "with White House contacts."

But their version was much milder, more general, and didn't call names.

Fulbright, who is chairman of the subcommittee, said the GOP minority report was so partisan he regretted it had to be printed at public expense.

Thus the subcommittee closed its books on a sensational year-long investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the government's big lending agency.

Aid Bill Action Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Senate committee action on the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program was delayed today when not enough senators showed up for a meeting.

Five Russian Exile Groups Unite To Fight Dictatorship

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 20 (AP)—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the short-lived Russian Republic after the 1917 revolution, said tonight five anti-Communist Russian exile groups have banded together to fight dictatorship in their homeland.

The merged exiles call themselves the "Council for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia."

In an interview the aging anti-Communist declared "the Soviet Union intends to fight a global war when the financial structure of the United States, Britain and France is weakened."

"Russia is now conducting a peace war," he said. "She is deceiving the people. The purpose is not peace at all but war."

Kerensky came from America to lead the refugee talks and presided at the four-day meeting. They met in strict secrecy, guarded by German plain clothes officers. Delegates feared Communist reprisals as they formed the five-ply organization.

Joy Tells Nam Probe Doesn't Back Up Claim

Shooting Attributed To Korean Civilians

MUNSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21. (AP)—Deadlocked Korean truce talks appeared headed into a new crisis today because of a shooting in the neutral zone near Kaesong, site of the conference.

However, Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes and Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke left Munsan as usual today for subcommittee talks at Kaesong on the tangled armistice buffer zone issue.

A strongly-worded protest by Korean Lt. Nam Il, chief Red armistice delegate, blamed Allied troops for the slaying of a Chinese patrol leader Sunday morning.

Nam demanded a "satisfactory reply" at once.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior United Nations truce delegate, replied from Tokyo today that a preliminary investigation by a joint Allied - Communist liaison group "does not substantiate the charges you have made."

Joy added that he would reply fully to Nam after he gets a complete report from the investigators.

Korean Civilians Blamed

A U. N. command statement Monday night attributed the shooting to Korean civilians trying to sabotage the truce talks. The statement said preliminary investigation "failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any United Nations military formation."

It said "the possibility exists that the shooting was the work of a politically-guided civilian group operating under instructions to create an atmosphere of tension which would tend to support the breaking off of the current military armistice conference."

Elaborating, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. delegation spokesman, told correspondents "there are indications that there is a segment, mainly political in nature, who feel their war against the South Koreans should be continued."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo issued a statement Monday night, however, which left open whether North Korean or South Korean civilians may have done the shooting.

Dressed In Civilian Clothes

The Ridgway headquarters statement said "preliminary questioning of witnesses has disclosed that many of the assailants were dressed in civilian clothes and did not wear steel helmets or other military garb.

"Some witnesses stated that a great number of the participants were civilians, who may be partisans of either side who are intent on sabotaging the efforts of the delegations to arrive at a satisfactory armistice negotiations."

The South Koreans have consistently protested any settlement leaving Korea divided, and there have been many indications that the North Korean Reds also want everything or nothing.

While the neutral zone dispute remained up in the air, the Reds appeared intent on capitalizing on the incident. An elaborately-staged

Oregon Convicts Continue Strike

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP) — Thirteen hundred convicts refused tonight to end their sitdown strike in exchange for food. They haven't had a meal since Thursday breakfast.

Warden George Alexander won the first break in the six-day strike when 40 trusties went back to work this morning.

As the warden gained this ground, there came a hint that move to oust him immediately might not succeed. Gov. Douglas McKay said the prison board of control is not going to be hurried into picking a new warden. Alexander has been slated for several months to shift to a new job as administrator in which he would not have a hand in prisoner control.

Although Alexander's edict of work-or-don't-eat brought the 40 trusties—mostly cooks, truck drivers, and gardeners—into line this morning, there was no hint from the quiet cell blocks that the 1,310 other foodless convicts were ready to follow suit.

They have been flavoring their water with salt and calling it chicken soup or mixing in sugar for energy, a prisoner released today said in an interview. The released man, George A. McIntyre, Boston, who completed 10 months for larceny by bailee, said the inmates started their strike without premeditation. It just grew, he said, after Guard Lt. Morris Race used a billy club on a prisoner in breaking up a fight.

5. To provide funds to establish "a national system of flood disaster insurance, similar to the war damage system of World War 2.

Mr. Truman told Congress he expects to establish a "flood disaster administration" as a small policy and control body, with operating functions placed in existing federal and state departments and agencies.

Hurricane Gains Force In Sweep Toward Mexico

"Charlie" Packing Winds Of 120 MPM

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20 (AP) — A tropical hurricane built up its power to 120-miles-an-hour winds tonight in the southwestern Gulf of Mexico and headed for the Mexican mainland.

The hurricane dropped to 75-mile-an-hour winds in smashing across the Yucatan peninsula earlier today. No deaths were reported on the peninsula from the storm that four days ago killed 109 persons in sweeping across Jamaica.

At 7 p. m. (EST) the hurricane was located about 130 miles west of Merida on the northwestern tip of the peninsula.

Moving 16 Miles An Hour

The New Orleans Weather Bureau reported it was moving in a westward direction at 16 miles an hour toward the eastern coast of Mexico.

The storm struck the peninsula with 100-mile-an-hour winds but was slowed in its blast over land. It burst into the gulf with winds of 75 miles per hour, barely hurricane force. But it gained strength over water.

Hurricane winds extended about 50 miles to the north and gales extended an additional 200 miles to the north.

W. R. Stevens, chief forecaster of the New Orleans Weather Bureau termed it "a very dangerous hurricane."

Plane Warns Small Vessels

The same storm, named "Charlie" by the Weather Bureau, was less destructive in its march across the Yucatan peninsula, than when it hit Jamaica with 130-mile an hour winds. Jamaican damage was reported at $56,000,000. No estimate of damage was made of its strike on Yucatan.

As the storm moved through the Gulf, a Coast Guard PBY amphibious plane flew ahead dropping messages to small vessels warning them that they were in the path of a hurricane and should seek shelter.

11 Killed When Plane Crashes Into GIs' Truck

Both Catch Fire; 22 Others Injured

FORT DIX, N. J., Aug. 20 (AP)—A jet training plane, fighting for altitude, roared into a truck full of soldiers at the edge of McGuire Air Base today, killing 11 men and injuring 22.

The plane bounced off the truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training. Both the truck and the plane caught fire and burned fiercely.

The tired soldiers were just starting back to Fort Dix for supper. As they climbed into the truck they saw the plane bearing down on them at tremendous speed. Before they could jump clear, it plowed into them, showering the truck with blazing jet fuel.

Two Fliers Killed Instantly

Army authorities said the two Air Force officers in the plane were killed instantly. Nine GIs on the ground died in the crash. Of the 22 injured, 16 were treated at the post hospital for minor burns and injuries and released. The other six were detained two of them in critical condition.

More than 50 soldiers were in the group around the truck in a clearing of the woods where the Ninth Division has an outdoor training school. They had just finished the day's work. Some had gotten into the truck. Others were standing nearby.

The plane gouged a 200-yard path through the woods.

Cause Undetermined

An Army spokesman said the control tower saw the plane was in trouble as soon as it took off and was trying to reach it by radio when it slammed to the ground.

The identities of the dead and injured were withheld by Army authorities pending notification of next of kin.

Army firefighters raced to the crash scene and put out the fire in the truck and plane.

The cause of the crash was not known immediately, but some witnesses said the plane was on fire before it crashed.

Motorist Meets Double Trouble

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 20 (AP)—When trouble came to James A. Jones today, it came double.

Jones, 20, stopped his car at a traffic signal. Then, he told police, three young men opened the door, jerked him out and took $15 and his car keys from him.

They fled. He chased them for a block or so but lost them. While he was hunting for them, they returned to his car and stole it, too.

South Korean Troops Seize Four Heights

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21 (AP)—In fierce fighting on the Eastern Korean front Monday, South Korean troops crossed minefields and captured four heights in hand-to-hand battles with stubbornly-resisting Reds.

Other South Koreans, using bayonets and hand grenades to clear the way, surged up the slopes of two other knife-edge ridges, to reach within 50 feet of the top by late afternoon.

Cold And Polio Cures, Moon Trips Seen Within 75 Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Leading chemists predict cures for the common cold and polio, rocket trips to the moon, even guarantees of no rain at picnics.

How soon? Within the next 75 years.

What they see in the crystal ball of the future is told in the diamond jubilee issue of the American Chemical Society magazine, Chemical and Engineering News. The society celebrates its 75th anniversary at a meeting here Sept. 3-7.

Prof. John C. Bailar, University of Illinois, foresees "cures or preventives available for infantile paralysis, mental illnesses, allergies, the common cold."

The complex chemistry of cancer, hardening of arteries, and arthritis will be unraveled, adds Dr. H. B. Haas, General Aniline and Film Corp., New York.

"At least one man will have circumnavigated the moon and returned safely,"—Dr. C. C. Furnas, Cornell Aeronautical Lab., Inc., Buffalo.

The first moon rocket won't be manned, says Dr. A. V. Grosse, research institute of Temple University. "It will be easily observed as it strikes the moon by the flash of magnesium in its head."

"Not only making rain but preventing it will be established practice," assuring sunny picnics—Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen, U. S. Testing Co., Inc., Boston.

Suspended State Dept. Aide Tells Of Visiting Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Oliver Edmund Clubb, suspended chief of the State Department's China section, today told of conferring with Communists during a visit he paid to the magazine New Masses while on home leave from China in 1932.

But Clubb introduced entries from a personal diary relating that when he sought out the left-wingers in New York he was "masquerading somewhat under false pretenses" and "felt too much like a stranger to show the proper revolutionary enthusiasm."

Reversing his earlier testimony, the 50-year-old witness told the House Un-American Activities Committee that among those he met at the New Masses office was Whittaker Chambers, who later confessed he had acted as a courier for a Soviet spy ring.

Clubb had told the committee last March that he didn't recall ever meeting Chambers, but he said today a diary had refreshed his memory.

Clubb gave his testimony against a background of charges that the State Department's Far East policies helped bring about the Communist conquest of China.

A veteran of many years' diplomatic service in the Far East, Clubb told the lawmakers he visited the left-wing New Masses office because he liked to meet new people when he was home on leave from foreign duty to "get the picture of conditions" in the United States.

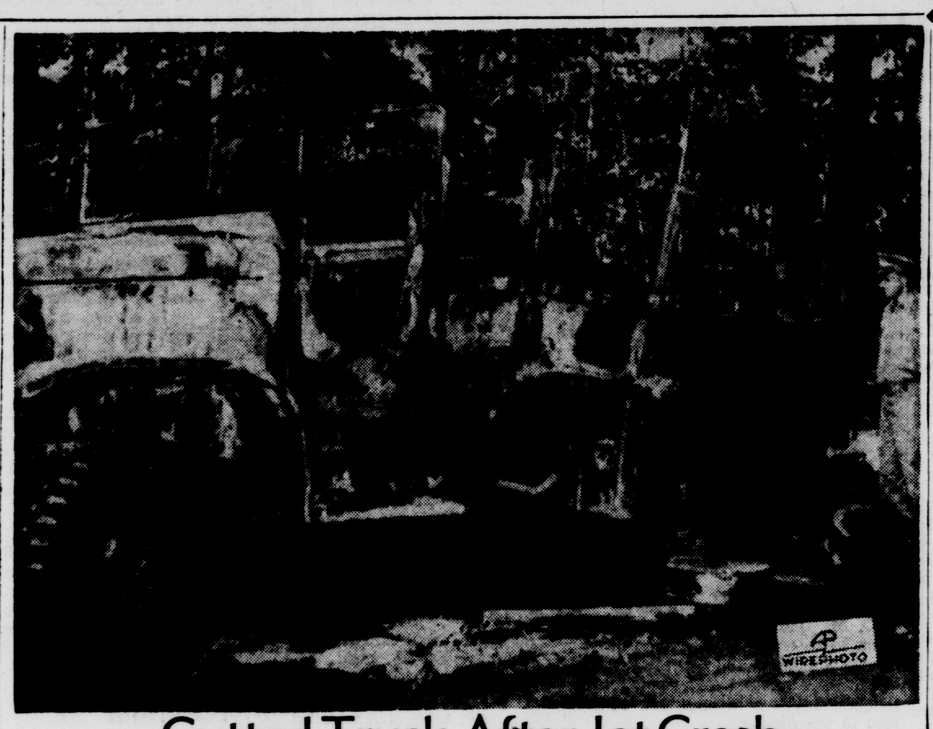
Fires Sweep Forests In Pacific Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20. (AP)—Fires ripped through the forests of Western Oregon, Washington and California today.

At some 50 scattered spots in the Pacific northwest flames ate into huge Douglas fir trees and sent smoke clouds into the sky.

Humidity was down to 10 per cent in some of the woods areas and Oregon and Washington foresters kept all logging operations shut down. That put 35,000 men out of work. The Western Washington ban was on a day-to-day basis. The Western Oregon closure was "until fall rains come."

There has been no rain of consequence since May.



Gutted Truck After Jet Crash

A soldier examines the charred wreckage of an Army truck which was struck and set afire by a crashing jet training plane at Fort Dix, N. J., yesterday, killing 11 men and injuring 22. The plane bounced off the loaded truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training.

Butler's Senate Campaign Hailed By Sen. M'Carthy

Served To Expose 'Reds In Government'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Republican campaign tactics in Maryland's 1950 senatorial election were defended today by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who said they served to expose "Communists in government."

A Senate subcommittee which investigated the contest denounced the campaign conducted in behalf of Sen. Butler (R-Md.) as a "despicable 'back street' type." It said "non-Maryland outsiders" were important factors in it and named McCarthy as one of them.

But the committee did not recommend that Butler be unseated. The Baltimore lawyer defeated former Sen. Millard Tydings, a Democrat, by 43,000 votes.

Butler's Campaign Praised

McCarthy, rising in the Senate to make a minority report on the inquiry, claimed Butler's campaign was "intelligent and courageous." He said it was quite true that he had participated in the campaign and added that he intended to take part in others.

Communists in government was the "one big issue" of the Butler-Tydings campaign, the Wisconsin Senator said, and the investigating committee's report, signed by seven Democrats and two Republicans, failed to take this into account.

Before he ran for reelection, Tydings had directed a Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges that Reds had infiltrated the State Department. A majority of the Tydings committee denounced the McCarthy charges as a hoax. McCarthy repeated today his contention that the inquiry was a "whitewash."

Charges Tydings Lied

"Why the (elections) subcommittee feels it was proper for Tydings to lie and put the finger on the Butler campaign for exposing that lie, I don't know," McCarthy said.

"Sen. Tydings lied about the State Department files, and he lied about the FBI investigation of them. It was a dishonest thing on the part of Tydings. All we did is expose them."

McCarthy also claimed that Tydings refused to call witnesses whose names were offered to him. Some of this evidence is now coming out in other hearings, he said.

Three Money Bills Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today three big appropriations bills, trimmed by a total of $320,000,000 under President Truman's budget requests.

The bills provide $2,512,004,000 for the Labor and Federal Security Departments, $802,988,000 for Agriculture and $511,865,336 for the Interior Department.

President Truman had asked for $251,334,000 more than the amount approved for Labor and Federal Security, $17,017,546 more for Agriculture, and $52,220,664 more for Interior.

1,000 Papers Stolen

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 20 (AP)—The Huntington Publishing Co. today offered $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who stole nearly 1,000 copies of the Herald-Dispatch from West Huntington streets this morning.

Probers Told Red Spies Influenced Jap Attack On U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — A Japanese official swore today that a Communist spy ring helped to influence Japan to attack the United States in World War II, and had tipped Russia before Pearl Harbor that the plans would bear fruit.

The sworn testimony was given by Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for Japan's attorney general, at a surprise meeting of the Senate Security Subcommittee.

Yoshikawa, speaking through an interpreter, said he learned the story from the confession of Richard Sorge, head of the spy ring, whom the Japanese hanged in 1943 for espionage.

Senate Passes Defense Housing Bill Compromise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate approved and sent to the House today a $1,635,000,000 defense housing bill, designed to help provide housing for workers in critical defense areas.

As agreed to by a joint Senate-House committee which worked out the differences between original Senate and House versions of the bill, lower down payments on low and moderate priced houses would be permitted all over the nation.

Down payments would range as low as four per cent of the purchase price of a house costing $7,000 or less, on a GI loan. The GI down payment on a house in the $7,000-$10,000 range would be six per cent, and eight per cent on one in the $10,000-$12,000 class.

A 10 per cent down payment would be required on a $7,00 house on which the Federal Housing Administration insured the mortgage, or which was conventionally financed. This would step up to 15 per cent down on a $7,000-$10,000 house, and 20 per cent on one costing from $10,000 to $12,000.

Purchasers would have 25 years to pay. The terms are considerably easier than those now required under residential credit regulation "X," which also operates on a sliding scale.

The conferees agreed also to permit the government-owned Federal National Mortgage Association to make commitments to purchase up to $200,000,000 in mortgages between now and the end of the year. This would be to cover loans made under the Military Housing Act, dwellings in critical defense areas, and housing made necessary by disasters, such as floods.

McFarland Raps Republican RFC Report Charges

'Political Poppycock,' Ariz. Democrat Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz) told the Senate today that Republican charges made against President Truman in a minority report on the RFC investigation are "political poppycock."

The majority leader accused the Republicans of "smirking piety" and "demogogic political inference and innuendo." No one can charge the President with "personal or official dishonesty," McFarland declared.

His attack was directed at a blistering report written by Sens. Capehart (R-Ind) and Bricker (R-Ohio) as an aftermath of a Senate subcommittee's inquiry into lending policies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Pendergast Politics" Charged

Bricker and Capehart said Mr. Truman and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle have transferred corrupt "Pendergast politics" to a national level. They charged that Donald Dawson, the President's patronage chief, has been proved "incapable of honest duty." They also hit at government "blood suckers" and "political parasites."

The charges against Mr. Truman and Boyle. McFarland said, are "the high point in political effrontery, in sheer undiluted political hokum."

"No man living can point a finger at Harry Truman and charge personal or official dishonesty," McFarland said. "No man living can say Harry Truman is corrupt."

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) characterized the charges against the President and Boyle as "scurrilous."

Democrats' Version Is Milder

Three Democratic members of the subcommittee came out with a majority report asserting they have fully proved charges the RFC fell prey to a political influence ring "with White House contacts."

But their version was much milder, more general, and didn't call names.

Fulbright, who is chairman of the subcommittee, said the GOP minority report was so partisan he regretted it had to be printed at public expense.

Thus the subcommittee closed its books on a sensational year-long investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the government's big lending agency.

Aid Bill Action Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Senate committee action on the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program was delayed today when not enough senators showed up for a meeting.

Five Russian Exile Groups Unite To Fight Dictatorship

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 20 (AP)—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the short-lived Russian Republic after the 1917 revolution, said tonight five anti-Communist Russian exile groups have banded together to fight dictatorship in their homeland.

The merged exiles call themselves the "Council for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia."

In an interview the aging anti-Communist declared "the Soviet Union intends to fight a global war when the financial structure of the United States, Britain and France is weakened."

"Russia is now conducting a peace war," he said. "She is deceiving the people. The purpose is not peace at all but war."

Kerensky came from America to lead the refugee talks and presided at the four-day meeting. They met in strict secrecy, guarded by German plain clothes officers. Delegates feared Communist reprisals as they formed the five-ply organization.

Joy Tells Nam Probe Doesn't Back Up Claim

Shooting Attributed To Korean Civilians

MUNSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21. (AP)—Deadlocked Korean truce talks appeared headed into a new crisis today because of a shooting in the neutral zone near Kaesong, site of the conference.

However, Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes and Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke left Munsan as usual today for subcommittee talks at Kaesong on the tangled armistice buffer zone issue.

A strongly-worded protest by Korean Lt. Nam Il, chief Red armistice delegate, blamed Allied troops for the slaying of a Chinese patrol leader Sunday morning.

Nam demanded a "satisfactory reply" at once.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior United Nations truce delegate, replied from Tokyo today that a preliminary investigation by a joint Allied - Communist liaison group "does not substantiate the charges you have made."

Joy added that he would reply fully to Nam after he gets a complete report from the investigators.

Korean Civilians Blamed

A U. N. command statement Monday night attributed the shooting to Korean civilians trying to sabotage the truce talks. The statement said preliminary investigation "failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any United Nations military formation."

It said "the possibility exists that the shooting was the work of a politically-guided civilian group operating under instructions to create an atmosphere of tension which would tend to support the breaking off of the current military armistice conference."

Elaborating, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. delegation spokesman, told correspondents "there are indications that there is a segment, mainly political in nature, who feel their war against the South Koreans should be continued."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo issued a statement Monday night, however, which left open whether North Korean or South Korean civilians may have done the shooting.

Dressed In Civilian Clothes

The Ridgway headquarters statement said "preliminary questioning of witnesses has disclosed that many of the assailants were dressed in civilian clothes and did not wear steel helmets or other military garb.

"Some witnesses stated that a great number of the participants were civilians, who may be partisans of either side who are intent on sabotaging the efforts of the delegations to arrive at a satisfactory armistice negotiations."

The South Koreans have consistently protested any settlement leaving Korea divided, and there have been many indications that the North Korean Reds also want everything or nothing.

While the neutral zone dispute remained up in the air, the Reds appeared intent on capitalizing on the incident. An elaborately-staged

Oregon Convicts Continue Strike

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP) — Thirteen hundred convicts refused tonight to end their sitdown strike in exchange for food. They haven't had a meal since Thursday breakfast.

Warden George Alexander won the first break in the six-day strike when 40 trusties went back to work this morning.

As the warden gained this ground, there came a hint that move to oust him immediately might not succeed. Gov. Douglas McKay said the prison board of control is not going to be hurried into picking a new warden. Alexander has been slated for several months to shift to a new job as administrator in which he would not have a hand in prisoner control.

Although Alexander's edict of work-or-don't-eat brought the 40 trusties—mostly cooks, truck drivers, and gardeners—into line this morning, there was no hint from the quiet cell blocks that the 1,310 other foodless convicts were ready to follow suit.

They have been flavoring their water with salt and calling it chicken soup or mixing in sugar for energy, a prisoner released today said in an interview. The released man, George A. McIntyre, Boston, who completed 10 months for larceny by bailee, said the inmates started their strike without premeditation. It just grew, he said, after Guard Lt. Morris Race used a billy club on a prisoner in breaking up a fight.

Price Says USSR A-Bombs Potent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Congress was told today that the Russians have more and bigger atom bombs than previously believed, but that they are in for a "sad" time if they start a world war.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.) made the first part of the statement — about Russia's atomic progress. He told the House:

"There is no question but what Russia has more atom bombs than we expected and they are bigger and more potent than previously believed."

On the other side of the Capitol Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said about the same time that the military high command had given legislators the following assurance:

"The Russians would find it a very, very sad affair if they attack us now."

Price is a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. He protested a deep slash made by the House Appropriations Committee in funds for civil defense. The committee cut the fund from $535,000,000 to $65,255,000, saying administration officials had not presented any "realistic" plan.

McKeldin Would Back "Ike" If Nominated

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, continuing a vacation tour of the Pacific coast, today told an interviewer he would support Gen. Eisenhower for president in 1952 if the General is nominated.

However, the Governor said he does not favor Eisenhower for President.

Price Lids Taken Off Antique Autos

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Price ceilings were removed from antique automobiles today.

OPS, which took the action, said it applies to all cars more than 25 years old.

Such vehicles are not to be confused with ordinary jalopies of less hoary vintages. OPS said that when a car passes its 25h birthday, it enters the antique class and usually has a value far higher than younger used cars.

McCarran Warns Of Aliens' Threat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said today that possibly 5,000,000 aliens have poured into the country illegally, creating a situation "potentially more dangerous" than an armed invasion.

Vast numbers of "militant Communists, Sicilian bandits and other criminals" are among the 5,000,000, McCarran stated.

He said they would provide an enemy nation with "a ready-made fifth column."

McCarran is chairman of a Senate subcommittee on internal security. The group has just completed an investigation of alleged subversive activities in the United States. The Nevada Senator said his information about illegal aliens came from secret testimony by immigration officials.

Handicapped by lack of funds and staff, the Immigration Service has made little effort to seek out unwanted foreigners and deport them, McCarran said. His statement accompanied the subcommittee's report to the Senate.

Iranian Oil Talks On Verge Of Collapse

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 20 (AP)—British-Iranian oil talks were reported tonight on the edge of collapse—kept going only by the abrupt threat of American Envoy Averell Harriman to withdraw from his peacemaking role.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was reported visibly shaken by Harriman's threat and accusation that the Iranians were not negotiating "in good faith" to break the deadlock that has closed the British-owned but nationalized Abadan oil refinery.

After a two-hour talk with Harriman and Richard Stokes, the British negotiator, Mossadegh told reporters he was "hopeful" new talks would have good results.

ITU Told It Has Fight On Hands

ATLANTA, Aug. 20 (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers' Association was told by a labor union today that it had a fight on its hands. The warning came from two attorneys for the International Typographical Union, now holding its 93rd convention.

Earlier, the printers heard AFL President William Green characterize Sen. Robert Taft (R-O) as "an organizer of Communism in America." Green said the Taft-Hartley law "has made people resentful and they may turn their faces toward Communism."

The attorneys Gerhart Van Arkle and Henry Kaiser, were highly critical of the National Labor Relations Board.

Van Arkle, commenting on the number of cases brought against the ITU before the labor board and utrin court, asserted: "Our defeat is sought by the sheer volume of litigation. The ITU will not be litigated out of existence."

Van Arkle told the convention that under the Taft-Hartley law they could not enforce a demand for jurisdiction over the varitype or teletypesetter processes of printing.

To strike over that demand would be, he said, a jurisdictional dispute within the meaning of the Taft-Hartley Act—and jurisdictional disputes are forbidden even where non-union workers are involved.

Bride-To-Be Winner Of 'Powder Puff Derby'

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP) — Miss Claire McMillen, a tall blonde bride-to-be from Santa Ana, Calif., tonight was declared the winner of the fifth annual all-woman transcontinental air race—the so-called "Powder Puff Derby."

Miss McMillen, 27, piloted the Cessna 140 "Bellflower Belles" across the finish line of the Santa Ana-to-Detroit race late Friday afternoon, a little more than 48 hours after the takeoff. Her co-pilot was Mrs. Frances Bera, 26, Bellflower, Calif.

Youth, 16, Has His First Sip Of Water

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, his life despaired of when he was born without an esophagus—the tube that carries food to the stomach—had his first sip of water today.

"It felt kind of ticklish," said Robert Earl Linsig, Marlboro, N. Y.

Today's drink was made possible by an operation five years ago.

Doctors then joined his stomach and mouth with a section of his small intestine. It didn't take at the time, but the makeshift esophagus was left in place.

Now, after another operation on the same tube, doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian-Medical Center are cautiously hopeful.

Slain OSS Major's Body Brought Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — The body of Maj. William V. Holohan, victim of a mysterious cloak-and-dagger slaying in wartime Italy, was brought home today after seven years.

The bronze casket was lowered from a Navy transport to a flag-draped pier at the Brooklyn Army Base.

Two of Maj. Holohan's American comrades in an Office of Strategic Services behind-the-lines mission are accused by the Defense Department of helping slay Holohan.

Every employee who is eligible to vote has a stake in the Union Security election today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The unfair Taft-Hartley Law counts every eligible vote not cast as a vote against Union Security.

This unfair law says if you are in hospital, sick or disabled at home, absent on vacation, or not scheduled to work any of the election days your eligible vote is counted against Union Security.

Celanese Workers About The Union Security Election

The Union Security clause negotiated in your contract will not be legally valid until a majority of Celanese workers vote "YES" at the National Labor Relations Board election on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The "red tape" of the unfair Taft-Hartley Law makes it necessary to go to the expense and inconvenience of holding this election. It will cost the United States government, the Union and the company MONEY. It will INCONVENIENCE Celanese workers.

In August 1948 Celanese workers voted more than one hundred to one at the same type of an election, on the same question, in favor of Union Security. The vote was 7530 voting YES and only 75 voting NO.

Now we have to go through with it again!

Can You Figure This Out?

When we vote for a senator, congressman, governor, state legislator, mayor, city councilman, sheriff or any other elected public official it is only necessary for the candidate to get a majority OF THE VOTES CAST in order to win election. THAT IS THE DEMOCRATIC WAY.

The Taft-Hartley Law thinks this is too good for labor unions of working people. So The Taft-Hartley Law says that Celanese workers can not have UNION SECURITY unless a majority OF ALL ELIGIBLE VOTERS cast favorable ballots in the election. THAT IS TAFT-HARTLEY LAW TYRANNY.

Can you figure it out?

It Is Up To You To Vote!

You may wonder about the ELIGIBLE voters who are sick, in hospital, away on vacation or absent from work owing to other emergencies during the election . . . and are UNABLE to go to the plant and vote?

Well, the answer to that is simple. The Taft-Hartley Law counts THEM—and everyone who doesn't vote—as being AGAINST Union Security! Yes, that's the Taft-Hartley Law!

So, it is up to every Celanese worker who IS able to be in the plant on election days to cast his or her vote for Union Security.

Voting will take place on this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 21, 22 and 23. Times and places are posted on all Bulletin Boards and in Local 1874 handbills.

Local 1874 members won out against the same obstacles in 1948 by better than one hundred to one vote. Let's do it again!

Price Says USSR A-Bombs Potent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Congress was told today that the Russians have more and bigger atom bombs than previously believed, but that they are in for a "sad" time if they start a world war.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.) made the first part of the statement — about Russia's atomic progress. He told the House:

"There is no question but what Russia has more atom bombs than we expected and they are bigger and more potent than previously believed."

On the other side of the Capitol Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said about the same time that the military high command had given legislators the following assurance:

"The Russians would find it a very, very sad affair if they attack us now."

Price is a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. He protested a deep slash made by the House Appropriations Committee in funds for civil defense. The committee cut the fund from $535,000,000 to $65,255,000, saying administration officials had not presented any "realistic" plan.

McKeldin Would Back "Ike" If Nominated

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, continuing a vacation tour of the Pacific coast, today told an interviewer he would support Gen. Eisenhower for president in 1952 if the General is nominated.

However, the Governor said he does not favor Eisenhower for President.

Price Lids Taken Off Antique Autos

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Price ceilings were removed from antique automobiles today.

OPS, which took the action, said it applies to all cars more than 25 years old.

Such vehicles are not to be confused with ordinary jalopies of less hoary vintages. OPS said that when a car passes its 25h birthday, it enters the antique class and usually has a value far higher than younger used cars.

McCarran Warns Of Aliens' Threat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said today that possibly 5,000,000 aliens have poured into the country illegally, creating a situation "potentially more dangerous" than an armed invasion.

Vast numbers of "militant Communists, Sicilian bandits and other criminals" are among the 5,000,000, McCarran stated.

He said they would provide an enemy nation with "a ready-made fifth column."

McCarran is chairman of a Senate subcommittee on internal security. The group has just completed an investigation of alleged subversive activities in the United States. The Nevada Senator said his information about illegal aliens came from secret testimony by immigration officials.

Handicapped by lack of funds and staff, the Immigration Service has made little effort to seek out unwanted foreigners and deport them, McCarran said. His statement accompanied the subcommittee's report to the Senate.

Iranian Oil Talks On Verge Of Collapse

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 20 (AP)—British-Iranian oil talks were reported tonight on the edge of collapse—kept going only by the abrupt threat of American Envoy Averell Harriman to withdraw from his peacemaking role.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was reported visibly shaken by Harriman's threat and accusation that the Iranians were not negotiating "in good faith" to break the deadlock that has closed the British-owned but nationalized Abadan oil refinery.

After a two-hour talk with Harriman and Richard Stokes, the British negotiator, Mossadegh told reporters he was "hopeful" new talks would have good results.

ITU Told It Has Fight On Hands

ATLANTA, Aug. 20 (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers' Association was told by a labor union today that it had a fight on its hands. The warning came from two attorneys for the International Typographical Union, now holding its 93rd convention.

Earlier, the printers heard AFL President William Green characterize Sen. Robert Taft (R-O) as "an organizer of Communism in America." Green said the Taft-Hartley law "has made people resentful and they may turn their faces toward Communism."

The attorneys Gerhart Van Arkle and Henry Kaiser, were highly critical of the National Labor Relations Board.

Van Arkle, commenting on the number of cases brought against the ITU before the labor board and utrin court, asserted: "Our defeat is sought by the sheer volume of litigation. The ITU will not be litigated out of existence."

Van Arkle told the convention that under the Taft-Hartley law they could not enforce a demand for jurisdiction over the varitype or teletypesetter processes of printing.

To strike over that demand would be, he said, a jurisdictional dispute within the meaning of the Taft-Hartley Act—and jurisdictional disputes are forbidden even where non-union workers are involved.

Bride-To-Be Winner Of 'Powder Puff Derby'

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP) — Miss Claire McMillen, a tall blonde bride-to-be from Santa Ana, Calif., tonight was declared the winner of the fifth annual all-woman transcontinental air race—the so-called "Powder Puff Derby."

Miss McMillen, 27, piloted the Cessna 140 "Bellflower Belles" across the finish line of the Santa Ana-to-Detroit race late Friday afternoon, a little more than 48 hours after the takeoff. Her co-pilot was Mrs. Frances Bera, 26, Bellflower, Calif.

The mother is Mrs. Muriel Brown, 27.

Youth, 16, Has His First Sip Of Water

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, his life despaired of when he was born without an esophagus—the tube that carries food to the stomach—had his first sip of water today.

"It felt kind of ticklish," said Robert Earl Linsig, Marlboro, N. Y.

Today's drink was made possible by an operation five years ago.

Doctors then joined his stomach and mouth with a section of his small intestine. It didn't take at the time, but the makeshift esophagus was left in place.

Now, after another operation on the same tube, doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian-Medical Center are cautiously hopeful.

Slain OSS Major's Body Brought Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — The body of Maj. William V. Holohan, victim of a mysterious cloak-and-dagger slaying in wartime Italy, was brought home today after seven years.

The bronze casket was lowered from a Navy transport to a flag-draped pier at the Brooklyn Army Base.

Two of Maj. Holohan's American comrades in an Office of Strategic Services behind-the-lines mission are accused by the Defense Department of helping slay Holohan.

Anti-Communist Council Urges That War In Korea Be Kept Going

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Council Against Communist Aggression urges that the war in Korea be kept going, saying that is better than any end to the fighting that is likely to come out of the Kaesong cease-fire talks.

The organization, made up of some union officials, writers, students and other individuals interested in the Far East and in the strategy of Communism, argued against accepting in Korea anything less than a unified nation safe from renewed Red attack

Its statement summed up the point in this manner.

"Short of the utopia of a unified, free and independent Korea, our best chance to win peace in Asia is active or stalemated hostility in Korea which will tie down Chinese Communist and allied Soviet forces until French and free Viet-Namese in Indo-China and British in Malaya have crushed the Communist rebels and the Philipinos have eliminated them from their islands.

"Buttressed by settlement of the Kashmir dispute on any reasonable basis, extension of the new Pacific pact of the United States, New Zealand and Australia to the Philippines and a rearmed Japan, linked with a Southeast Asia alliance when they are ready, we can gain and hold sections of Asia for freedom as decisive in their sphere as Western Europe.

"Because of Soviet Communism's greater military vulnerability in East Asia, this can effectively counter-weight Soviet Russia against further aggression in Western Europe, where Stalin's forces are at the same time most secure and most offensively powerful."

The council, formed in Philadelphia early this year, has the announced aim of "dissemination of democracy's information in aid of world freedom."

New Traffic Light Awaited By Police

Police are awaiting the arrival of a new traffic light for installation at Baltimore and Mechanic Street.

The "old" light was practically demolished July 28 by a tractor-trailer, authorities said, adding the new post will be set back one foot to allow large vehicles more space.

Extradition Of Suspects

The request of an Italian court for extradition of two American former OSS agents accused of the murder of Major William Holohan must be approved by the Italian Foreign Ministry before it can reach the U. S. State Department. But the responsibility of the State Department thereafter is clear. It would request warrants and affidavits and arrange for a hearing before a United States commissioner or federal judge.

If sufficient evidence were submitted to support the Italian charges, the men—Aldo Icardi and Carl LoDolce—would have to be turned over to the Italian court for trial. Frequently in cases of extradition between nations, one country can refuse to turn over its own citizens for trial by another. But the U. S. Supreme Court ruled in 1913 that the American treaty with Italy on extradition covered American nationals accused of committing crimes in Italy.

In the case of Charlton v. Kelly the Court decided that Porter Charlton must be given over to Italian authorities for the alleged murder of his wife. Evidence had been put before a federal court in New Jersey that Charlton was insane. But Italy had sent copies of a confession which it said Charlton had signed.

Part of the Charlton case revolved around the meaning of the word "persons" in the U. S.-Italian treaty on extradition of 1868. In the words of the treaty, "The Government of the United States and the Government of Italy mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been convicted of or charged with the crimes in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other." Murder is one of the crimes named in the next article.

Said the Court: "That the word 'persons' etymologically includes citizens as well as those who are not can hardly be debatable. The treaty contains no reservation of citizens of the country of asylum."

An interesting aspect of the Charlton case is the fact that the Italian penal code of that time provided that Italian nationals could not be extradited for crimes committed abroad. In requesting Charlton's extradition, Italy argued that the penal code was consistent with the treaty in that Italian nationals could be prosecuted in Italy for crimes committed abroad, whereas under U. S. law Americans could not be tried in the United States for crimes committed elsewhere.

Some doubt remains of the jurisdiction of Italy in the slaying of Holohan. In December, 1944, the whole northern part of Italy was still in Axis hands. An Italian court has ruled, however, that Italy does have jurisdiction over two alleged Italian participants in the murder plot.

The question of extradition has arisen, too, in the demand of Poland that Sweden return 12 Polish sailors who fled the country in a Polish minesweeper. Sweden has already granted asylum to the mutineers and to four other Poles who escaped by airplane.

The United States has been generous in providing the privilege of asylum to political refugees from countries behind the Iron Curtain. Moreover, a provision of the 1949 Central Intelligence Act appears to encourage defection. Admission is authorized for 100 aliens a year who can give information "in the interest of national security or essential to the furtherance of the national intelligence mission."

Monopoly In Boxing

Professional boxing will be the subject of a congressional investigation similar to that being given organized baseball by the House Monopoly Subcommittee if three senators from the Northwest have their way. Sens. Cain (R., Wash.) and Welker (R., Ida.) have introduced a resolution (S. Res. 191) calling for an inquiry into control of boxers by the International Boxing Club, and Sen. Magnuson (D., Wash.) is sponsoring another (S. Res. 189) to bring television restrictions in boxing under scrutiny.

The senatbrs argue that when Joey Maxim makes a long-delayed defense of his light-heavyweight title on Wednesday, his opponent should be Harry "Kid" Matthews—constituent of Cain and Magnuson and native son of Welker's Idaho—rather than "Irish" Bob Murphy. Matthews trounced Murphy in March but is being snubbed, the senators contend, by the IBC monopoly.

International Boxing Club was formed in 1949 following the first retirement of Joe Louis from the ring. Louis was then said to be the principal promoter. IBC soon absorbed the previous promotional monopoly, Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting Club, and a short-lived rival, the Tournament of Champions.

The power of the IBC lies in the exclusive service contracts it holds to promote fights by most of the country's leading boxers. This power is fortified by the syndicate's control of boxing in Madison Square Garden, the New York ball parks, and other principal sports arenas throughout the country.

Magnuson's concern over whether the IBC is "preventing or hindering the American public from viewing" boxing and wrestling "through the medium of television" contrasts sharply with a congressional attitude of some 40 years ago. In 1912 interstate shipment of prize fight films was flatly prohibited. The law was passed because of racial feeling aroused by the defeat of a white heavyweight by the Negro champion, Jack Johnson. However, it was violated with impunity in later years and finally was repealed in 1940.

Needed Investigation

The reaction of many Americans to the report that the Bureau of Internal Revenue is to be subjected to a congressional investigation will be that it's about time. They remember the charges that tax collectors have taken bribes and extorted money from taxpayers, that tax cases have been settled through political influence and that certain gangsters have enjoyed easy treatment at the bureau's hands.

The specific purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether the tax laws are being fairly and efficiently administered, whether the staffs are competent and, in general, whether the system is properly organized to collect the billions of money annually contributed by the people to the support of their government. These are proper objectives but the by-products of such an investigation can provide sensations not unlike those which accompanied the RFC hearings.

The mere fact that in one New York district alone eight deputy collectors were convicted of bribery is enough to show what may be revealed in a country-wide study.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Glands Swell In Hodgkin's Disease

Hodgkin's Disease is a rare condition leading to progressive enlargement of the lymph nodes. To some authorities the malady has all the earmarks of inflammation; to others it resembles a neoplasm (tumor).

Symptoms are just as vague as the cause. There are lymph structures all over the body and early manifestations depend upon the set involved initially. The most common symptom is swelling of the neck glands. Now and then it occurs rapidly as in the gentleman described by Dr. Antonio Rottino of New York City. This man discovered, while shaving one morning, that his neck was enlarged; the preceding day it had been normal. In another instance a mother sent her child to a St. Patrick's day parade. She had washed his neck thoroughly before dressing him; when the youngster returned that afternoon, she noticed swollen nodes in the neck. By the next day they had grown so large that she took the boy to the hospital for advice.

It so happened that in both patients, Hodgkin's disease was the diagnosis but as a rule swelling of the neck glands has simpler origins. In children the condition is quite common and usually can be traced to sore throat, tonsilitis, or ear infection.

When the glands in the groin or axilla are attacked first in Hodgkin's disease, swelling in these areas is marked; but glands on the inside of the body, such as in the chest and abdomen, also may be involved and considerable enlargement is necessary before any sign of trouble is produced. When this occurs, the disorder may escape detection for months or years. A good example of this type of involvement is illustrated by the young men who was sent to the hospital because of fever and slight cough. X-ray of the chest revealed a mass that was interpreted as a tumor. A short time later a gland in the neck began to enlarge. It was removed and sent to the laboratory, where the correct diagnosis was made. In this case, the true situation was not discovered until the ailment had spread to a more accessible area.

In the early stage of the disease the affliction is confined to the glands. The nodes are small and isolated in the beginning but later increase in size and number so that great collections of tumors appear in any of the locations mentioned.

Ultimately, the swelling presses upon more vital structures such as the windpipe, the blood vessels, esophagus (gullet), gall bladder, stomach, and even the spinal cord. The spleen also enlarges. Meanwhile, appetite wanes, weight is lost, anemia develops, and fever is present. Unless treated, the disorder may be fatal within two or three years.

This illness cannot be prevented because the cause is not known and there is no way of determining who will become a victim. But with treatment it is possible to elleviate symptoms, reduce glandular swelling, and prolong life for many years. The best plan to date is X-ray, especially in the early stages before spread has occurred all over the body. Nitrogen mustard also is used, as well as certain isotopes.

EAR PULSE

B.Z. writes: For several months the pulse beat in my left ear has been throbbing noticeably. Can you explain this peculiar sensation?

REPLY

It may be due to ear infection or blockage of the canal. A circulatory disturbance and an abnormality of the blood vessels are other possibilities. A checkup is in order.

HYPOSPRAY

H. N. writes: Is the hypospray that received so much publicity still in use?

REPLY

I doubt it, because I have seen no follow-up reports on this instrument. There may be reasons other than medical which center about its manufacture and sale.

TOO MUCH D

Mrs. Y. writes: What ill effects could develop from taking too much vitamin D?

REPLY

An overdosage disturbs calcium metabolism and as a result the arteries, liver, and kidneys suffer. In some instances kidney stones form and uremia occurs. This complication came to the attention of the medical profession several years ago when massive doses of vitamin D were recommended in the treatment of arthritis over a long period of time. The fad ended after several fatalities were reported.

BALLOON BLOWING

Mrs. D. writes: My child was playing a balloon blowing game with other youngsters and she fainted. The game was not as exciting or fatiguing as some that children play. Could loss of oxygen be responsible for her fainting attack?

REPLY

This is possible but because it is unusual for children to faint may I suggest that you bring this matter to the attention of your family physician?

Arranging Convoy For "Winds Of Freedom" Operation Like Loading Circus Train; Friendship Balloons Will Help Stay Moscow's Hand In Starting A War

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is again on a tour of Europe, studying conditions there. His column today takes the form of a letter written from Germany to his wife about her son.)

MUNICH, GERMANY

Dear L. W.:

Driving up toward the Czech border the other night, about dusk, I noticed a big van lumbering along with a little car behind it. The van looked like it was lost from our convoy and we stopped it to inquire.

In the little car behind was your son. He was pushing the driver of that van like a terrier biting the heels of a recalcitrant bull because that van contained the most important part of our "Winds of Freedom" operation — namely, the messages we were sending that night to the people of Czechoslovakia.

I left the car full of VIP's where I was riding and joined your son, not only because I enjoy his company but to see what it was all about. What happened was that the friendship messages to the Czech people had been late arriving in Munich from Cincinnati and we had to get new messages printed in Germany. The latter also were too late to join the main truck convoy which had left Munich at noon so Tyler was commissioned to remain behind to see that the most important part of our operation got to the border on time.

I am writing you because I know he hasn't fulfilled his promise to write you every day but I think, when you read this, you'll understand why.

The Winds of Freedom, incidentally, shift back and forth along the border and neither he nor I knew exactly where to join the other trucks. But he had instructions to meet a lookout in front of the post office in Weiden, a little town 10 miles from the border. The lookout directed us 10 miles in another direction, where we sighted our convoy and where your son finally delivered the 2,000,000 messages to the Czech people on time.

The trucks were parked on a narrow road on the Bavarian hillside almost on a straight line toward Pilsen and Prague, the two largest cities of Czechoslovakia.

Arranging a convoy is a complicated operation, somewhat like loading a circus train and it reminded me of my old ten-wrecking days. Electric generators are at one end of the convoy, though far enough away so that no sparks can reach the hydrogen tanks used to fill the balloons, these are filled inside the truck and launched from its rear end. Next come four sidegate trucks for rubber balloons. The latter are so big they can't be filled inside the trucks, so the hydrogen tanks are lead sideways with a hose extending to the balloon-launching tables on the side of the road.

Tyler operated the valve on the hydrogen tank, supervising a crew of three Germans. The balloon is inflated with hydrogen until it touches two inverted table legs about four feet apart. When it reaches this diameter, it is tied at the bottom and sent on its way across the iron curtain. I autographed one of these balloons for Gottwald and Stalin.

The long line of trucks parked alongside a Bavarian wheat stubblefield made a fascinating, eerie spectacle in the night — the gutteral German voices, the swish-swish of the flowing hyrogen, and the steady silent launching of the big bags as they slipped off into the darkness.

The boys were getting off their missives to Prague pretty regularly —about 1,300, all told—when it started to drizzle. We kept going for a while, since rain doesn't impede the balloons. They rise above the clouds in no time, but it does get the men wet. So at 2 a. m. we finally laid off; everyone was pretty well soaked.

I sat in the car for a while, waiting for the rain to stop but when it didn't I used the excuse that I had to get to the cable office, and at 3 a. m. headed back for Munich. I'm getting old, I guess, and can't take it.

Before I left, however, I went down the line of murky trucks, trying to find your son. I finally located him sitting inside a truck, listening to German veterans and ex-prisoners swapping war experiences with American GI students—men who had once been fighting each other but who now worked together launching friendship messages to another people whom they hoped they wouldn't have to fight.

Germans, incidentally, supposed to be the military master race, seem to me completely pacifict. German youngsters are just as unenthusiastic about raising an army as your son and other American youngsters are about the draft. Sometimes I think it's chiefly the old dodoes who are complacent about the prospect of war. However, I'm convinced that Moscow wants to wait a considerable time before it plunges the world into war. Its satellite peoples are too restless and would turn against the Kremlin in case of war. That's why I think this balloon deal, coming at this particu ar time, may help. It's only a drop in the bucket of course, and lots of people will pooh-pooh it but you have to make a start some way or other in attempts at penetrating the iron curtain, so we've taken the frist step.

Anyway, I drove back to Munich at 3 a. m., leaving your son up on the border. They resumed launching the balloons at 4 a. m. and continued until 6 but he didn't get back to Munich with the trucks until noon, making a 28-hour day—from 8 a. m. till 12 noon the next day.

The winds weren't quite right the day following, however, and he got 12 hours sleep through last night. When I arrived at the border at 2 a. m. they were at it again, continuing until 6 a. m. They planned to lay over until noon, let the men sleep on the roadside, and then unloose another barrage which would hit Prague about 4 p. m., just as the people were starting home from work.

Well, that's why your son hasn't written and why I am trying to report for him.

I am very lonesome and anxious to get home. It's rained a lot here and I hope you've had some of it at home. When I left the pastures were just about burned up. See you soon.

DREW.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Strange goings on these days at the White House—at least, as the tale is told by Senator Neely, Democrat, of West Virginia, who took a delegation of members of Congress with him the other day to see the President and afterward revealed that a important defense contract, involving millions of dollars, has become a matter of political controversy inside the Democratic party.

With billions of dollars of taxpayers' money being disbursed and with the President in his speeches assuming an air of righteous indignation toward those who cast doubts on the fidelity of his Administration to the public interest, it is strange, indeed, to read the following from a United Press dispatch:

"A West Virginia congressional delegation said after a talk with President Truman that New York State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick is trying to get a government contract for a distilling firm to operate an ordnance plant at Morgantown, W. Va.

"Senator Matthew Neely, Democrat, and three Democratic House members — Harley O. Staggers, Cleveland M. Bailey and Mrs. Elizabeth Kee — told Mr. Truman about the tug-of-war within the Democratic party over the plant.

Favor Different Firms

"Neely said afterward that Fitzpatrick saw the President yesterday "in behalf of United Distillers of America," one of the two companies seeking to operate the Morgantown plant to produce ammonia. Neely and his delegation favor awarding the contract to the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation . .

"Neely said he and his associates did not ask the President to take any specific action, but that they went to the White House because Fitzpatrick 'spoke for the other side yesterday.'. . . .

" 'We want to settle this thing on its merit, not on politics.' Neely said."

When the foregoing was published, Mr. Fitzpatrick denied that he had asked President Truman to intervene in awarding the contract but added that he did bring the facts to the attention of Representative Celler, Democrat, chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee studying monopolies. Mr. Fitzpatrick said he asked that the facts be studied and the award made on its merits.

According to the Associated Press, Senator Neely revealed also that Mr. Celler "had spoken to Undersecretary of the Army Archibald Alexander in behalf of United Distillers," which had been "chartered in New Jersey not long ago for the purpose of bidding on the Morgantown lease."

What does all this mean—that the Democratic leaders are engaged in a controversy as to whose influence shall prevail in the awarding of defense contracts? Why shouldn't the Department of the Army make those decisions without pressure from any side, and why should the President be asked to decide these matters, especially as between members of his own party?

Obviously, Republican as well as Democrats pay the taxes that finance the huge defense contracts. Obviously also, the White House is not the place to decide matters of this kind — and yet when one side hears that the other side has access to the ear of the President on such matters, it s natural for the fur to fly.

Doesn't Help Matters

Not long ago, the President denied public accusations that another member of the Democratic political hierarchy—William M. Boyle, Jr.—had any connection with the awarding of an RFC loan.

Thus far the President has said nothing as to the nature of the Fitzpatrick-Neely controversy about the ammonia plant, and the public might not have known anything about it but for the candor of Senator Neely.

In the recent discussion about the use of influence to get contracts awarded, much was said about the activities of politicians. In the normal course these things are not likely to stir attention but, when there is supposed to be a war emergency and the public is asked to pay heavier and heavier taxes, it is indeed regrettable to observe a titanic struggle between political leaders over the award of a defense contract. It can only add to the very atmosphere of suspicion and distrust which Mr. Truman himself was decrying the other day in his speech to the American Legion.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Truman And McCarthy

There can be no question that Senator Joe McCarthy has finally got under the skin of President Harry Truman. This has very little to do with McCarthyism, which is a smear-word that may be defined as indiscriminate disclosure of names of alleged Communists and homosexuals on the Senate floor. It has everything to do with careful, scientific investigation by the McCarran Committee, which is establishing beyond doubt a pattern of Communist infiltration into our government.

The McCaran investigation has been inadequately reported because it is not dramatizing anything. No attempt is being made to pillory anyone. Witnesses are treated with courtesy and fairness. There is little noise.

But an astonishing record is being built document by document, word by word. And it is not premature to say that there are indications that the evidence will show, in the end, that the Tydings Committee did perform a white-wash.

Whatever anyone may say about Joe McCarthy and the methods that he employs, the McCarran Committee record stands. For instance, I am now reading the transcript of the testimony of Dr. Karl Wittfogel, a former German Communist, a scholar of outstanding stature, now professor at the University of Washington and in charge of a Chinese history project at Columbia University.

It has alrdeay been established by the committee that the Institute of Pacific Relations had developed a tremendous influence in the determination of our Far Eastern policy through the placement of persons associated wtih it in key positions. It has not been established or even asserted that the Institute ever was or is now a Communist organization. Thus far, it has been shown that the principal personalities, during the development period of the Institute, were Edward C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore.

Dr. Wittfogel's testimony is very important as showing the direction of this Institute in developing the American China policy:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . The prestige that you received by this listing in connection with the IPR was of value to you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. It was wonderful. At the time when people knew nothing about me. . . Anyhow, I had a lovely time. I was introduced to people and was received by the president of Stanford University. Wherever, I went, I was referred to as a man who had written a wonderful book. I knew my friends didn't read this book because they didn't read German.

"Anyhow, I had a wonderful time. I must say, later on when I did something which contributed to the scholarship of this country, I was no longer connected, by umbilical cord or otherwise, I was deemphasized and I wasn't even introduced to the janitors of universities.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, while they thought you were a Communist, you received a listing; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is right.

"Senator Ferguson. In that listing, then, you had entree to certain people and certain society; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is correct.

"Senator Ferguson. But when you were definitely known to be not Communist, then this all disappeared?

"Dr. Wittfogel. The thing faded away.

"Senator Ferguson. Did you find they did not want you in the Institute of Pacific Relations as a noncommunist?

"Dr. Wittfogel. I didn't go near it, but I was not invited. . . .

"I was invited to one more conference, I made myself disagreeable. After that time, whatever my scholarship was, objective sources seemed to think, it had not decreased but increased. I didn't compensate for the wrong development of my political position.

"Senator Ferguson. You think by being a noncommunist in connection with the Institute of Pacific Relations, they had no use for you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is the way it looked.

"Senator Ferguson. You are satisfied as to that?

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

The reader might ask, "What does this prove?" He might even ask, "Why trust an ex-Communist?" Yet, as I read the pages of this testimony and note the disclosure of evidence in correspondence among these persons, intended for their eyes alone, I can realize how a politically-minded individual like Harry Truman can lose his temper at what Joe McCarthy started. The record that is being built can, in a campaign, be very unpleasant.

For it was McCarthy's hurling of names that forced this question of Communist infiltration to the fore. True, many of there men were not Communists; they were perhaps dupes or dopes. But the country is paying a ghastly bill for their activities, and we need to protect ourselves against more of the same.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Atomic Plenty

WASHINGTON—

National strategy flows, or ought to flow, directly from the facts of the national situation. When the facts change, the strategy must change. Or else, because the transformation of the national situation has been ignored, national strategy becomes obsolete, inefficient and perhaps even unworkable.

These rather threadbare truisms are relevant at the moment because the central, dominating fact that has shaped all post-war American strategic thinking is rather rapidly ceasing to be a fact at all. Instead of being incredibly rare and incredibly costly, the fissionable raw stuff of atomic weapons, although still expensive, is becoming relatively plentiful. This revolutionary development, which has as yet been hardly noticed, results from the interaction of two different processes.

The first process, which is as yet experimental, is the work that is being done with the so-called breeder reactor. Its purpose is to make better use of the basic raw material of the whole atomic program, uranium.

Schoolboy Stuff

It is almost schoolboy stuff, nowadays, that uranium is composed of two isotopes. The common isotope, which comprises 99.3 per cent of the world's uranium supply, is the inert U-238. The rare isotope, which comprises only seventenths of 1 per cent, is the radioactive U-235. Only radioactive U-235 is directly fissionable. Hence the Manhattan District program originally centered around the appallingly difficult and troublesome problem of separating out the pure U-235 which formed the heart of the Hiroshima bomb.

Even before the end of the war, in the Hanford pile, means were found to transmute some of the inert U-238 into fissionable plutonium. This, in itself, had the effect of multiplying our total resources of fissionable raw stuff, and the Nagasaki bomb was a plutonium bomb. The breeder reactor, speaking very crudely and non-technically, represents another means of getting a vastly higher proportion of fissionable raw stuff out of U-238 —of doing the same sort of job as the Hanford pile, but doing it quite differently and doing it far better.

The theory, which has been published, revolves around a more efficient use of the liberated neutrons which promote chain reactions. But the theory, for public purposes, is far less important than the practical fact that the breeder reactor experiments appear to be succeeding. The first test model ought to be completed and doing its work this autumn. And if the new breeder reactor lives up to expectations, the result will be a potential multiplication of our atomic resources by a secret but certainly significant figure.

Want Bigger Bang

The proven process working in precisely the same direction is simply the refinement of atomic bomb design, in order to make more efficient use of the fissionable raw stuff already in hand. One line of experiment has been towards getting a bigger bang, which means that fewer bombs can be used to destroy a given target. Thus the last of the three bombs exploded at Eniwetok was what the scientists, in their grim way, call a "hundred kiloton bomb," or the equivalent in power of 100,000 tons of high explosive. The primitive Hiroshima bomb was the equivalent, it will be recalled, of a mere 20,000 tons of high explosive.

The other line of experiment has been towards getting an atomic explosion with less fissionable raw stuff—with what is called a "subcritical mass." The first results in this field were successfully tested at Las Vegas, Nevada, some months ago, when a mere five kiloton bomb, well-adapted for tactical use on the battlefield, was touched off. Further tests at Las Vegas are scheduled for October, it can now be disclosed. And besides the several new models of tactical bombs which will then be exploded in Nevada, tests are also planned, probably for the United States Army proving grounds in Utah, of atomic explosions underground.

Even the Eniwetok and first Nevada tests are known to have had an effect equivalent to increasing our resources of fissionable raw stuff from two to four times. Probably the correct figure is that we can now make three times as many effective bombs with the raw stuff in hand as we could have before these tests. Presumably the new tests will carry the process stil further. Consider these facts in conjunction with the high hopes for the breeder reactor. Remember that a plentiful supply of atomic weapons is a very different order of magnitude from a plentiful supply of artillery ammunition, for instance.

The only possible conclusion is that we are moving from extreme scarcity towards relative plenty in the vital atomic field. The technical details—how many bombs, how they are made and so on—need not and should not concern the general public. But in a presumably free society, the public will determines broad lines of national policy; and policy must inevitably be deeply influenced by this transition from scarcity to plenty.

Extradition Of Suspects

The request of an Italian court for extradition of two American former OSS agents accused of the murder of Major William Holohan must be approved by the Italian Foreign Ministry before it can reach the U. S. State Department. But the responsibility of the State Department thereafter is clear. It would request warrants and affidavits and arrange for a hearing before a United States commissioner or federal judge.

If sufficient evidence were submitted to support the Italian charges, the men—Aldo Icardi and Carl LoDolce—would have to be turned over to the Italian court for trial. Frequently in cases of extradition between nations, one country can refuse to turn over its own citizens for trial by another. But the U. S. Supreme Court ruled in 1913 that the American treaty with Italy on extradition covered American nationals accused of committing crimes in Italy.

In the case of Charlton v. Kelly the Court decided that Porter Charlton must be given over to Italian authorities for the alleged murder of his wife. Evidence had been put before a federal court in New Jersey that Charlton was insane. But Italy had sent copies of a confession which it said Charlton had signed.

Part of the Charlton case revolved around the meaning of the word "persons" in the U. S.-Italian treaty on extradition of 1868. In the words of the treaty, "The Government of the United States and the Government of Italy mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been convicted of or charged with the crimes in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other." Murder is one of the crimes named in the next article.

Said the Court: "That the word 'persons' etymologically includes citizens as well as those who are not can hardly be debatable. The treaty contains no reservation of citizens of the country of asylum."

An interesting aspect of the Charlton case is the fact that the Italian penal code of that time provided that Italian nationals could not be extradited for crimes committed abroad. In requesting Charlton's extradition, Italy argued that the penal code was consistent with the treaty in that Italian nationals could be prosecuted in Italy for crimes committed abroad, whereas under U. S. law Americans could not be tried in the United States for crimes committed elsewhere.

Some doubt remains of the jurisdiction of Italy in the slaying of Holohan. In December, 1944, the whole northern part of Italy was still in Axis hands. An Italian court has ruled, however, that Italy does have jurisdiction over two alleged Italian participants in the murder plot.

The question of extradition has arisen, too, in the demand of Poland that Sweden return 12 Polish sailors who fled the country in a Polish minesweeper. Sweden has already granted asylum to the mutineers and to four other Poles who escaped by airplane.

The United States has been generous in providing the privilege of asylum to political refugees from countries behind the Iron Curtain. Moreover, a provision of the 1949 Central Intelligence Act appears to encourage defection. Admission is authorized for 100 aliens a year who can give information "in the interest of national security or essential to the furtherance of the national intelligence mission."

Monopoly In Boxing

Professional boxing will be the subject of a congressional investigation similar to that being given organized baseball by the House Monopoly Subcommittee if three senators from the Northwest have their way. Sens. Cain (R., Wash.) and Welker (R., Ida.) have introduced a resolution (S. Res. 191) calling for an inquiry into control of boxers by the International Boxing Club, and Sen. Magnuson (D., Wash.) is sponsoring another (S. Res. 189) to bring television restrictions in boxing under scrutiny.

The senatbrs argue that when Joey Maxim makes a long-delayed defense of his light-heavyweight title on Wednesday, his opponent should be Harry "Kid" Matthews — constituent of Cain and Magnuson and native son of Welker's Idaho—rather than "Irish" Bob Murphy. Matthews trounced Murphy in March but is being snubbed, the senators contend, by the IBC monopoly.

International Boxing Club was formed in 1949 following the first retirement of Joe Louis from the ring. Louis was then said to be the principal promoter. IBC soon absorbed the previous promotional monopoly, Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting Club, and a short-lived rival, the Tournament of Champions.

The power of the IBC lies in the exclusive service contracts it holds to promote fights by most of the country's leading boxers. This power is fortified by the syndicate's control of boxing in Madison Square Garden, the New York ball parks, and other principal sports arenas throughout the country.

Magnuson's concern over whether the IBC is "preventing or hindering the American public from viewing" boxing and wrestling "through the medium of television" contrasts sharply with a congressional attitude of some 40 years ago. In 1912 interstate shipment of prize fight films was flatly prohibited. The law was passed because of racial feeling aroused by the defeat of a white heavyweight by the Negro champion, Jack Johnson. However, it was violated with impunity in later years and finally was repealed in 1940.

Needed Investigation

The reaction of many Americans to the report that the Bureau of Internal Revenue is to be subjected to a congressional investigation will be that it's about time. They remember the charges that tax collectors have taken bribes and extorted money from taxpayers, that tax cases have been settled through political influence and that certain gangsters have enjoyed easy treatment at the bureau's hands.

The specific purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether the tax laws are being fairly and efficiently administered, whether the staffs are competent and, in general, whether the system is properly organized to collect the billions of money annually contributed by the people to the support of their government. These are proper objectives but the by-products of such an investigation can provide sensations not unlike those which accompanied the RFC hearings.

The mere fact that in one New York district alone eight deputy collectors were convicted of bribery is enough to show what may be revealed in a country-wide study.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Glands Swell In Hodgkin's Disease

Hodgkin's Disease is a rare condition leading to progressive enlargement of the lymph nodes. To some authorities the malady has all the earmarks of inflammation; to others it resembles a neoplasm (tumor).

Symptoms are just as vague as the cause. There are lymph structures all over the body and early manifestations depend upon the set involved initially. The most common symptom is swelling of the neck glands. Now and then it occurs rapidly as in the gentleman described by Dr. Antonio Rottino of New York City. This man discovered, while shaving one morning, that his neck was enlarged; the preceding day it had been normal. In another instance a mother sent her child to a St. Patrick's day parade. She had washed his neck thoroughly before dressing him; when the youngster returned that afternoon, she noticed swollen nodes in the neck. By the next day they had grown so large that she took the boy to the hospital for advice.

It so happened that in both patients, Hodgkin's disease was the diagnosis but as a rule swelling of the neck glands has simpler origins. In children the condition is quite common and usually can be traced to sore throat, tonsilitis, or ear infection.

When the glands in the groin or axilla are attacked first in Hodgkin's disease, swelling in these areas is marked; but glands on the inside of the body, such as in the chest and abdomen, also may be involved and considerable enlargement is necessary before any sign of trouble is produced. When this occurs, the disorder may escape detection for months or years. A good example of this type of involvement is illustrated by the young men who was sent to the hospital because of fever and slight cough. X-ray of the chest revealed a mass that was interpreted as a tumor. A short time later a gland in the neck began to enlarge. It was removed and sent to the laboratory, where the correct diagnosis was made. In this case, the true situation was not discovered until the ailment had spread to a more accessible area.

In the early stage of the disease the affliction is confined to the glands. The nodes are small and isolated in the beginning but later increase in size and number so that great collections of tumors appear in any of the locations mentioned.

Ultimately, the swelling presses upon more vital structures such as the windpipe, the blood vessels, esophagus (gullet), gall bladder, stomach, and even the spinal cord. The spleen also enlarges. Meanwhile, appetite wanes, weight is lost, anemia develops, and fever is present. Unless treated, the disorder may be fatal within two or three years.

This illness cannot be prevented because the cause is not known and there is no way of determining who will become a victim. But with treatment it is possible to elleviate symptoms, reduce glandular swelling, and prolong life for many years. The best plan to date is X-ray, especially in the early stages before spread has occurred all over the body. Nitrogen mustard also is used, as well as certain isotopes.

EAR PULSE

B.Z. writes: For several months the pulse beat in my left ear has been throbbing noticeably. Can you explain this peculiar sensation?

REPLY

It may be due to ear infection or blockage of the canal. A circulatory disturbance and an abnormality of the blood vessels are other possibilities. A checkup is in order.

HYPOSPRAY

H. N. writes: Is the hypospray that received so much publicity still in use?

REPLY

I doubt it, because I have seen no follow-up reports on this instrument. There may be reasons other than medical which center about its manufacture and sale.

TOO MUCH D

Mrs. Y. writes: What ill effects could develop from taking too much vitamin D?

REPLY

An overdosage disturbs calcium metabolism and as a result the arteries, liver, and kidneys suffer. In some instances kidney stones form and uremia occurs. This complication came to the attention of the medical profession several years ago when massive doses of vitamin D were recommended in the treatment of arthritis over a long period of time. The fad ended after several fatalities were reported.

BALLOON BLOWING

Mrs. D. writes: My child was playing a balloon blowing game with other youngsters and she fainted. The game was not as exciting or fatiguing as some that children play. Could loss of oxygen be responsible for her fainting attack?

REPLY

This is possible but because it is unusual for children to faint may I suggest that you bring this matter to the attention of your family physician?

Arranging Convoy For "Winds Of Freedom" Operation Like Loading Circus Train; Friendship Balloons Will Help Stay Moscow's Hand In Starting A War

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is again on a tour of Europe, studying conditions there. His column today takes the form of a letter written from Germany to his wife about her son.)

MUNICH, GERMANY

Dear L. W.:

Driving up toward the Czech border the other night, about dusk, I noticed a big van lumbering along with a little car behind it. The van looked like it was lost from our convoy and we stopped it to inquire.

In the little car behind was your son. He was pushing the driver of that van like a terrier biting the heels of a recalcitrant bull because that van containued the most important part of our "Winds of Freedom" operation — namely, the messages we were sending that night to the people of Czechoslovakia.

I left the car full of VIP's where I was riding and joined your son, not only because I enjoy his company but to see what it was all about. What happened was that the friendship messages to the Czech people had been late arriving in Munich from Cincinnati and we had to get new messages printed in Germany. The latter also were too late to join the main truck convoy which had left Munich at noon so Tyler was commissioned to remain behind to see that the most important part of our operation got to the border on time.

I am writing you because I know he hasn't fulfilled his promise to write you every day but I think, when you read this, you'll understand why.

The Winds of Freedom, incidentally, shift back and forth along the border and neither he nor I knew exactly where to join the other trucks. But he had instructions to meet a lookout in front of the post office in Weiden, a little town 10 miles from the border. The lookout directed us 10 miles in another direction, where we sighted our convoy and where your son finally delivered the 2,000,000 messages to the Czech people on time.

The trucks were parked on a narrow road on the Bavarian hillside almost on a straight line toward Pilsen and Prague, the two largest cities of Czechoslovakia.

Arranging a convoy is a complicated operation, somewhat like loading a circus train and it reminded me of my old ten-wrecking days. Electric generators are at one end of the convoy, though far enough away so that no sparks can reach the hydrogen tanks used to fill the balloons, these are filled inside the truck and launched from its rear end. Next come four sidegate trucks for rubber balloons. The latter are so big they can't be filled inside the trucks, so the hydrogen tanks are lead sideways with a hose extending to the balloon-launching tables on the side of the road.

Tyler operated the valve on the hydrogen tank, supervising a crew of three Germans. The balloon is inflated with hydrogen until it touches two inverted table legs about four feet apart. When it reaches this diameter, it is tied at the bottom and sent on its way across the iron curtain. I autographed one of these balloons for Gottwald and Stalin.

The long line of trucks parked alongside a Bavarian wheat stubblefield made a fascinating, eerie spectacle in the night — the gutteral German voices, the swish-swish of the flowing hyrogen, and the steady silent launching of the big bags as they slipped off into the darkness.

The boys were getting off their missives to Prague pretty regularly —about 1,300, all told—when it started to drizzle. We kept going for a while, since rain doesn't impede the balloons. They rise above the clouds in no time, but it does get the men wet. So at 2 a. m. we finally laid off; everyone was pretty well soaked.

I sat in the car for a while, waiting for the rain to stop but when it didn't I used the excuse that I had to get to the cable office, and at 3 a. m. headed back for Munich. I'm getting old, I guess, and can't take it.

Before I left, however, I went down the line of murky trucks, trying to find your son. I finally located him sitting inside a truck, listening to German veterans and ex-prisoners swapping war experiences with American GI students—men who had once been fighting each other but who now worked together launching friendship messages to another people whom they hoped they wouldn't have to fight.

Germans, incidentally, supposed to be the military master race, seem to me completely pacifict. German youngsters are just as unenthusiastic about raising an army as your son and other American youngsters are about the draft. Sometimes I think it's chiefly the old dodoes who are complacent about the prospect of war. However, I'm convinced that Moscow wants to wait a considerable time before it plunges the world into war. Its satellite peoples are too restless and would turn against the Kremlin in case of war. That's why I think this balloon deal, coming at this particu ar time, may help. It's only a drop in the bucket of course, and lots of people will pooh-pooh it but you have to make a start some way or other in attempts at penetrating the iron curtain, so we've taken the frist step.

Anyway, I drove back to Munich at 3 a. m., leaving your son up on the border. They resumed launching the balloons at 4 a. m. and continued until 6 but he didn't get back to Munich with the trucks until noon, making a 28-hour day—from 8 a. m. till 12 noon the next day.

The winds weren't quite right the day following, however, and he got 12 hours sleep through last night. When I arrived at the border at 2 a. m. they were at it again, continuing until 6 a. m. They planned to lay over until noon, let the men sleep on the roadside, and then unloose another barrage which would hit Prague about 4 p. m., just as the people were starting home from work.

Well, that's why your son hasn't written and why I am trying to report for him.

I am very lonesome and anxious to get home. It's rained a lot here and I hope you've had some of it at home. When I left the pastures were just about burned up. See you soon.

DREW.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Strange goings on these days at the White House—at least, as the tale is told by Senator Neely, Democrat, of West Virginia, who took a delegation of members of Congress with him the other day to see the President and afterward revealed that a important defense contract, involving millions of dollars, has become a matter of political controversy inside the Democratic party.

With billions of dollars of taxpayers' money being disbursed and with the President in his speeches assuming an air of righteous indignation toward those who cast doubts on the fidelity of his Administration to the public interest, it is strange, indeed, to read the following from a United Press dispatch:

"A West Virginia congressional delegation said after a talk with President Truman that New York State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick is trying to get a government contract for a distilling firm to operate an ordnance plant at Morgantown, W. Va.

"Senator Matthew Neely, Democrat, and three Democratic House members — Harley O. Staggers, Cleveland M. Bailey and Mrs. Elizabeth Kee — told Mr. Truman about the tug-of-war within the Democratic party over the plant.

Favor Different Firms

"Neely said afterward that Fitzpatrick saw the President yesterday "in behalf of United Distillers of America," one of the two companies seeking to operate the Morgantown plant to produce ammonia. Neely and his delegation favor awarding the contract to the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation . .

"Neely said he and his associates did not ask the President to take any specific action, but that they went to the White House because Fitzpatrick 'spoke for the other side yesterday.'....

" 'We want to settle this thing on its merit, not on politics.' Neely said."

When the foregoing was published, Mr. Fitzpatrick denied that he had asked President Truman to intervene in awarding the contract but added that he did bring the facts to the attention of Representative Celler, Democrat, chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee studying monopolies. Mr. Fitzpatrick said he asked that the facts be studied and the award made on its merits.

According to the Associated Press, Senator Neely revealed also that Mr. Celler "had spoken to Undersecretary of the Army Archibald Alexander in behalf of United Distillers," which had been "chartered in New Jersey not long ago for the purpose of bidding on the Morgantown lease."

What does all this mean—that the Democratic leaders are engaged in a controversy as to whose influence shall prevail in the awarding of defense contracts? Why shouldn't the Department of the Army make those decisions without pressure from any side, and why should the President be asked to decide these matters, especially as between members of his own party?

Obviously, Republican as well as Democrats pay the taxes that finance the huge defense contracts. Obviously also, the White House is not the place to decide matters of this kind — and yet when one side hears that the other side has access to the ear of the President on such matters, it s natural for the fur to fly.

Doesn't Help Matters

Not long ago, the President denied public accusations that another member of the Democratic political hierarchy—William M. Boyle, Jr.—had any connection with the awarding of an RFC loan.

Thus far the President has said nothing as to the nature of the Fitzpatrick-Neely controversy about the ammonia plant, and the public might not have known anything about it but for the candor of Senator Neely.

In the recent discussion about the use of influence to get contracts awarded, much was said about the activities of politicians. In the normal course these things are not likely to stir attention but, when there is supposed to be a war emergency and the public is asked to pay heavier and heavier taxes, it is indeed regrettable to observe a titanic struggle between political leaders over the award of a defense contract. It can only add to the very atmosphere of suspicion and distrust which Mr. Truman himself was decrying the other day in his speech to the American Legion.

These Days

Truman And McCarthy

There can be no question that Senator Joe McCarthy has finally got under the skin of President Harry Truman. This has very little to do with McCarthyism, which is a smear-word that may be defined as indiscriminate disclosure of names of alleged Communists and homosexuals on the Senate floor. It has everything to do with careful, scientific investigation by the McCarran Committee, which is establishing beyond doubt a pattern of Communist infiltration into our government.

The McCaran investigation has been inadequately reported because it is not dramatizing anything. No attempt is being made to pillory anyone. Witnesses are treated with courtesy and fairness. There is little noise.

But an astonishing record is being built document by document, word by word. And it is not premature to say that there are indications that the evidence will show, in the end, that the Tydings Committee did perform a white-wash.

Whatever anyone may say about Joe McCarthy and the methods that he employs, the McCarran Committee record stands. For instance, I am now reading the transcript of the testimony of Dr. Karl Wittfogel, a former German Communist, a scholar of outstanding stature, now professor at the University of Washington and in charge of a Chinese history project at Columbia University.

It has alrdeay been established by the committee that the Institute of Pacific Relations had developed a tremendous influence in the determination of our Far Eastern policy through the placement of persons associated wtih it in key positions. It has not been established or even asserted that the Institute ever was or is now a Communist organization. Thus far, it has been shown that the principal personalities, during the development period of the Institute, were Edward C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore.

Dr. Wittfogel's testimony is very important as showing the direction of this Institute in developing the American China policy:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . The prestige that you received by this listing in connection with the IPR was of value to you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. It was wonderful. At the time when people knew nothing about me. . . Anyhow, I had a lovely time. I was introduced to people and was received by the president of Stanford University. Wherever, I went, I was referred to as a man who had written a wonderful book. I knew my friends didn't read this book because they didn't read German.

"Anyhow, I had a wonderful time. I must say, later on when I did something which contributed to the scholarship of this country, I was no longer connected, by umbilical cord or otherwise, I was deemphasized and I wasn't even introducd to the janitors of universities.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, while they thought you were a Communist, you received a listing; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is right.

"Senator Ferguson. In that listing, then, you had entree to certain people and certain society; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is correct.

"Senator Ferguson. But when you were definitely known to be not Communist, then this all disappeared?

"Dr. Wittfogel. The thing faded away.

"Senator Ferguson. Did you find they did not want you in the Institute of Pacific Relations as a noncommunist?

"Dr. Wittfogel. I didn't go near it, but I was not invited...

"I was invited to one more conference, I made myself disagreeable. After that time, whatever my scholarship was, objective sources seemed to think, it had not decreased but increased. I didn't compensate for the wrong development of my political position.

"Senator Ferguson. You think by being a noncommunist in connection with the Institute of Pacific Relations, they had no use for you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is the way it looked.

"Senator Ferguson. You are satisfied as to that?

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

The reader might ask, "What does this prove?" He might even ask, "Why trust an ex-Communist?" Yet, as I read the pages of this testimony and note the disclosure of evidende in correspondence among these persons, intended for their eyes alone, I can realize how a politically-minded individual like Harry Truman can lose his temper at what Joe McCarthy started. The record that is being built can, in a campaign, be very unpleasant.

For it was McCarthy's hurling of names that forced this question of Communist infiltration to the fore. True, many of there men were not Communists; they were perhaps dupes or dopes. But the country is paying a ghastly bill for their activities, and we need to protect ourselves against more of the same.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Atomic Plenty

WASHINGTON—

National strategy flows, or ought to flow, directly from the facts of the national situation. When the facts change, the strategy must change. Or else, because the transformation of the national situation has been ignored, national strategy becomes obsolete, inefficient and perhaps even unworkable.

These rather threadbare truisms are relevant at the moment because the central, dominating fact that has shaped all post-war American strategic thinking is rather rapidly ceasing to be a fact at all. Instead of being incredibly rare and incredibly costly, the fissionable raw stuff of atomic weapons, although still expensive, is becoming relatively plentiful. This revolutionary development, which has as yet been hardly noticed, results from the interaction of two different processes.

The first process, which is as yet experimental, is the work that is being done with the so-called breeder reactor. Its purpose is to make better use of the basic raw material of the whole atomic program, uranium.

Schoolboy Stuff

It is almost schoolboy stuff, nowadays, that uranium is composed of two isotopes. The common isotope, which comprises 99.3 per cent of the world's uranium supply, is the inert U-238. The rare isotope, which comprises only seven-tenths of 1 per cent, is the radioactive U-235. Only radioactive U-235 is directly fissionable. Hence the Manhattan District program originally centered around the appallingly difficult and troublesome problem of separating out the pure U-235 which formed the heart of the Hiroshima bomb.

Even before the end of the war, in the Hanford pile, means were found to transmute some of the inert U-238 into fissionable plutonium. This, in itself, had the effect of multiplying our total resources of fissionable raw stuff, and the Nagasaki bomb was a plutonium bomb. The breeder reactor, speaking very crudely and non-technically, represents another means of getting a vastly higher proportion of fissionable raw stuff out of U-238—of doing the same sort of job as the Hanford pile, but doing it quite differently and doing it far better.

The theory, which has been published, revolves around a more efficient use of the liberated neutrons which promote chain reactions. But the theory, for public purposes, is far less important than the practical fact that the breeder reactor experiments appear to be succeeding. The first test model ought to be completed and doing its work this autumn. And if the new breeder reactor lives up to expectations, the result will be a potential multiplication of our atomic resources by a secret but certainly significant figure.

Want Bigger Bang

The proven process working in precisely the same direction is simply the refinement of atomic bomb design, in order to make more efficient use of the fissionable raw stuff already in hand. One line of experiment has been towards getting a bigger bang, which means that fewer bombs can be used to destroy a given target. Thus the last of the three bombs exploded at Eniwetok was what the scientists, in their grim way, call a "hundred kiloton bomb," or the equivalent in power of 100,000 tons of high explosive. The primitive Hiroshima bomb was the equivalent, it will be recalled, of a mere 20,000 tons of high explosive.

The other line of experiment has been towards getting an atomic explosion with less fissionable raw stuff—with what is called a "subcritical mass." The first results in this field were successfully tested at Las Vegas, Nevada, some months ago, when a mere five kiloton bomb, well-adapted for tactical use on the battlefield, was touched off. Further tests at Las Vegas are scheduled for October, it can now be disclosed. And besides the several new models of tactical bombs which will then be exploded in Nevada, tests are also planned, probably for the United States Army proving grounds in Utah, of atomic explosions underground.

Even the Eniwetok and first Nevada tests are known to have had an effect equivalent to increasing our resources of fissionable raw stuff from two to four times. Probably the correct figure is that we can now make three times as many effective bombs with the raw stuff in hand as we could have before these tests. Presumably the new tests will carry the process stil further. Consider these facts in conjunction with the high hopes for the breeder reactor. Remember that a plentiful supply of atomic weapons is a very different order of magnitude from a plentiful supply of artillery ammunition, for instance.

The only possible conclusion is that we are moving from extreme scarcity towards relative plenty in the vital atomic field. The technical details—how many bombs, how they are made and so on—need not and should not concern the general public. But in a presumably free society, the public will determines broad lines of national policy; and policy must inevitably be deeply influenced by this transition from scarcity to plenty.

Women Being Entertained At Parties

Numerous parties are being given in compliment to three members of an informal bridge club, Mrs. J. Gordon Mitchell, Greene Street; Mrs. Albert Wagner, Hagerstown, formerly from here; and Mrs. Elmer Carter, New York.

Mrs. Mitchell is leaving the latter part of this month for Alberta, Canada, to join her husband who was transferred there by the Celanese Corporation of America. Mrs. Wagner is the house guest of Mrs. R. J. Shepherd, Cumberland Street and the latter part of the week will visit Mrs. Morris Barnes, 19 Washington Street. Night Parking Violations Total 1,047 In Survey By City Police

A survey conducted by the Cumberland Police Department during the past week to check on all-night parking shows 1,047 violations.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long released the figures yesterday after receiving a report from Police Sgt. Frank A. Shober. None of the offenders were prosecuted.

The commissioner announced last week police would initiate an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is in violation of a city ordinance. He pointed out first "offenders" were issued courtesy warning tickets.

Violators caught will be required to post $1 bond at Police Headquarters for a hearing if it is desired. In some cases, permits will be issued to park at night.

The locations and number of violations submitted by Sgt. Shober follows:

Pennsylvania Avenue, 33; Race Street, 28; Seymour Street, 18; Grand Avenue, 63; Arch Street, 29; East Mary Street, 11; Humbird Street, 18; East Elder Street, 28; Maryland Avenue, 45; North Centre Street, 36; Columbia Street, 52; Independence Street, 21; Decatur Street, 23; Goethe Street, 29; Bellevue Street, 12, Fulton Street, 13.

Glenn Street, 10; Charles Street, 8; Davidson Street, 26; Bedford Street, 30; Washington Street, 94; Frederick Street, 27; Hanover Street, 14; North Mechanic Street, 35; Greene Street, 37; Gephart Drive, 40; Fayette Street, 47; Cumberland Street, 23.

Lee Street, 27; Waverly Terrace, 41; Marion Street, 13; Baltimore Avenue, 19; Park Street, 15; Cecelia Street, 17; Elm Street, 14; Spring Street, 10; Baker Street, 11; Emily Street, 11, and Central Avenue, 19.

Long said city garbage collections and street department workers have been hampered by cars parked all night.

Amcelle Worker Given Watch

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Rapillo, 11 Barncord Street, Ridgeley, yesterday was presented a wristwatch at the Celanese plant on the completion of 25 years service there.

The watch was presented by H. C. Givens, Jr., plant manager, and Alvin B. Storey, superintendent of the Textile Department, presented her with a 25-year emblem and certificate.

Mrs. Rapillo is employed in the coning section of the plant.

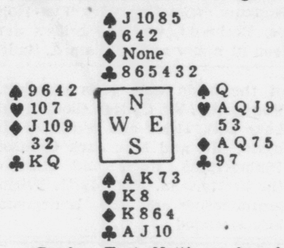
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRUMP BRINGS DISCARD

DID YOU ever shorten your own trumps intentionally by means of an "unnecessary ruff," so that you would cause your hand to have one trump less than the dummy? And did you then use that last trump to discard from your own hand some high card which otherwise would block the running of lower cards in the dummy? If you have built and made that play, you have executed one of the prettiest unnamed maneuvers in the game.



(Dealer East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♥	4 ♠

West led the heart 10 to the A and the Q came back to the K, whereupon the able declarer, Charles H Goren, of Philadelphia, proceeded upon a pretty plan. First he laid down the spade A and noted the fall of the Q. The club A dropped another Q and then the club J was led to the K. West returned the diamond J, and his opponents were surprised to see Mr. Goren discard a club from the dummy instead of ruffing there. East won that with the A and returned the diamond 5 to the K.

Now the spade 3 was led to the 10 and the carefully-saved heart 6 led so that South could ruff with the spade K. South's last trump, the 7, was now led to the 8, and the stage was set for the denouement. It was the lead of the spade J, on which the club 10 was discarded from the closed hand That unblocked the dummy's lower clubs, so that the 8 and 6 took the last two tricks.

Notice that, if that play had not been made, South could have taken only one club trick besides his A, and he therefore would have been set a trick in his game contract.

What succession of not unusual events is necessary to give South his contract of 5-Spades?

Judge Harris Disqualified From Mine Damage Case

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the trial of four youths of the Westernport area who are accused of a number of crimes involving arson, explosions and other damage of mining property in the Georges Creek section.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris said yesterday that he is disqualified from sitting on the bench as his brother, Lewis Harris, ownes a powder company which was damaged on two occasions by fires allegedly set by the youths.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday his office is preparing criminal information which will be presented to the court at the hearings. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Edward J. Ryan, attorneys for the four youths have filed petitions waiving grand jury action and asking that Fletcher's office present the cases on information.

Fletcher said this information is in the process of being prepared and the hearing for the quartet will be set as soon as possible.

Judge Harris is scheduled to go to Oakland September 10 to give the charge to the September grand jury of Garrett county.

The hearing of the four youths in court here will clear the way for the October term of court at which three murder trials will be held. All of the slayings took place within a 10-day period this month and the filing of petitions to hear the mining damage cases on information made it unnecessary to call a special session of the grand jury as first believed the only way to prevent a jam at the October term.

28 Selectees Receive Orders

Induction orders for 28 Allegany county selectees were received yesterday morning by P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator.

The contingent will leave September 17 with 12 going from Draft Board No. 27. Board Nos. 28 and 29 will send 12 and four, respectively.

Twenty-eight local registrants will receive pre-induction physical examinations next Monday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Night Parking Violations Total 1,047 In Survey By City Police

A survey conducted by the Cumberland Police Department during the past week to check on all-night parking shows 1,047 violations.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long released the figures yesterday after receiving a report from Police Sgt. Frank A. Shober. None of the offenders were prosecuted.

The commissioner announced last week police would initiate an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is in violation of a city ordinance. He pointed out first "offenders" were issued courtesy warning tickets.

Violators caught will be required to post $1 bond at Police Headquarters for a hearing if it is desired. In some cases, permits will be issued to park at night.

The locations and number of violations submitted by Sgt. Shober follows:

Pennsylvania Avenue, 33; Race Street, 28; Seymour Street, 18; Grand Avenue, 63; Arch Street, 29; East Mary Street, 11; Humbird Street, 18; East Elder Street, 28; Maryland Avenue, 45; North Centre Street, 36; Columbia Street, 52; Independence Street, 21; Decatur Street, 23; Goethe Street, 29; Bellevue Street, 12, Fulton Street, 13.

Glenn Street, 10; Charles Street, 8; Davidson Street, 26; Bedford Street, 30; Washington Street, 94; Frederick Street, 27; Hanover Street, 14; North Mechanic Street, 35; Greene Street, 37; Gephart Drive, 40; Fayette Street, 47; Cumberland Street, 23.

Lee Street, 27; Waverly Terrace, 41; Marion Street, 13; Baltimore Avenue, 19; Park Street, 15; Cecelia Street, 17; Elm Street, 14; Spring Street, 10; Baker Street, 11; Emily Street, 11, and Central Avenue, 19.

Long said city garbage collections and street department workers have been hampered by cars parked all night.

Amcelle Worker Given Watch

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Rapillo, 11 Barncord Street, Ridgeley, yesterday was presented a wristwatch at the Celanese plant on the completion of 25 years service there.

The watch was presented by H. C. Givens, Jr., plant manager, and Alvin B. Storey, superintendent of the Textile Department, presented her with a 25-year emblem and certificate.

Mrs. Rapillo is employed in the coning section of the plant.

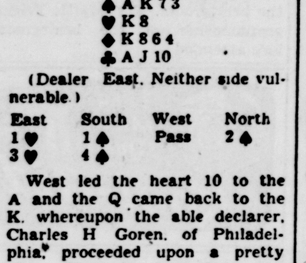
TRUMP BRINGS DISCARD

DID YOU ever shorten your own trumps intentionally by means of an "unnecessary ruff," so that you would cause your hand to have one trump less than the dummy? And did you then use that last trump to discard from your own hand some high card which otherwise would block the running of lower cards in the dummy? If you have built and made that play, you have executed one of the prettiest unnamed maneuvers in the game.



(Dealer East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♥	4 ♠

West led the heart 10 to the A and the Q came back to the K, whereupon the able declarer, Charles H Goren, of Philadelphia, proceeded upon a pretty plan. First he laid down the spade A and noted the fall of the Q. The club A dropped another Q and then the club J was led to the K. West returned the diamond J, and his opponents were surprised to see Mr. Goren discard a club from the dummy instead of ruffing there. East won that with the A and returned the diamond 5 to the K.

Now the spade 3 was led to the 10 and the carefully-saved heart 6 led so that South could ruff with the spade K. South's last trump, the 7, was now led to the 8, and the stage was set for the denouement. It was the lead of the spade J, on which the club 10 was discarded from the closed hand That unblocked the dummy's lower clubs, so that the 8 and 6 took the last two tricks.

Notice that, if that play had not been made, South could have taken only one club trick besides his A, and he therefore would have been set a trick in his game contract.

Judge Harris Disqualified From Mine Damage Case

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the trial of four youths of the Westernport area who are accused of a number of crimes involving arson, explosions and other damage of mining property in the Georges Creek section.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris said yesterday that he is disqualified from sitting on the bench as his brother, Lewis Harris, owns a powder company which was damaged on two occasions by fires allegedly set by the youths.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday his office is preparing criminal information which will be presented to the court at the hearings. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Edward J. Ryan, attorneys for the four youths have filed petitions waiving grand jury action and asking that Fletcher's office present the cases on information.

Fletcher said this information is in the process of being prepared and the hearing for the quartet will be set as soon as possible.

Judge Harris is scheduled to go to Oakland September 10 to give the charge to the September grand jury of Garrett county.

The hearing of the four youths in court here will clear the way for the October term of court at which three murder trials will be held. All of the slayings took place within a 10-day period this month and the filing of petitions to hear the mining damage cases on information made it unnecessary to call a special session of the grand jury as first believed the only way to prevent a jam at the October term.

28 Selectees Receive Orders

Induction orders for 28 Allegany county selectees were received yesterday morning by P. Emmett Fahey, clerk, co-ordinator.

The contingent will leave September 17 with 12 going from Draft Board No. 27. Board Nos. 28 and 29 will send 12 and four, respectively.

Twenty-eight local registrants will receive pre-induction physical examinations next Monday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Yanks Split With Tigers

39,540 See Detroit Win, 6-3, Lose 12-5

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra, a couple of old New York Yankee money players, smashed in six runs between them as the Yankees salvaged the second game of a twi-night doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 12-5 tonight. The second-place Yanks who lost the first game 6-3 now trail the leading Cleveland Indians by one full game.

Starter Virgil Trucks, whose only victory in the last month was over the Yankees, won the first game with the help of Pat Mullin's 11th home run.

An eight-run explosion in the fourth inning aided Joe Ostrowski to register the nightcap victory.

Berra, who had homered in the first game, also smashed one—his 20th—in the second contest to drive in two runs. DiMaggio cracked a two-run single and drew a bases-loaded walk. Fred Hutchinson suffered his seventh loss against eight wins.

The Tigers halted the five-game winning streak of Ed Lopat in the opener. Lopat's mark now is 16-7.

Trucks aided by Jerry Priddy's triple, double and single that drove in three runs, won his sixth game against seven losses.

Lover's Leap Evens Series, Often Pitches One-Hitter

Betsy Is 5-2 Victor Over Rice's; Deciding Game Set Wednesday

Betsy Often gave up only one hit—a double by Elsie McKee in the 7th inning—in pitching Lover's Leap to a 5-2 triumph over Rice's Market yesterday in the fourth game of the best-of-five games championship series of the Queens Softball League.

A large crowd at Community Park saw the aggregation managed by Francis Duckworth and Dan Clites register its second victory and square up the series at two-all.

President Earl Nonnenmann last night announced the fifth and deciding game of the series will be staged Wednesday at 6 p. m. at East Side Field. Rice's won the toss after yesterday's game and will be the home team in the final tilt. Umpires will be Conn, Dyche, Keller and Herboldsheimer.

In the games played to date, Rice's won twice at Stitcher Field, 5-4 and 8-2, and Lover's Leap copped two at Community Park, 8-5 and 5-2.

Rice's took a 1-0 lead in the second inning of yesterday's game but Lover's Leap scored two runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the seventh to put the game on ice. The Market girls registered their final marker in the 7th.

Dot Heavener with a triple and single and Alice Wertz with two singles shared four of the winners' ten hits. Clara Kreigline, third sacker, of Lover's Leap and White, shortfielder of Rice's, featured afield. Kreigline choked off a Rice rally by snaring a torrid liner while White made several nice catches in shortfield. The box:

Four Homers Power Tribe To Triumph

Garcia Bags 17th Win Over Senators, 5 To 3

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 (AP)—Four home runs powered by the Cleveland Indians to a 5 to 3 victory over the Washington Nationals tonight in the opener of an 18-game Tribe home stand. Mike Garcia hurled his second walk-free game of the season in winning his 17th against eight losses. It was the ninth straight loss for Washington.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's lead-off batter, pounded a 1-1 pitch from righthander Dick Star over the right field fence to keynote the Tribe's attack.

Later in the first inning, with two out and Larry Doby on base by a walk, Al Rosen smashed his 22nd homer of the season into the left field stands.

Bob Avila clubbed a home in the third, and Harry Simpson got the fourth Cleveland round-tripper off Starr in the sixth.

Third baseman Eddie Yost nicked Garcia for the Senators' lone homer in the seventh, but Mickey Vernon, a former Indian, gave the big bear the most trouble by getting four of Washington's 12 hits.

Vernon doubled after Pete Runnels' first-inning single to drive home the Nats' first run. He scored the Visitors' second run after leading off the sixth with a single and advancing on singles by Sam Mele and Cass Michaels.

Doby ran his string of games with safe hits to 20 with a double in the seventh. He was taken out after getting on base, and Sam Chapman finished the game while Doby rested his injured left leg.

Mickey Mantle Will Take Army Physical

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 20. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' prized baseball farmhand, reported to his local draft board this morning and left immediately for Oklahoma City to take a special army physical examination.

Mantle, now with Kansas City of the American Association, twice has been classified 4-F, once on the advice of his local draft board's physician and again after an induction station examination at Tulsa last April 20. He has a chronic leg bone infection.

The 19-year-old outfielder came here from Kansas City where his club played yesterday. He said he hoped to complete his physical tomorrow in time to catch a plane for St. Paul, Minn.

Former Penn Player Dies Of Grid Injury

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—(AP)—H. Farquhar Jones, 25-year-old former University of Pennsylvania football star, died today of a rare type of chronic anemia.

His father, Dr. Harold W. Jones, professor of clinical medicine at Jefferson Medical College, said an injury his son suffered in the 1945 Penn-Brown football game was a contributory cause.

Jones, a right halfback on the Penn team, sustained an injury of the spleen in the game. In November of 1945 he was found to be suffering from hemolytic anemia, a blood disease that destroys the red cells.

Yanks Recall Mantle

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS)—The New York Yankees tonight recalled rookie phenom Mickey Mantle from their Kansas City farm team in the American Association.

Since going back to the minors, Mantle has rapped out 60 hits, including 11 homers, nine doubles, three triples and batted in 50 runs in 40 games.

Club Owners May Delay Selection Of Commissioner

Meeting Set Today, Eleven Considered

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Election of a commissioner in the major league club owners' meeting here again tomorrow appears unlikely, say a majority of the baseball executives.

A previous meeting Aug. 7 resulted in cutting down the list of candidates to 11, including the following:

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Ford Frick, president of the National League; and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

The owners recognize that some or all of the generals may not be available. Gen. Vandenberg is reported to have notified the four-man screening already committee of his unavailability.

Weeding Out Process

Brooklyn clubowner Walter O'Malley said he is practically certain a commissioner will not be chosen because "we're still in the weeding out process."

Giles, a leading candidate to succeed A. B. (Happy) Chandler, also doubts that one will be named at this time. An American League club owner said there isn't a chance the election will take place.

Ellis Ryan, head of the Cleveland Indians and a member of the screening committee, said:

"I hoped that we would be ready to elect a commissioner. But—"

Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, and chairman of the committee, said he didn't know whether or not a commissioner would be named, "but I won't let them hurry into it and get the wrong man."

Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said the important thing is to get the right man "even if it means waiting until the winter meetings in December."

As it happens, one dissenting vote could prevent an election tomorrow. The meeting is not a formal joint session such as is needed for the election of a commissioner. It is simply an executive session. It can only be turned into a joint meeting by unanimous consent of all present. A joint meeting normally requires a 30-day call.

Candidates Contacted

According to Ryan, the same 11 candidates will be discussed tomorrow. All have been contacted. Several have declared themselves unavailable but the identity of these was not learned.

Other names, including Jim Farley, George Trautman, head of the minor leagues; Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio, and Senator Edwin Johnson (D.) of Colorado, who did not receive sufficient votes to remain in the top 11, may be re-introduced.

Before an effort is made to elect the game's third commissioner, the committee on contract revision, composed of Branch Rickey, William DeWitt and Giles, will turn in its report.

The committee also may recommend that the commissioner's salary be increased to $75,000. The late Judge Landis received $50,000, which is what was paid to Chandler until the owners decided to give him a $15,000 increase for the final three years of his seven-year term.

Former Coach Dies

IRWIN, Pa., Aug. 20—(AP)—Wilbur D. Hockensmith, 73, former football coach and trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, died at his home here last night.

Hockensmith, first alumnus to coach football at Pitt, graduated in 1901 after attending Allegheny College. He had served as a school trustee since 1936.

Little League Dodgers Crack 18-Game String

Cave Hurls 2-Hitter, Defeats Washington In Opener Of Series

Gene Cave turned in a two-h. pitching performance as Manager Bill Buzzard's Dodgers, champions of the Dan Division, drew first blood in the round robin series for the championship of the Little League by defeating the Phillies, unbeaten leaders of the Dapper Division, by the score of 4-2 last night at Penn Avenue Field.

It was the first loss suffered by the Northcraft-Boyle managed aggregation in 19 starts against Little League opponents this season. To crack this winning streak the Dodgers whipped the Phillies' best pitcher, Arthur Washington.

Wallace and Bruce walked and Fair and Valentine singled in the first inning to give the Dodgers two runs. In the third Regis Fair hit for the circuit and in the 5th singles by Cave, Hillegas and Lafferty, coupled with an error, produced the final tally.

Ronnie Diehl's single in the 4th was the lone safety yielded by Cave until the final frame when the Dodgers' hurler hit Hanekamp with a pitched ball and Arthur Washington belted a four-bagger. After one down, Cave lost control and filled the bases by walking Collins, Garlitz and pinchhitter Butts. The rally died, however, when Dunbar scooped up O'Neal's grounder and threw out Collins at the plate and McKenzie, batting for Stinson, struck out.

Two of the six hits yielded by Washington were credited to Regis Fair who garnered a homer and single. Washington fanned 10 and issued two passes — both in the first inning. Cave gave up six free tickets and whipped five.

The Dodgers won 15 and lost three during the regular campaign in the Dan Division.

A team must lose two games to be eliminated from the round robin series.

Briton Sets New Auto Speed Marks

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 20 (AP)—Lt. Col. A. T. (Goldie) Gardner, veteran British racing driver, throttled his little "Magic Midget" to new international and American land speed records today.

The 60-year-old Englishman was clocked at an unofficial 139 miles per hour. This was much better than the present one hour class international records and a number of new American marks.

A plugged oil line forced the Englishman to stop his super charged, four cylinder British car after driving for an hour. He had hoped to keep the streamlined racer roaring around the track for two hours.

Lawrence Tech Starts De-Emphasis By Canceling Basketball Schedule

Detroit College Won 20 Of 22 Last Season

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS) — Lawrence Tech of Detroit today cancelled its intercollegiate basketball schedule for 1951-52 because of a feeling that "intercollegiate sports are overemphasized throughout the country.

The fairly-small college has had a nationwide reputation for its basketball teams ever since Coach Don Ridler took hold in 1937 and has played many larger schools.

Its coming schedule would have taken the team, which won 20 and lost 2 last season, to Hawaii, and into the Buffalo Memorial Stadium, Philadelphia Convention Hall, and the Cleveland Arena.

A statement from Lawrence Tech President E. George Lawrence said that the dropping of the schedule was decided at a meeting of the board of control.

Lawrence added:

"While the board previously supported schedules of this type it felt that present conditions certainly indicate the need for de-emphasis."

The statement made no mention of the basketball "fix" scandals, but the current investigations were indicated in the mention of "present conditions."

The board lauded Athletic Director Ridler and requested that he remain at Lawrence Tech to develop an intensified program of student activities.

Lawrence Tech also played in the last National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Gardens. The team lost to Dayton who went into the finals.

Games which are being dropped this coming season were with North Dakota State, Carnegie Tech, Niagara, Colorado State, St. Bonaventure, De Paul University, Creighton, Washington & Jefferson, St. Joseph of Philadelphia, John Carroll, Idaho State and Baldwin-Wallace. Also cancelled was a Jan. 24-Feb. 6 tour of the Hawaiian Islands, including a game with the University of Hawaii.

Lover's Leap Evens Series, Often Pitches One-Hitter

Betsy Is 5-2 Victor Over Rice's; Deciding Game Set Wednesday

Betsy Often gave up only one hit—a double by Elsie McKee in the 7th inning—in pitching Lover's Leap to a 5-2 triumph over Rice's Market yesterday in the fourth game of the best-of-five games championship series of the Queens Softball League.

A large crowd at Community Park saw the aggregation managed by Francis Duckworth and Dan Clites register its second victory and square up the series at two-all.

President Earl Nonnenmann last night announced the fifth and deciding game of the series will be staged Wednesday at 6 p. m. at East Side Field. Rice's won the toss after yesterday's game and will be the home team in the final tilt. Umpires will be Conn. Dyche, Keller and Herboldsheimer.

Mike Garcia hurled his second walk-free game of the season in winning his 17th against eight losses. It was the ninth straight loss for Washington.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's leadoff batter, pounded a 1-1 pitch from righthander Dick Star over the right field fence to keynote the Tribe's attack.

Later in the first inning, with two out and Larry Doby on base by a walk, Al Rosen smashed his 22nd homer of the season into the left field stands.

Bob Avila clubbed a home in the third, and Harry Simpson got the fourth Cleveland round-tripper off Starr in the sixth.

Third baseman Eddie Yost nicked Garcia for the Senators' lone homer in the seventh, but Mickey Vernon, a former Indian, gave the big bear the most trouble by getting four of Washington's 12 hits.

Vernon doubled after Pete Runnels' first-inning single to drive home the Nats' first run. He scored the Visitors' second run after leading off the sixth with a single and advancing on singles by Sam Mele and Cass Michaels.

Doby ran his string of games with safe hits to 20 with a double in the seventh. He was taken out after getting on base, and Sam Chapman finished the game while Doby rested his injured left leg.

Vernon's double and Yost's homer were the only Washington extra-base blows, while the first five Cleveland hits off Starr all went for extra bases, and two of the three off reliefer Sid Hudson were doubles. Hudson took over for Starr who went out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Score:

Mickey Mantle Will Take Army Physical

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 20. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' prized baseball farmhand, reported to his local draft board this morning and left immediately for Oklahoma City to take a special army physical examination.

Mantle, now with Kansas City of the American Association, twice has been classified 4-F, once on the advice of his local draft board's physician and again after an induction station examination at Tulsa last April 20. He has a chronic leg bone infection.

The 19-year-old outfielder came here from Kansas City where his club played yesterday. He said he hoped to complete his physical tomorrow in time to catch a plane for St. Paul, Minn.

Former Penn Player Dies Of Grid Injury

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—(AP)—H. Farquhar Jones, 25-year-old former University of Pennsylvania football star, died today of a rare type of chronic anemia.

His father, Dr. Harold W. Jones, professor of clinical medicine at Jefferson Medical College, said an injury his son suffered in the 1945 Penn-Brown football game was a contributory cause.

Jones, a right halfback on the Penn team, sustained an injury of the spleen in the game. In November of 1945 he was found to be suffering from hemolytic anemia, a blood disease that destroys the red cells.

Yanks Recall Mantle

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS)—The New York Yankees tonight recalled rookie phenom Mickey Mantle from their Kansas City farm team in the American Association.

Since going back to the minors, Mantle has rapped out 60 hits, including 11 homers, nine doubles, three triples and batted in 50 runs in 40 games.

Club Owners May Delay Selection Of Commissioner

Meeting Set Today, Eleven Considered

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Election of a commissioner in the major league club owners' meeting here again tomorrow appears unlikely, say a majority of the baseball executives.

A previous meeting Aug. 7 resulted in cutting down the list of candidates to 11, including the following:

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Ford Frick, president of the National League; and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

The owners recognize that some or all of the generals may not be available. Gen. Vandenberg is reported to have notified the four-man screening already committee of his unavailability.

Weeding Out Process

Brooklyn clubowner Walter O'Malley said he is practically certain a commissioner will not be chosen because "we're still in the weeding out process."

Giles, a leading candidate to succeed A. B. (Happy) Chandler, also doubts that one will be named at this time. An American League club owner said there isn't a chance the election will take place.

Ellis Ryan, head of the Cleveland Indians and a member of the screening committee, said:

"I hoped that we would be ready to elect a commissioner. But—"

Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, and chairman of the committee, said he didn't know whether or not a commissioner would be named, "but I won't let them hurry into it and get the wrong man."

Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said the important thing is to get the right man "even if it means waiting until the winter meetings in December."

As it happens, one dissenting vote could prevent an election tomorrow. The meeting is not a formal joint session such as is needed for the election of a commissioner. It is simply an executive session. It can only be turned into a joint meeting by unanimous consent of all present. A joint meeting normally requires a 30-day call.

Candidates Contacted

According to Ryan, the same 11 candidates will be discussed tomorrow. All have been contacted. Several have declared themselves unavailable but the identity of these was not learned.

Other names, including Jim Farley, George Trautman, head of the minor leagues; Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio, and Senator Edwin Johnson (D.) of Colorado, who did not receive sufficient votes to remain in the top 11, may be re-introduced.

Before an effort is made to elect the game's third commissioner, the committee on contract revision, composed of Branch Rickey, William DeWitt and Giles, will turn in its report.

The committee also may recommend that the commissioner's salary be increased to $75,000. The late Judge Landis received $50,000, which is what was paid to Chandler until the owners decided to give him a $15,000 increase for the final three years of his seven-year term.

Former Coach Dies

IRWIN, Pa., Aug. 20—(AP)—Wilbur D. Hockensmith, 73, former football coach and trustee of the University of Fittsburgh, died at his home here last night.

Hockensmith, first alumnus to coach football at Pitt, graduated in 1901 after attending Allegheny College. He had served as a school trustee since 1936.

Little League World Series To Open Today

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 20 (AP)—Four eastern teams of the nation's small fry baseball players take the field tomorrow for the opening games of the fifth annual Little League World Series.

The opening day tilts send Stamford Conn., against Potter-McKean of Pa., in the afternoon (1 p. m., EST) and Pensacola, Fla., against Fairmont, W. Va., in the evening (5 p. m., EST).

All four teams of 8 to 12-year old players took practice swings and fielding practice here today in the elaborate original Little League Stadium where the popular youth program was born 12 years ago.

The remaining four teams, were due to arrive tomorrow and play their preliminary games Thursday. Each entry has survived a rugged series of district and regional eliminations.

Thursday's schedule matches North Austin, Tex., against Portland, Me., in the afternoon and San Bernardino, Calif., against North Town of Chicago in the evening.

A single loss drops a team from the five-day tourney.

Tuesday's winners will meet Thursday afternoon with the Wednesday survivors playing their semi-final game Thursday evening. The consolation game will be held Friday night between the two-semi-final round losers.

More than 10,000 fans are expected to witness Saturday's championship game between the two finalists. In addition, a network radio broadcast (NBC) will carry a play-by-play description of the game to all parts of the nation.

Little League Dodgers Crack 18-Game String

Cave Hurls 2-Hitter, Defeats Washington In Opener Of Series

Gene Cave turned in a two-h. pitching performance as Manager Bill Buzzard's Dodgers, champions of the Dan Division, drew first blood in the round robin series for the championship of the Little League by defeating the Phillies, unbeaten leaders of the Dapper Division, by the score of 4-2 last night at Penn Avenue Field.

It was the first loss suffered by the Northcraft-Boyle managed aggregation in 19 starts against Little League opponents this season. To crack this winning streak the Dodgers whipped the Phillies' best pitcher, Arthur Washington.

Wallace and Bruce walked and Fair and Valentine singled in the first inning to give the Dodgers two runs. In the third Regis Fair hit for the circuit and in the 5th singles by Cave, Hillegas and Lafferty, coupled with an error, produced the final tally.

Ronnie Diehl's single in the 4th was the lone safety yielded by Cave until the final frame when the Dodgers' hurler hit Hanekamp with a pitched ball and Arthur Washington belted a four-bagger. After one down, Cave lost control and filled the bases by walking Collins, Garlitz and pinchhitter Butts. The rally died, however, when Dunbar scooped up O'Neal's grounder and threw out Collins at the plate and McKenzie, batting for Stinson, struck out.

Two of the six hits yielded by Washington were credited to Regis Fair who garnered a homer and single. Washington fanned 10 and issued two passes — both in the first inning. Cave gave up six free tickets and whipped five.

The Dodgers won 15 and lost three during the regular campaign in the Dan Division.

A team must lose two games to be eliminated from the round robin series.

Briton Sets New Auto Speed Marks

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 20 (AP)—Lt. Col. A. T. (Goldie) Gardner, veteran British racing driver, throttled his little "Magic Midget" to new international and American land speed records today.

The 60-year-old Englishman was clocked at an unofficial 139 miles per hour. This was much better than the present one hour class international records and a number of new American marks.

A plugged oil line forced the Englishman to stop his super charged, four cylinder British car after driving for an hour. He had hoped to keep the streamlined racer roaring around the track for two hours.

Lawrence Tech Starts De-Emphasis By Canceling Basketball Schedule

Detroit College Won 20 Of 22 Last Season

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS) — Lawrence Tech of Detroit today cancelled its intercollegiate basketball schedule for 1951-52 because of a feeling that "intercollegiate sports are overemphasized throughout the country.

The fairly-small college has had a nationwide reputation for its basketball teams ever since Coach Don Ridler took hold in 1937 and has played many larger schools.

Its coming schedule would have taken the team, which won 20 and lost 2 last season, to Hawaii, and into the Buffalo Memorial Stadium, Philadelphia Convention Hall, and the Cleveland Arena.

A statement from Lawrence Tech President E. George Lawrence said that the dropping of the schedule was decided at a meeting of the board of control.

Lawrence added:

"While the board previously supported schedules of this type it felt that present conditions certainly indicate the need for de-emphasis."

The statement made no mention of the basketball "fix" scandals, but the current investigations were indicated in the mention of "present conditions."

The board lauded Athletic Director Ridler and requested that he remain at Lawrence Tech to develop an intensified program of student activities.

Lawrence Tech also played in the last National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Gardens. The team lost to Dayton who went into the finals.

Games which are being dropped this coming season were with North Dakota State, Carnegie Tech, Niagara, Colorado State, St. Bonaventure, De Paul University, Creighton, Washington & Jefferson, St. Joseph of Philadelphia, John Carroll, Idaho State and Baldwin-Wallace. Also cancelled was a Jan. 24-Feb. 6 tour of the Hawaiian Islands, including a game with the University of Hawaii.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles W. Belfoure v. Catherine J. Belfoure. No. 22313 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Md.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that the parties hereto were married on January 23rd, 1945, in Shoemaker, California, and that one child was born of the said marriage; and that the defendant on or about the 7th day of January, 1950, without just cause or reason deserted and abandoned the plaintiff and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, and that such desertion and abandonment has been continuous and uninterrupted for more than 18 months, and is deliberate and final and without any reasonable hope of reconciliation; and that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the defendant is a resident of Cokeburg, Pa.

Oil Seepage Into Well Subject Of Court Suit

Damages of $5,000 are asked in a suit docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Brooklyn M. Duckworth, individually and as executor of the estate of his mother, Mrs. Anna V. Duckworth, against the Penn Economy Oil Company and the G. C. Sensabaugh Company.

The declaration in the suit was filed by Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for Duckworth, and states that the plaintiff owns a two-story frame residence in McCoole with a well in the rear of the property which has been used for 35 years. An electric pump is used to draw the water from the well into a storage tank in the basement of the house and thence into the pipe system.

On September 17, 1949, Mrs. Duckworth died and the plaintiff was named executor and sole beneficiary of her estate. On May 19, 1949 the oil firm and the Sensabaugh Company allegedly installed storage tanks on an adjoining property. One of the tanks containing kerosene is alleged to have leaked and seeped into the soil and sub-soil and contaminated the well and property of Duckworth.

A new water system was made necessary due to the permanent damage to the old system, the plaintiff claims.

Oil Seepage Into Well Subject Of Court Suit

Damages of $5,000 are asked in a suit docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Brooklyn M. Duckworth, individually and as executor of the estate of his mother, Mrs. Anna V. Duckworth, against the Penn Economy Oil Company and the G. C. Sensabaugh Company.

The declaration in the suit was filed by Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for Duckworth, and states that the plaintiff owns a two-story frame residence in McCoole with a well in the rear of the property which has been used for 35 years. An electric pump is used to draw the water from the well into a storage tank in the basement of the house and thence into the pipe system.

On September 17, 1949, Mrs. Duckworth died and the plaintiff was named executor and sole beneficiary of her estate. On May 19, 1949 the oil firm and the Sensabaugh Company allegedly installed storage tanks on an adjoining property. One of the tanks containing kerosene is alleged to have leaked and seeped into the soil and sub-soil and contaminated the well and property of Duckworth.

A new water system was made necessary due to the permanent damage to the old system, the plaintiff claims.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20 (INS)—Couldn't be more surprised that Errol Flynn has sold his original story, "Trail Of Zaca," which is about his famed yacht, to John Carroll. Carroll will make it as an independent after he finishes his concert tour around the end of the year.

Errol Flynn

How does it happen Errol didn't star himself in his own story? Heaven knows the boat has been the center of enough adventures for ten movies.

Flynn has gone fortune hunting aboard the Zaca. It was from her deck that a 16-year-old French girl dived overboard, supposedly to "save her honor" (a French court decided differently). And it was aboard the same luxury yacht that Errol and Pat Wymore spent their honeymoon.

Lovely young actress, Pier Angeli, gets the extra special care in story selection by MGM. Not in a long time has a youthful player exuded the delicacy and spirituality of the Italian girl. Did you see her in "Teresa?"

Now it appears that her next will be "The Seven Souls Of Clement O'Reilly," a semi-fantasy in which a young and sensitive girl is made love to by a puppet artist. He is bitter and cruel to her—but each of his seven puppets woos her tenderly.

The drama evolves from her bewilderment between the real man and his romantic dolls. Edwin Knopf produces.

Here's the straight on the Paramount rights in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes". (remember—they made it years ago with Ruth Taylor?)

When Anita Loos revamped her comedy classic as a broadway musical, Paramount retained an interest. Should a rival studio put in a bid, Paramount has first bids on making it themselves. Or, they will share in the profits of the sale price.

My money says "Gentlemen Prefer," etc., will go to 20th when it returns to the screen, musical version.

Dropping by "The Merry Widow" set to watch Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas make love took me back to the old silent days. I don't know how long it's been since I've heard musicians playing "mood music" on the sidelines—certainly not since the talkies took over.

But, Director Curtis Bernhardt was after a scene of "tender passion" which, he believed, could be induced only by violin music— so there they were, three of them, fiddling away romantically.

Lana looks wonderful after dropping all the extra weight. And she's in a gay mood. It's obvious she's glad to be back at work again.

No one can convince me this girl wants to retire.

Hollywood in shorts:

Gary Merrill must have come under Scottish influence while he and Bette Davis were making a picture abroad. He showed up in the 20th commissary wearing bright plaid shorts.

Stephen Ames has sold his Holmby Hills home to an eastern millionaire for $110,000.

Patricia Neal (she rated rave reviews in "Cocktail Party" at La Jolla) dropped by the Del Mar track the other day and cleaned up on five races. Pat's in her "lucky cycle" for sure — careerwise, romantically and now the nags.

Kenneth Hopkins designed all the swank hats worn by the chorus beauties in "Follies In Fashion," new show at the Biltmore Bowl tomorrow night.

Already, Christmas repeat orders are in for the album Bing Crosby, Dixie and the boys made last year, "Crosby Christmas." Bing is becoming as closely associated with the Yuletide as Santy Claus.

Bob Ryan got a big kick meeting his old high school pals at the Chicago premiere of "Flying Leathernecks."

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

A child hygiene clinic will be held at the LaVale Fire Hall today at 10 a. m.

Tederick Cites Increased Cost Of Water Dept.

Says Entire Income Is Being Spent

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick answered criticism of the operation of his department by submitting a budget for the fiscal year, beginning last July 1 and ending June 30, 1952, at yesterday's council session.

"This isn't necessary," Tederick told the council, "but I'm doing this because I've heard all kinds of remarks about the lucrativeness of my department."

"True, the Water Department does have a nice income," Tederick stated, "but the expenditures are quite heavy and we are now operating on the full income of the department."

Baering Down On The News

There's a rumor fermenting that Gen. Eisenhower will run for president if he gets nominated by both parties. That's playing it as safe as being a life-saver in a wading pool.

Such a procedure might mark the flattening of the two-party system. Just a minute. Did that end around 1932?

If Ike grabs both nominations he will be like a scrub-woman's thumb. My undercover man in the umbrella factory buzzes me that's going to happen sure as a gun's iron.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you tell an invalid gruesome stories?

Answer: The fact that you should not seems quite obvious, yet one regularly meets the fellow whose idea of entertaining a sick person is to tell him of some other friend who "had the same trouble you have and the doctors couldn't save him." One of several unconscious motives for such tactlessness may well be an impulse to deflate the temporary importance which the sick man gets from his illness by picturing someone who is—or was—worse. It is an unpleasant version of the same urge that makes almost any of us want to "top" another person's story with a more sensational one.

Is there a second "prime of life"?

Answer: Yes, for an increasing number of people, maintains Dr. Martin Gumpert, noted specialist in geriatrics (study of old age diseases). We have tended to think of such men as Goethe, Michelangelo and Verdi, who created masterpieces in their eighties, almost as freaks, but with modern medicine permitting so many more people to reach great age there are signs that "old age developes a creative power and urge of its own, of which we have hardly taken notice up to now." In Europe today, especially, men of 70 and over often seem more vigorous and creative than "their bloodless, fatigued sons and grandsons."

May psychoanalysis be an "escape"?

Answer: Yes, though a skilled analyst can usually prevent its being too effective. There is a type of intelligent but deeply suspicious person who will manage if he can to keep his analysis "going round in circles" or at least to avoid his actual "sore spots." What he wants unconsciously is to defeat the analyst and thereby prove to his own satisfaction that nobody can—or wants to—cure him. Thus he can justify his conviction that the wrongs he has suffered — usually from one or both of his parents—are beyond repair, and that therefore he cannot be expected to do anything to rectify them.

Edward M. Barkey, said to be a Californian, was taken to Newton D. Baker VA Center at Martinsburg, W. Va., Sunday after he became ill in Romney, W. Va.

A. L. Russell, service officer of the American Legion Post in Romney, said Barkey is believed to have become ill after an overdose of sleeping tablets. He had been staying in Romney for about a week.

HOLLYWOOD

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20 (INS)—Couldn't be more surprised that Errol Flynn has sold his original story, "Trail Of Zaca," which is about his famed yacht, to John Carroll. Carroll will make it as an independent after he finishes his concert tour around the end of the year.

Errol Flynn

How does it happen Errol didn't star himself in his own story? Heaven knows the boat has been the center of enough adventures for ten movies.

Flynn has gone fortune hunting aboard the Zaca. It was from her deck that a 16-year-old French girl dived overboard, supposedly to "save her honor" (a French court decided differently). And it was aboard the same luxury yacht that Errol and Pat Wymore spent their honeymoon.

Lovely young actress, Pier Angeli, gets the extra special care in story selection by MGM. Not in a long time has a youthful player exuded the delicacy and spirituality of the Italian girl. Did you see her in "Teresa?"

Now it appears that her next will be "The Seven Souls Of Clement O'Reilly," a semi-fantasy in which a young and sensitive girl is made love to by a puppet artist. He is bitter and cruel to her—but each of his seven puppets woos her tenderly.

The drama evolves from her bewilderment between the real man and his romantic dolls. Edwin Knopf produces.

Here's the straight on the Paramount rights in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" (remember—they made it years ago with Ruth Taylor?)

When Anita Loos revamped her comedy classic as a broadway musical, Paramount retained an interest. Should a rival studio put in a bid, Paramount has first bids on making it themselves. Or, they will share in the profits of the sale price.

My money says "Gentlemen Prefer," etc., will go to 20th when it returns to the screen, musical version.

Dropping by "The Merry Widow" set to watch Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas make love took me back to the old silent days. I don't know how long it's been since I've heard musicians playing "mood music" on the sidelines—certainly not since the talkies took over.

But, Director Curtis Bernhardt was after a scene of "tender passion" which, he believed, could be induced only by violin music— so there they were, three of them, fiddling away romantically.

Lana looks wonderful after dropping all the extra weight. And she's in a gay mood. It's obvious she's glad to be back at work again.

No one can convince me this girl wants to retire.

Hollywood in shorts:

Gary Merrill must have come under Scottish influence while he and Bette Davis were making a picture abroad. He showed up in the 20th commissary wearing bright plaid shorts.

Stephen Ames has sold his Holmby Hills home to an eastern millionaire for $110,000.

Patricia Neal (she rated rave reviews in "Cocktail Party" at La Jolla) dropped by the Del Mar track the other day and cleaned up on five races. Pat's in her "lucky cycle" for sure — careerwise, romantically and now the nags.

Kenneth Hopkins designed all the swank hats worn by the chorus beauties in "Follies In Fashion," new show at the Biltmore Bowl tomorrow night.

Already, Christmas repeat orders are in for the album Bing Crosby, Dixie and the boys made last year, "Crosby Christmas." Bing is becoming as closely associated with the Yuletide as Santy Claus.

Peter Lawford left today for England—this time Jeanne McDonald wasn't on the same plane.

Bob Ryan got a big kick meeting his old high school pals at the Chicago premiere of "Flying Leathernecks."

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

A child hygiene clinic will be held at the LaVale Fire Hall today at 10 a. m.

Tederick Cites Increased Cost Of Water Dept.

Says Entire Income Is Being Spent

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick answered criticism of the operation of his department by submitting a budget for the fiscal year, beginning last July 1 and ending June 30, 1952, at yesterday's council session.

"This isn't necessary," Tederick told the council, "but I'm doing this because I've heard all kinds of remarks about the lucrativeness of my department."

"True, the Water Department does have a nice income," Tederick stated, "but the expenditures are quite heavy and we are now operating on the full income of the department."

The commissioner pointed out the cost of living has raised tremendously in the past few years, but that the water rates have remained the same. The operating costs of the department have also jumped, he added.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUCS" BAER

There's a rumor fermenting that Gen. Eisenhower will run for president if he gets nominated by both parties. That's playing it as safe as being a life-saver in a wading pool.

• — • — •

Such a procedure might mark the flattening of the two-party system. Just a minute. Did that end around 1932?

If Ike grabs both nominations he will be like a scrub-woman's thumb. My undercover man in the umbrella factory buzzes me that's going to happen sure as a gun's iron.

Mirror Of Your Mind

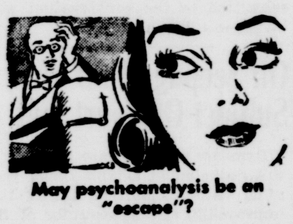
By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you tell an invalid gruesome stories?

Answer: The fact that you should not seems quite obvious, yet one regularly meets the fellow whose idea of entertaining a sick person is to tell him of some other friend who "had the same trouble you have and the doctors couldn't save him." One of several unconscious motives for such tactlessness may well be an impulse to deflate the temporary importance which the sick man gets from his illness by picturing someone who is—or was—worse. It is an unpleasant version of the same urge that makes almost any of us want to "top" another person's story with a more sensational one.

Is there a second "prime of life"?

Answer: Yes, for an increasing number of people, maintains Dr. Martin Gumpert, noted specialist in geriatrics (study of old age diseases). We have tended to think of such men as Goethe, Michelangelo and Verdi, who created masterpieces in their eighties, almost as freaks, but with modern medicine permitting so many more people to reach great age there are signs that "old age developes a creative power and urge of its own, of which we have hardly taken notice up to now." In Europe today, especially, men of 70 and over often seem more vigorous and creative than "their bloodless, fatigued sons and grandsons."



May psychoanalysis be an "escape"?

Answer: Yes, though a skilled analyst can usually prevent its being too effective. There is a type of intelligent but deeply suspicious person who will manage if he can to keep his analysis "going round in circles" or at least to avoid his actual "sore spots." What he wants unconsciously is to defeat the analyst and thereby prove to his own satisfaction that nobody can—or wants to—cure him. Thus he can justify his conviction that the wrongs he has suffered — usually from one or both of his parents—are beyond repair, and that therefore he cannot be expected to do anything to rectify them.

Veteran Is Taken To VA Hospital

Edward M. Barkey, said to be a Californian, was taken to Newton D. Baker VA Center at Martinsburg, W. Va., Sunday after he became ill in Romney, W. Va.

A. L. Russell, service officer of the American Legion Post in Romney, said Barkey is believed to have become ill after an overdose of sleeping tablets. Papers in his possession indicate Barkey was an Air Force pilot during World War II and also that he had been released some time ago from a Veterans Administration in Dearborn, Mich. He had been staying in Romney for about a week.

Want to keep your skin moist and young looking? Then be sure that you eat what it takes to do it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

After reaching the ripe old age of twenty-five, must you resign yourself to seeing your skin beauty dry up and fade away? Most assuredly not! Time won't take its toll, unless you fail to use your head to help Nature. You need only be as faithful about the internal care that you give your skin as you are about its external pampering. But you will never be able to have and to hold your skin's loveliness if you rely on external lubrication alone.

Your Skin's Moisture

A prime requisite of your skin is what you get free, right out of the tap — plain old aqua pura. Always drink six to eight glasses a day (no less or little more) unless so advised by your physician. If you shun water, as too many women do, the moisture content of your skin diminishes and the drying and lining process accelerates. The worst of it is, the full effect of this deterioration won't be apparent until it's too late.

To nuture your skin's beauty, be sure to include plenty of vitamin A in your diet. The rule of a carrot a day is no old wive's tale. It really turns the trick. Also high on the A list are egg yolks, fruits, cream, and whole milk. Those who have a weight problem should concentrate on the less-fattening foods on this list.

Dry Skin Diet

Serious dry skin conditions are often alleviated by eating one cake of yeast every day. If that sounds a bit unpalatable, you may be quite surprised to discover that after a short time you actually will be acquiring a taste for the flavor! Many people do. Others blend the yeast into a tomato juice cocktail, some mash it with peanut or apple butter and spread the mixture on a cracker.

When you can give a lift to the look of your skin just by feeding it what it needs, why neglect to do so? Even the most bitter pill is worth the taking when skin beauty is the result!

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! Want to keep your skin moist and young looking? Then be sure that you eat what it takes to do it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

After reaching the ripe old age of twenty-five, must you resign yourself to seeing your skin beauty dry up and fade away? Most assuredly not! Time won't take its toll, unless you fail to use your head to help Nature. You need only be as faithful about the internal care that you give your skin as you are about its external pampering. But you will never be able to have and to hold your skin's loveliness if you rely on external lubrication alone.

Your Skin's Moisture

A prime requisite of your skin is what you get free, right out of the tap — plain old aqua pura. Always drink six to eight glasses a day (no less or little more) unless so advised by your physician. If you shun water, as too many women do, the moisture content of your skin diminishes and the drying and lining process accelerates. The worst of it is, the full effect of this deterioration won't be apparent until it's too late.

To nuture your skin's beauty, be sure to include plenty of vitamin A in your diet. The rule of a carrot a day is no old wive's tale. It really turns the trick. Also high on the list are egg yolks, fruits, cream, and whole milk. Those who have a weight problem should concentrate on the less-fattening foods on this list.

Dry Skin Diet

Serious dry skin conditions are often alleviated by eating one cake of yeast every day. If that sounds a bit unpalatable, you may be quite surprised to discover that after a short time you actually will be acquiring a taste for the flavor! Many people do. Others blend the yeast into a tomato juice cocktail, some mash it with peanut or apple butter and spread the mixture on a cracker.

When you can give a lift to the look of your skin just by feeding it what it needs, why neglect to do so? Even the most bitter pill is worth the taking when skin beauty is the result!

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: How polite are you?

To make an attractive food larder for birds, take a cocoanut and cut in half. The cavity then is filled with chopped suet, peanut butter and nuts or other food mixtures, and the cocoanut then is suspended by a wire from a tree limb. The cocoanut meat as well as the stuffing will be eaten by the birds.

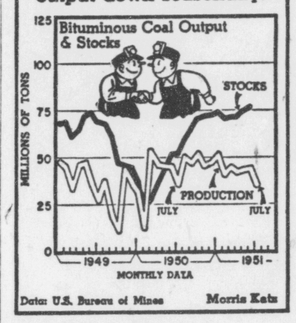
Market, Plagued By Ticker System Breakdown, Loses

Spotlight On Business

COAL STOCKS RISE

Push to near-record level; output down seasonally.



Data: U.S. Bureau of Mines — Morris Kats

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) —Plagued by mechanical difficulties in its high speed quotations system, the stock market today limped through a slow and slightly lower session.

The breakdown in the stock ticker system came shortly after 11 a. m., (EST) and persisted to the close. An emergency circuit was established over the exchange's bond quotations system within an hour after the blackout started, and this enabled the market to keep going.

Prices were around a dollar a share lower at the most among leaders, and there were a goodly number of plus signs that went to a dollar or better in active areas.

Rails were depressed more than any other division, but even here the fall was not large.

The volume of trading was limited to 1,130,000 shares with 530,000 shares of the total in the first two hours, before the ticker service breakdown.

Trading was fairly broad with 1,095 issues making the market. There were 395 issues higher and 424 lower with 42 new highs four new lows reached during the day.

Trading in low-priced shares was a feature of the day. Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue up ⅛ at 1⅞ with 34,400 shares traded.

It was followed by National Power & Light unchanged at 1¾. United Corp., eighth most active, was off ⅛ at 4⅜.

American Telephone, the most popular high-priced stock, was up ⅜ at 162⅝, equal to the high of the year.

While most major groups were down, there were some independent gains made in oils, copper and gold mines, and aircrafts.

After the market closed, the stock exchange reported an increase of a little more than eight per cent in the short interest at 2,518,704 shares as of Aug. 15 from the revised total for July 13 of 2,323,598 shares. There were 859 issues in which a short interest was reported Aug. 15 as compared with 856 issues as of July 13, exclusive of odd lot dealers' short positions.

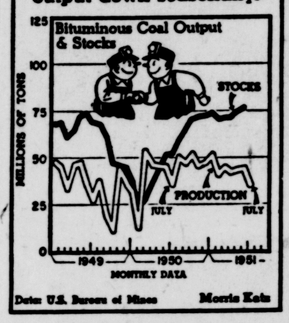
Market, Plagued By Ticker System Breakdown, Loses

Spotlight On Business

COAL STOCKS RISE

Push to near-record level; output down seasonally.



Data: U.S. Bureau of Mines — Morris Kahn

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) —Plagued by mechanical difficulties in its high speed quotations system, the stock market today limped through a slow and slightly lower session.

The breakdown in the stock ticker system came shortly after 11 a. m., (EST) and persisted to the close. An emergency circuit was established over the exchange's bond quotations system within an hour after the blackout started, and this enabled the market to keep going.

Prices were around a dollar a share lower at the most among leaders, and there were a goodly number of plus signs that went to a dollar or better in active areas.

Rails were depressed more than any other division, but even here the fall was not large.

The volume of trading was limited to 1,130,000 shares with 530,000 shares of the total in the first two hours, before the ticker service breakdown.

Trading was fairly broad with 1,095 issues making the market. There were 395 issues higher and 424 lower with 42 new highs four new lows reached during the day.

Trading in low-priced shares was a feature of the day. Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue up ⅛ at 1⅞ with 34,400 shares traded.

It was followed by National Power & Light unchanged at 1¾. United Corp., eighth most active, was off ⅛ at 4⅜.

American Telephone, the most popular high-priced stock, was up ⅜ at 162⅝, equal to the high of the year.

While most major groups were down, there were some independent gains made in oils, copper and gold mines, and aircrafts.

After the market closed, the stock exchange reported an increase of a little more than eight per cent in the short interest at 2,518,704 shares as of Aug. 15 from the revised total for July 13 of 2,323,598 shares. There were 859 issues in which a short interest was reported Aug. 15 as compared with 856 issues as of July 13, exclusive of odd lot dealers' short positions.

Judging Starts This Morning At Local Fair

Fate Of Exhibits Will Be Determined

Today is "Judging Day" at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair and before the day is over many men, women, and children in the Tri-State area will learn the fate of their exhibits at Fairgo, where the weeklong agricultural exhibition got underway yesterday.

Judging of entries in nearly all of the 10 departments is planned, beginning at 9 a. m. today, according to Harry E. Flook, who is now serving as general manager of his second fair here.

Manager Hopeful

Flook said yesterday that he thought the exhibits and attractions this year surpass those of 1950, generally considered the best previous Cumberland Fair. He expressed hope that the public would turn out to see the various offerings.

Much attention is being focused on the livestock department of the fair, where County Agent R. F. McHenry is superintendent. McHenry said that the livestock display will include about 235 head of dairy and beef cattle, 54 head of hogs and 36 head of sheep.

The livestock exhibitor who traveled the greatest distance to show his stock is J. Herbert Snyder, who brought 11 head of Guernsey dairy cattle from Union Bridge, over 100 miles away in Carroll County. Most of the dairy cattle at the fair is from Allegany and Washington counties. The beef cattle, however, is principally from three counties, each in a different state. They are Washington County, in Maryland, Bedford County in Pennsylvania and Mineral County in West Virginia.

Guernsey and Jersey dairy cattle and Shropshire sheep will be judged, beginning at 9 a. m. today. Ayrshire and Holstein dairy cattle and Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle will be judged starting at 1 p. m. today.

Starts At 9

Judging also will get under way about 9 a. m. today in the agriculture and fruit departments in which Albert O'Neal is superintendent. O'Neal said yesterday that there appeared to be more apples this year but less corn in the display. He observed that all of the alloted space for the exhibit in the Exhibit Hall will be filled.

Interest of the women of Allegany County and surrounding area centers on the household department, where the five judges will begin making the rounds of the Exhibit Hall at 9 a. m. today. Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, who with Miss Thelma Allin, her assistant, is supervising this department, announced the names of the judges yesterday afternoon. They are Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Oakland; Mrs. Sara Jane Long Mitchell, Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Emerson, state 4-H Girls leader; Miss Margaret Watson, assistant home demonstration agent for Washington County, and Miss Margaret Ringler, RFD 1.

Miss Bean expressed doubt that the judges will be able to complete their checking of the baked products, preserved foods and other good things to eat today.

Flook advised all persons coming to the fair to hold onto their admission ticket stubs until the end of the fair Saturday night. A drawing will be made then and some one of the fair patrons will have a choice of a deep freeze or refrigerator.

Music Concerts Added To Fair As New Feature

Homemakers Chorus Sponsors Endeavor

Musical programs each afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock in the Exhibit Hall under sponsorship of the Allegany County Homemakers Chorus have been arranged as an added feature of the 34th annual Cumberland Fair this week, according to Mrs. Douglas Smith, chorus president.

First of the four afternoon concerts will be presented this afternoon by a trio from the Allegany County Junior Symphony under the direction of Martin E. Weisman. The trio will include William Babst, violinist; Miss Dolores Riley, pianist, and Norwood Edmondson, cellist.

Mrs. Margaret Haus of Mt. Savage will offer a program of piano and solovox music Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon a varied program has been arranged, beginning with selections by Carole Reith, pianist. Miss Thelma Allin, county assistant home demonstration agent, will play her accordion. Other entertainers Thursday afternoon will include Dean Hancox, pianist, and Kenneth McGraw, singer.

On Friday, the last day in which the chorus will offer musical entertainment at the fair, Mrs. John Dorn, accompanist for the chorus, will present a piano concert. Finally, James Hager will offer a 30-minute vocal program.

These concerts have been arranged by Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, who is chorus director. She also is chairman of rural music of the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs. The chorus plans to continue the concerts as an annual fair feature.

Weather

Cumberlanders breathed a little—only a little—easier yesterday after sweltering through a week of miserable weather that was August at its worst. Yesterday's high of 89 degrees was warm enough, but there was a breeze stirring now and then and the humidity was only 48 per cent. By 8 p. m. the mercury was down to 79. The overnight low was 55 degrees. It never lasts forever, though. The Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy and warm weather for today, with a high temperature between 85 and 90, and thundershowers this afternoon or tonight.

$1,000 Damages Result As Coal Car Derails

Damages assessed at $1,000 were caused when an empty coal hopper on a westbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train derailed and buckled Sunday about 6:30 p. m. at Bloomington. No one was injured, a railroad spokesman said yesterday.

Cause of the mishap was a broken coupler according to the spokesman and traffic on the westbound main line was held up five hours while maintenance crews cleared the wreckage. Diesel Engine No. 367 was traveling west through Bloomington when the 54th car from the engine developed a broken coupling causing the hopper to leave the rails and buckle. The car was a total loss. Engine No. 4426, out of Keyser, W. Va. was helper on the freight.

Shorthorns Good For Milking Too, Farmer Contends

If you think that Shorthorns are only beef cattle, Marshall Strite, Hagerstown dairy farmer, has a lesson for you.

The Washington County man has brought 10 head of his Milking Shorthorns to the 34th annual Cumberland Fair for exhibit here all this week.

County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday that this marks the first time that milking Shorthorns have ever been exhibited at Fairgo.

Strite emphasized that the Shorthorns used as beef cattle were developed by the Scotch. Milking Shorthorns, however, were bred by the English.

The farmer from Hagerstown said yesterday that milking Shorthorns are dual purpose animals. They milk well and fleshen quickly to give the two-way profit every progressive farmer wants, Strite added.

The Maryland State Roads Commission specification of "B" blacktop will be furnished at $10.87 a ton and the necessary tack coat for 32 cents per gallon.

The council also voted unanimously to make free sewer tappage fees in the vicinity of Second Street and Wempe Drive for the housing project in progress. The request was made by Thomas B. Finan, attorney for the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Ralph L. Rizer Resigns Post As City Engineer

Joined Engineering Department In 1906

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer of Cumberland for over 30 years, submitted his resignation to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Following the reading of his letter of resignation, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, moved that the resignation be accepted with regret.

Approved unanimously was Mrs. Roeder's suggestion that a written statement be prepared in recognition of Rizer's long service with the community.

Rizer has been in ill health for several years and was succeeded several months ago by William A. Marean. Rizer's letter follows.

"Due to the present condition of my health, I regret that after over 40 years of service in the employ of the City of Cumberland, that I must now resign my position of city engineer and request the Mayor and Council pass an order giving me the benefits to which I am entitled under the city employes retirement system.

"I, therefore, hereby resign as city engineer and in so doing leave many happy memories of working in cooperation with a number of administrations and faithful associates throughout the years.

"I particularly desire to wish my friend and close associate, William H. Marean, every success in carrying on future work of the department. I also recognize my indebtedness to Everett L. Marean, the late John Marean, A. L. Sutton, Inez F. Shoemaker, Lester L. Frederick County Adopts Visible Registration File

Allegany and Frederick counties will have the same type of filing systems for the permanent registration of voters with Frederick county's impending change from the vertical to the visible filing system.

Visible files are now on order in both counties and will permit immediate location of registration cards of voters.

When the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors prepared to undertake the job of permanent registration, they and the Board of County Commissioners tangled over the type of file to be used, the supervisors wanting the visible type and the commissioners the vertical type.

The Frederick County commissioners on July 10 approved purchase of the visible filing system.

Frederick County Election officials said the visible file wil be a great improvement over the vertical system. The file will be particularly needed at rush times during and after election, they pointed out.

They explained that the registration cards will be so spread out under the visible system so that the names can be quickly discerned and the cards secured for whatever purpose is desired.

Under the present vertical system which they are abandoning, Frederick County officials pointed out, it is necessary to leaf through the files to "pull" the desired cards.

Court Dismisses Two Claims For Jobless Pay

Henderson Upholds Board's Rulings

Appeals of two claimants from rulings of the Maryland Employment Security Board were dismissed by Associate Judge George Henderson in opinions filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Judge Henderson upheld the board's decisions in the cases of William A. Adams, former Celanese employe, and Phyllis I. Duckworth, a former Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

Adams had claimed unemployment benefits after retiring from his job at the Amcelle plant when he reached the age of 65.

Judge Henderson wrote in his opinion that Adams had retired voluntarily after inquiring as to what benefits were due him if he quit work at retirement age.

Adams testified that he was led to believe he would be entitled to unemployment benefits after retiring. He also said he retired because his health was poor. He submitted a physician's certificate to prove it.

But the court ruled that Adams was able to perform his usual work which was described as "light work."

Judge Henderson ruled that a worker who retired voluntarily is not entitled to unemployment compensation even if he is told he will receive it.

In the Duckworth case, Judge Henderson found that the claimant voluntarily quit her clerical job at the tire plant because she "could not stand the work." She claimed she was overworked and that her supervisor discriminated against her.

The court upheld the board's ruling that the evidence failed to show that she was given more work than she could do, or that she was discriminated against to a great extent.

Judge Henderson observed that "the right to quit and the right to draw unemployment relief are two different things."

City Tax Bills To Be Prepared

City Collector George E. Davis yesterday placed an order for the printing of 15,000 tax bills in preparation for mailing tax bills for the city.

Passage of a levy ordinance calling for a $1.31 tax rate on each $100 of assessable property in the city yesterday gave the Collector's office the go-ahead on the preparation of the statements.

The Commercial Press will begin printing the tax statements today.

Davis said plates for the addressograph machine have been prepared and that work on the bills will begin as soon as the printer delivers the printed statements.

He said the office hopes to have the bills in the mail by September 15.

Workers in the city tax office are still making changes of address which have occurred since tax transcripts were furnished by the county and will continue to make late changes until the last of the month.

3 Trainmen Overcome In Tunnel

Joseph Gideon, Engineer Dies In Mishap

Three Baltimore and Ohio trainmen were overcome with fumes in the Knobley tunnel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, shortly before 12 o'clock last night, when their freight train stalled.

The men were taken to Memorial Hospital where one was reported dead and the other two not in serious condition.

The dead man was identified as Joseph H. Gideon, of Brunswick, the engineer.

The fireman, Noel Williams, Brunswick and brakeman, Earl M. Virts, also of Brunswick, are uninjured.

The train, east bound, identified as coal train No. 7616 was enroute from Rawlings to Brunswick, over the cut-off. Railroad officials here said they had not determined what caused the engine to stall in the tunnel, but the road foreman and other officials were investigating.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner was summoned to the hospital and pronounced the engineer dead.

Officials said the train was traveling about three miles per hour through the tunnel when the engineer was overcome. The fireman and brakeman realized he was overcome and also felt the effects of the fumes. They cut the engine from the train and rushed the engineer outside for air. A call was made from the Patterson Creek tower, for a car to take Gideon to the hospital where he was reported dead on arrival.

Four Damage Suits Filed After Crash

Plaintiffs Seek Total Of $10,000

Four damage suits totaling $10,000 were filed yesterday in Circuit Court against the driver of a car involved in a collision in which four people were hurt last March 13.

The motorist, Arben Haycock, was named defendant in suits filed by Carl E. Frankenberry, George E. Ellis, John W. Hall and Robert E. Metz, all of Cresaptown.

Frankenberry declared he was driving north on Route 220 near the Celanese with Ellis, Hall and Metz as passengers on the day of the accident.

A car driven by Haycock, he said, approached from the opposite direction "at a very high and excessive rate of speed," crossed the double white line in the center of the road, and struck Frankenberry's vehicle.

Frankenberry said he sustained lacerations and shock, lost time from work and lost considerable income because the car, which he used to haul riders to the Kelly-Springfield plant here, was demolished. He asked $3,000 damages.

Ellis and Hall asked $3,000 each for injuries and time lost from work. Ellis said he sustained a concussion of the brain, a sprained back, an eye injury and shock, was hospitalized for some time, and lost time from his job.

Hall said he also sustained a brain concussion, a right hand injury and shock, was hospitalized and lost time from work.

Metz asked $1,000 for injuries to his back and knee. He also said he was hospitalized and lost time from work.

William H. Geppert represents all four plaintiffs.

Resident Requests Walk Lights Replaced

Richard A. Porter, 28 Greene Street, yesterday morning asked the Cumberland city council to put the walk lights back in operation on Baltimore Street. Porter also called the city's attention to what he called "the dirty condition of the streets." No action was taken on his request.

City Tax Rate Officially Hiked Four Cents To $1.31

Buchholtz Voices Sharp Opposition

The city tax rate was set at $1.31 yesterday as the Mayor and Council voted four to one to approve the levy and budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

The action was taken over the sharp opposition of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will issue a statement in the near future stating his specific opposition to the levy which caused a four cent increase in property taxes in the city.

Buchholtz said that trimming of the budget presented last Thursday by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was the responsibility of the various departments.

To Raise $868,430

Basis for the levy was $48,000,000 of assessed real estate, $3,300,000 personal property held by individuals and another $14,000,000 by corporations for a total assessable basis of $65,300,000.

The $1.31 tax rate will bring in $855,430 from property, with another $13,000 income from bank stock for a total of $868,430, on this assessable basis.

Other income sources included in the levy are:

Allegany County, $7,630; general licenses, $63,000; general and special income, $38,000; interest on taxes, $3,000; permits, $1,800.

Other Income Listed

Police fines, $16,000; weights, $400; bingo tax, $12,000; state admission tax, $4,500; state auto license fees, $23,000; state franchise tax, $1,800.

Gasoline and auto tax, $58,000; income tax, $40,000; racing income, $40,000, and the surplus remaining on June 30, 1951, $85,000, for a total from other sources of $394,130.

The total budget for the year will be $1,262,560.

Commissioners Clash

Before the budget and levy ordinance was passed, Commissioner Buchholtz clashed verbally with Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long over the tax rate increase.

In defending the tax hike, Long said 2½ cents will be used to finance a mandatory pay raise for police and firemen. He also noted that the Fire Department would receive only $7,000 more than it did last year, although the pay boost would cost $13,000.

Long declared the city would have been justified in raising the tax rate five cents instead of four.

He also asked City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson if he (Gibson) had not told the Council at an executive session that the police and fire budget had been cut to the safe minimum.

Buchholtz objected to the question and Mayor Thomas S. Post ruled the discussion closed. After the meeting, however, Gibson told Long he felt the police and fire budget had been cut to the minimum allowed by efficiency.

Long maintained that the police force is undermanned and the Fire Department needs new equipment and repairs to old equipment.

Issues Statement

In a statement last night, Long said:

"The Mayor and Council met recently in several sessions of many hours to plan the budget. Surely if there is some sound reason why the budget should not have been passed today, the finance commissioner, in whose department the budget originated, should have reasons clearly stated before the deadline for voting.

"It is an old political trick to vote against taxes and especially when you know, from executive sessions, that everyone else is going to vote for the raise in taxes to keep the city sound financially.

"The finance commissioner voted no against the budget today and we should have had the benefit of his reasoning then, not when it is too late to do anything constructive about it."

Union Security Election Begins

Balloting in the union security election at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will get under way this morning at 1:30 o'clock.

Last minute arrangements for the National Labor Relations Board conducted poll were completed at a conference yesterday with company and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

James Blackwell, national TWUA representative, said approximately 4,500 workers will be eligible to vote in the election needed to validate union security clauses in the contract signed recently.

It was agreed yesterday, Blackwell said, that employes who have just returned from vacation or sick leave will receive voters identification slips in the main cafeteria during night hours and at the plant personnel office during the day.

Voting will continue tomorrow and Thursday, with the counting of ballots slated early Friday.

PSC Restricts Natural Gas Use

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20 (AP) — The Maryland Public Service Commission today ordered restrictions on the use of natural gas paralleling those the federal government set up last Wednesday.

The commission specified that no natural gas shall be sold to "a large volume consumer" unless gas-using equipment was installed before Aug. 22, 1951, or the seller had agreed in writing to do so prior to that date.

The gas may be delivered to large volume users, however, if the new equipment replaces other gas-fired equipment or if service can be cut off at the seller's request.

The commission also placed restrictions on the delivery of gas for the operation of central space heating equipment.

The commission's action followed notice to federal officials that the Maryland agency would exercise its own authority to the extent necessary to accomplish objectives of the defense production act.

In cases where a state regulatory body has the power to limit the use of natural gas, federal restrictions imposed by the petroleum administration for defense do not apply.

Firemen Plan Short Course

Representatives of the Cumberland Fire Department are expected to attend the annual Short Course for firemen September 4-7 in the Fire Service Building, College Park.

The instructors, Byrus added, will be selected for their knowledge and ability to teach. All the successful features of past short courses will be retained including panel discussions and movies.

Two B & O Engines Sideswipe Here

Two Baltimore and Ohio locomotives sideswiped about 12:42 p. m. yesterday in the Cumberland yards causing damages estimated at $2,500, a railroad spokesman said last night. The mishap in which no one was injured happened on the eastbound engine tracks when a steam locomotive No. 7600 collided with Diesel engine No. 811. Both engines were traveling in the same direction and the incident occurred near a switch where the tracks run close.

No delay was noted, the spokesman added, and the westbound lead was utilized until maintenance crews cleared the two engines.

Police To Delay All-Night Parking Action For Study

No action will be taken against drivers who park overnight on city streets until police have "thoroughly studied the present situation," Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said last night.

Last week, Long announced the start of an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is prohibited by a city ordinance. A survey showed there were 1,047 violations last week.

"The Police Department," Long said, "does not intend to create any hardship or inconvenience for the persons who must park their cars on the city streets all night.

"This condition is not new — it has existed for many years.

Citizens complain about cars parked in front of their homes. Streets have been posted when they were to be cleaned. The garbage contractor complains that he cannot operate his trucks on certain streets because of parking on both sides of those streets.

"All we ask is that you keep in mind the nights your streets are to be serviced and co-operate.

"The Police Department does not intend to take action toward any night parking - violator until we have thoroughly studied the present situation.

"We believe it can be solved by co-operation by all concerned and the use of common sense."

In announcing th drive last week, Long said first offenders would receive warning tickets. In some cases, he added, permits to park all night would be issued.

Judging Starts This Morning At Local Fair

Fate Of Exhibits Will Be Determined

Today is "Judging Day" at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair and before the day is over many men, women, and children in the Tri-State area will learn the fate of their exhibits at Fairgo, where the weeklong agricultural exhibition got underway yesterday.

Judging of entries in nearly all of the 10 departments is planned, beginning at 9 a. m. today, according to Harry E. Flook, who is now serving as general manager of his second fair here.

Manager Hopeful

Flook said yesterday that he thought the exhibits and attractions this year surpass those of 1950, generally considered the best previous Cumberland Fair. He expressed hope that the public would turn out to see the various offerings.

Much attention is being focused on the livestock department of the fair, where County Agent R. F. McHenry is superintendent. McHenry said that the livestock display will include about 235 head of dairy and beef cattle, 54 head of hogs and 36 head of sheep.

The livestock exhibitor who traveled the greatest distance to show his stock is J. Herbert Snyder, who brought 11 head of Guernsey dairy cattle from Union Bridge, over 100 miles away in Carroll County. Most of the dairy cattle at the fair is from Allegany and Washington counties. The beef cattle, however, is principally from three counties, each in a different state. They are Washington County, in Maryland, Bedford County in Pennsylvania and Mineral County in West Virginia.

Guernsey and Jersey dairy cattle and Shropshire sheep will be judged, beginning at 9 a. m. today. Ayrshire and Holstein dairy cattle and Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle will be judged starting at 1 p. m. today.

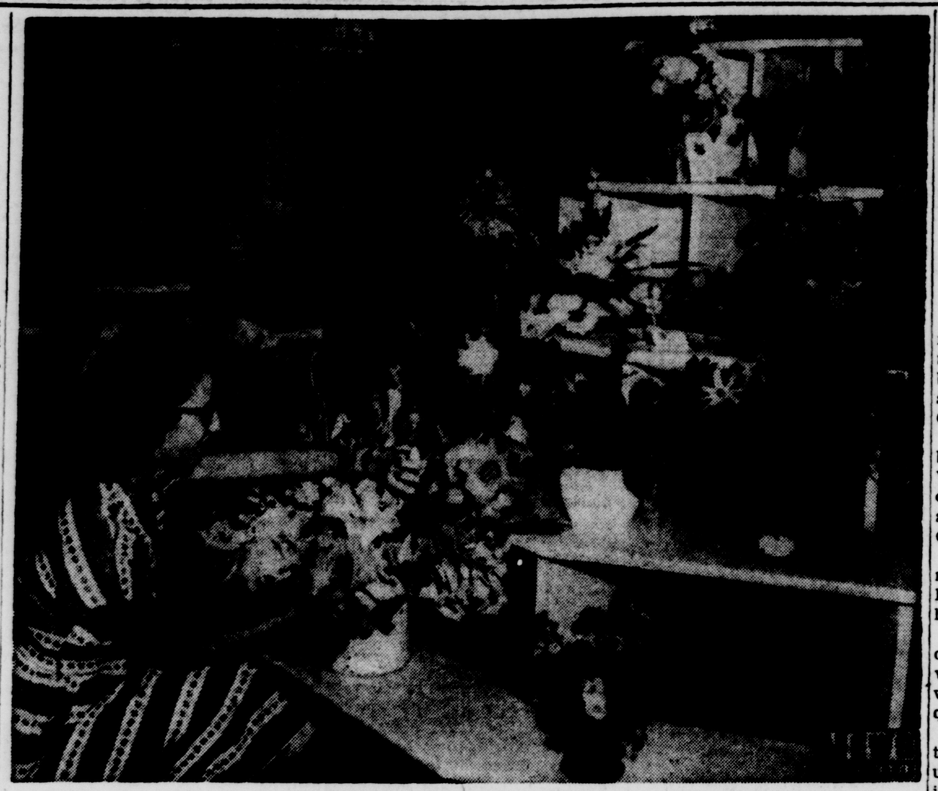
Starts At 9

Judging also will get under way about 9 a. m. today in the agriculture and fruit departments in which Albert O'Neal is superintendent. O'Neal said yesterday that there appeared to be more apples this year but less corn in the display. He observed that all of the alloted space for the exhibit in the Exhibit Hall will be filled.

Interest of the women of Allegany County and surrounding area centers on the household department, where the five judges will begin making the rounds of the Exhibit Hall at 9 a. m. today. Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, who with Miss Thelma Allin, her assistant, is supervising this department, announced the names of the judges yesterday afternoon. They are Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Oakland; Mrs. Sara Jane Long Mitchell, Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Emerson, state 4-H Girls leader; Miss Margaret Watson, assistant home demonstration agent for Washington County, and Miss Margaret Ringler, RFD 1.

Miss Bean expressed doubt that the judges will be able to complete their checking of the baked products, preserved foods and other good things to eat today.

Flook advised all persons coming to the fair to hold onto their admission ticket stubs until the end of the fair Saturday night. A drawing will be made then and some one of the fair patrons will have a choice of a deep freeze or refrigerator.



PREPARE FOR FAIR—Various exhibits were given last minute arrangements at the Cumberland Fair yesterday. Shown above, Helen Borror, Cresaptown, can be seen putting finishing touches on the display of flowers grown in gardens throughout the city and county. She is in charge of clothing, home furnishings and flowers at the fair. Below a Jersey dairy cow can be seen being tagged prior to entry in the high grade dairy cattle exhibit. Left to right are Richard Metz, Boonesboro, Charles Parrish, Union Bridge, and S. Braden King, Boonesboro. The cow is named "Boo's Miss Nancy." King has 15 entries in this year's fair exhibit being held all week at Fairgo.

Damages assessed at $1,000 were caused when an empty coal hopper on a westbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train derailed and buckled Sunday about 6:30 p. m. at Bloomington. No one was injured, a railroad spokesman said yesterday.

Shaw Resigns Post

Ross F. Shaw, Oldtown, has resigned his post as chief observer for the Oldtown Airplane Spotters. Shaw, who sent his resignation into William G. Barger, county supervisor for the Civil Defense Program, plans to continue as observer until a successor is named.

Weather

Cumberlanders breathed a little—only a little—easier yesterday after sweltering through a week of miserable weather that was August at its worst. Yesterday's high of 89 degrees was warm enough, but there was a breeze stirring now and then and the humidity was only 48 per cent. By 8 p. m. the mercury was down to 79. The overnight low was 55 degrees. It never lasts forever, though. The Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy and warm weather for today, with a high temperature between 85 and 90, and thundershowers this afternoon or tonight.

Shorthorns Good For Milking Too, Farmer Contends

If you think that Shorthorns are only beef cattle, Marshall Strite, Hagerstown dairy farmer, has a lesson for you.

The Washington County man has brought 10 head of his Milking Shorthorns to the 34th annual Cumberland Fair for exhibit here all this week.

County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday that this marks the first time that milking Shorthorns have ever been exhibited at Fairgo.

Strite emphasized that the Shorthorns used as beef cattle were developed by the Scotch. Milking Shorthorns, however, were bred by the English.

The farmer from Hagerstown said yesterday that milking Shorthorns are dual purpose animals. They milk well and fleshen quickly to give the two-way profit every progressive farmer wants, Strite added.

Ralph L. Rizer Resigns Post As City Engineer

Joined Engineering Department In 1906

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer of Cumberland for over 30 years, submitted his resignation to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Following the reading of his letter of resignation, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, moved that the resignation be accepted with regret.

Approved unanimously was Mrs. Roeder's suggestion that a written statement be prepared in recognition of Rizer's long service with the community.

Rizer has been in ill health for several years and was succeeded several months ago by William A. Marean. Rizer's letter follows.

"Due to the present condition of my health, I regret that after over 40 years of service in the employ of the City of Cumberland, that I must now resign my position of city engineer and request the Mayor and Council pass an order giving me the benefits to which I am entitled under the city employes retirement system.

"I, therefore, hereby resign as city engineer and in so doing leave many happy memories of working in co-operation with a number of administrations and faithful associates throughout the years.

"I particularly desire to wish my friend and close associate, William H. Marean, every success in carrying on future work of the department. I also recognize my indebtedness to Everett L. Marean, the late John Marean, A. L. Sutton, Inez F. Shoemaker, Lester L. Bolinger, Jack Treiber, Lee Kirby, Claude Light and other members of the City Engineering Department for their splendid cooperation.

"I further wish to thank the present administration for every consideration shown me and I trust that my engineering services, rendered on behalf of the city for a period covering four decades, have helped make Cumberland a better place in which to live."

Rizer was granted a six-month leave of absence by the city on June 16 due to ill health.

Rizer joined the city engineering department in June, 1906 and has been city engineer over 30 years. His service of city engineer is continuous except for the four year period of 1932-36. He is second in point of service exceeded only A. L. Sutton, 821 Shriver Avenue, who has been with the city 46 years.

Frederick County Adopts Visible Registration File

Allegany and Frederick counties will have the same type of filing systems for the permanent registration of voters with Frederick county's impending change from the vertical to the visible filing system.

Visible files are now on order in both counties and will permit immediate location of registration cards of voters.

When the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors prepared to undertake the job of permanent registration, they and the Board of County Commissioners tangled over the type of file to be used, the supervisors wanting the visible type and the commissioners the vertical type.

The Frederick County commissioners on July 10 approved purchase of the visible filing system.

Frederick County Election officials said the visible file wil be a great improvement over the vertical system. The file will be particularly needed at rush times during and after election, they pointed out.

They explained that the registration cards will be so spread out under the visible system so that the names can be quickly discerned and the cards secured for whatever purpose is desired.

Under the present vertical system which they are abandoning, Frederick County officials pointed out, it is necessary to leaf through the files to "pull" the desired cards.

Court Dismisses Two Claims For Jobless Pay

Henderson Upholds Board's Rulings

Appeals of two claimants from rulings of the Maryland Employment Security Board were dismissed by Associate Judge George Henderson in opinions filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Judge Henderson upheld the board's decisions in the cases of William A. Adams, former Celanese employe, and Phyllis I. Duckworth, a former Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

Adams had claimed unemployment benefits after retiring from his job at the Amcelle plant when he reached the age of 65.

Judge Henderson wrote in his opinion that Adams had retired voluntarily after inquiring as to what benefits were due him if he quit work at retirement age.

Adams testified that he was led to believe he would be entitled to unemployment benefits after retiring. He also said he retired because his health was poor. He submitted a physician's certificate to prove it.

But the court ruled that Adams was able to perform his usual work which was described as "light work."

Judge Henderson ruled that a worker who retired voluntarily is not entitled to unemployment compensation even if he is told he will receive it.

In the Duckworth case, Judge Henderson found that the claimant voluntarily quit her clerical job at the tire plant because she "could not stand the work." She claimed she was overworked and that her supervisor discriminated against her.

The court upheld the board's ruling that the evidence failed to show that she was given more work than she could do, or that she was discriminated against to a great extent.

Judge Henderson observed that "the right to quit and the right to draw unemployment relief are two different things."

City Tax Bills To Be Prepared

City Collector George E. Davis yesterday placed an order for the printing of 15,000 tax bills in preparation for mailing tax bills for the city.

Passage of a levy ordinance calling for a $1.31 tax rate on each $100 of assessable property in the city yesterday gave the Collector's office the go-ahead on the preparation of the statements.

The Commercial Press will begin printing the tax statements today.

Davis said plates for the addressograph machine have been prepared and that work on the bills will begin as soon as the printer delivers the printed statements.

He said the office hopes to have the bills in the mail by September 15.

Workers in the city tax office are still making changes of address which have occurred since tax transcripts were furnished by the county and will continue to make late changes until the last of the month.

3 Trainmen Overcome In Tunnel

Joseph Gideon, Engineer Dies In Mishap

Three Baltimore and Ohio trainmen were overcome with fumes in the Knobley tunnel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, shortly before 12 o'clock last night, when their freight train stalled.

The men were taken to Memorial Hospital where one was reported dead and the other two not in serious condition.

The dead man was identified as Joseph H. Gideon, of Brunswick, the engineer.

The fireman, Noel Williams, Brunswick and brakeman, Earl M. Virts, also of Brunswick, are uninjured.

The train, east bound, identified as coal train No. 7616 was enroute from Rawlings to Brunswick, over the cut-off. Railroad officials here said they had not determined what caused the engine to stall in the tunnel, but the road foreman and other officials were investigating.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner was summoned to the hospital and pronounced the engineer dead.

Officials said the train was traveling about three miles per hour through the tunnel when the engineer was overcome. The fireman and brakeman realized he was overcome and also felt the effects of the fumes. They cut the engine from the train and rushed the engineer outside for air. A call was made from the Patterson Creek tower, for a car to take Gideon to the hospital where he was reported dead on arrival.

Four Damage Suits Filed After Crash

Plaintiffs Seek Total Of $10,000

Four damage suits totaling $10,000 were filed yesterday in Circuit Court against the driver of a car involved in a collision in which four people were hurt last March 13.

The motorist, Arben Haycock, was named defendant in suits filed by Carl E. Frankenberry, George E. Ellis, John W. Hall and Robert E. Metz, all of Cresaptown.

Frankenberry declared he was driving north on Route 220 near the Celanese with Ellis, Hall and Metz as passengers on the day of the accident.

A car driven by Haycock, he said, approached from the opposite direction "at a very high and excessive rate of speed," crossed the double white line in the center of the road, and struck Frankenberry's vehicle.

Frankenberry said he sustained lacerations and shock, lost time from work and lost considerable income because the car, which he used to haul riders to the Kelly-Springfield plant here, was demolished. He asked $3,000 damages.

Ellis and Hall asked $3,000 each for injuries and time lost from work. Ellis said he sustained a concussion of the brain, a sprained back, an eye injury and shock, was hospitalized for some time, and lost time from his job.

Hall said he also sustained a brain concussion, a right hand injury and shock, was hospitalized and lost time from work.

Metz asked $1,000 for injuries to his back and knee. He also said he was hospitalized and lost time from work.

William H. Geppert represents all four plaintiffs.

Resident Requests Walk Lights Replaced

Richard A. Porter, 28 Greene Street, yesterday morning asked the Cumberland city council to put the walk lights back in operation on Baltimore Street. Porter also called the city's attention to what he called "the dirty condition of the streets." No action was taken on his request.

City Tax Rate Officially Hiked Four Cents To $1.31

Buchholtz Voices Sharp Opposition

The city tax rate was set at $1.31 yesterday as the Mayor and Council voted four to one to approve the levy and budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

The action was taken over the sharp opposition of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will issue a statement in the near future stating his specific opposition to the levy which caused a four cent increase in property taxes in the city.

Buchholtz said that trimming of the budget presented last Thursday by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was the responsibility of the various departments.

To Raise $868,430

Basis for the levy was $48,000,000 of assessed real estate, $3,300,000 personal property held by individuals and another $14,000,000 by corporations for a total assessable basis of $65,300,000.

The $1.31 tax rate will bring in $855,430 from property, with another $13,000 income from bank stock for a total of $868,430, on this assessable basis.

Other income sources included in the levy are:

Allegany County, $7,630; general licenses, $63,000; general and special income, $38,000; interest on taxes, $3,000; permits, $1,800.

Other Income Listed

Police fines, $16,000; weights, $400; bingo tax, $12,000; state admission tax, $4,500; state auto license fees, $23,000; state franchise tax, $1,800.

Gasoline and auto tax, $58,000; income tax, $40,000; racing income, $40,000, and the surplus remaining on June 30, 1951, $85,000, for a total from other sources of $394,130.

The total budget for the year will be $1,262,560.

Commissioners Clash

Before the budget and levy ordinance was passed, Commissioner Buchholtz clashed verbally with Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long over the tax rate increase.

In defending the tax hike, Long said 2½ cents will be used to finance a mandatory pay raise for police and firemen. He also noted that the Fire Department would receive only $7,000 more than it did last year, although the pay boost would cost $13,000.

Long declared the city would have been justified in raising the tax rate five cents instead of four.

He also asked City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson if he (Gibson) had not told the Council at an executive session that the police and fire budget had been cut to the safe minimum.

Buchholtz objected to the question and Mayor Thomas S. Post ruled the discussion closed. After the meeting, however, Gibson told Long he felt the police and fire budget had been cut to the minimum allowed by efficiency.

Long maintained that the police force is undermanned and the Fire Department needs new equipment and repairs to old equipment.

Issues Statement

In a statement last night, Long said:

"The Mayor and Council met recently in several sessions of many hours to plan the budget. Surely if there is some sound reason why the budget should not have been passed today, the finance commissioner, in whose department the budget originated, should have reasons clearly stated before the deadline for voting.

"It is an old political trick to vote against taxes and especially when you know, from executive sessions, that everyone else is going to vote for the raise in taxes to keep the city sound financially.

"The finance commissioner voted no against the budget today and we should have had the benefit of his reasoning then, not when it is too late to do anything constructive about it."

Union Security Election Begins

Balloting in the union security election at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will get under way this morning at 1:30 o'clock.

Last minute arrangements for the National Labor Relations Board conducted poll were completed at a conference yesterday with company and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

James Blackwell, national TWUA representative, said approximately 4,500 workers will be eligible to vote in the election needed to validate union security clauses in the contract signed recently.

It was agreed yesterday, Blackwell said, that employes who have just returned from vacation or sick leave will receive voters identification slips in the main cafeteria during night hours and at the plant personnel office during the day.

Voting will continue tomorrow and Thursday, with the counting of ballots slated early Friday.

PSC Restricts Natural Gas Use

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20 (AP) — The Maryland Public Service Commission today ordered restrictions on the use of natural gas paralleling those the federal government set up last Wednesday.

The commission specified that no natural gas shall be sold to "a large volume consumer" unless gas-using equipment was installed before Aug. 22, 1951, or the seller had agreed in writing to do so prior to that date.

The gas may be delivered to large volume users, however, if the new equipment replaces other gas-fired equipment or if service can be cut off at the seller's request.

The commission also placed restrictions on the delivery of gas for the operation of central space heating equipment.

The commission's action followed notice to federal officials that the Maryland agency would exercise its own authority to the extent necessary to accomplish objectives of the defense production act.

In cases where a state regulatory body has the power to limit the use of natural gas, federal restrictions imposed by the petroleum administration for defense do not apply.

Firemen Plan Short Course

Representatives of the Cumberland Fire Department are expected to attend the annual Short Course for firemen September 4-7 in the Fire Service Building, College Park.

Director Robert C. Byrus announces the program will cover subjects of timely importance including, civil defense, removing smoke odors, fire fighting tactics, emergency water relay, selling fire prevention, hose evolutions, ladder evolutions and other subjects.

The instructors, Byrus added, will be selected for their knowledge and ability to teach. All the successful features of past short courses will be retained including panel discussions and movies.

Two B & O Engines Sideswipe Here

Two Baltimore and Ohio locomotives sideswiped about 12:42 p. m. yesterday in the Cumberland yards causing damages estimated at $2,500, a railroad spokesman said last night. The mishap in which no one was injured happened on the eastbound engine tracks when a steam locomotive No. 7600 collided with Diesel engine No. 811. Both engines were traveling in the same direction and the incident occurred near a switch where the tracks run close.

No delay was noted, the spokesman added, and the westbound lead was utilized until maintenance crews cleared the two engines.

Police To Delay All-Night Parking Action For Study

No action will be taken against drivers who park overnight on city streets until police have "thoroughly studied the present situation," Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said last night.

Last week, Long announced the start of an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is prohibited by a city ordinance. A survey showed there were 1,047 violations last week.

"The Police Department," Long said, "does not intend to create any hardship or inconvenience for the persons who must park their cars on the city streets all night.

"This condition is not new — it has existed for many years.

Citizens complain about cars parked in front of their homes. Streets have been posted when they were to be cleaned. The garbage contractor complains that he cannot operate his trucks on certain streets because of parking on both sides of those streets.

"All we ask is that you keep in mind the nights your streets are to be serviced and co-operate.

"The Police Department does not intend to take action toward any night parking - violator until we have thoroughly studied the present situation.

"We believe it can be solved by co-operation by all concerned and the use of common sense."

In announcing th drive last week, Long said first offenders would receive warning tickets. In some cases, he added, permits to park all night would be issued.

RED CHARGE 'NOT SUBSTANTIATED'

Soviet "Peace" Move Is Sham, Truman Says

Russian Resolution Is Sent To Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — President Truman sent Russia's "peace resolution" to Congress today with a warning that it fails to guarantee "any change in the hostile and expansionist policies of the Soviet Union, which now threaten world peace."

Sharply discounting the Soviet gesture, Mr. Truman outlined an eight-point program of things he said Russia should do if it really wants peace.

As evidence of good faith, the President said, the Soviet Union should:

1. Stop "flouting the authority" of the United Nations.

Cease Supporting Aggression

2. Cease supporting armed aggression in defiance of the United Nations.

3. Help establish peace with Germany, Austria and Japan.

4. Refrain from employing force to maintain regimes in other countries which lack the support of their own people.

5. Cease supporting subversive movements in other countries.

6. Cease distorting the motives and actions of other peoples and governments.

7. Stop violating human rights and liberties.

8. Join "in good faith in the earnest effort" to find means for reducing armaments and controlling atomic energy "in the interest of peace."

Advises Against Policy Change

But Mr. Truman told Congress: "Until we have concrete evidence that the Soviet Union has in fact changed its policies, I cannot advise the Congress to change the policies of the United States."

Mr. Truman made his barbed comments in a message accompanying the resolution adopted by the Presidium of the Supreme Court and a letter from Soviet President Nikolai M. Shvernik.

The Soviet claim of peaceful intentions came as a belated answer to a resolution passed by Congress last June expressing the friendship of the American people for all other peoples, including the Russians. Mr. Truman had sent the messages to President Shvernik with a request that it be made public to the Soviet people.

Senate Unit May Vote Today On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee failed today to reach the voting stage on its mammoth new tax bill, but Chairman George (D-Ga) said balloting may begin tomorrow.

The House has passed a bill calling for $7,200,000,000 in new taxes. Senators may reduce this amount in their version of the measure and change the method of raising more than $2,000,000,000 in new income taxes.

Truman Asks $400,000,000 For Midwest Flood Victims, Disaster Insurance System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—President Truman today asked Congress for $400,000,000 to aid sufferers of the flood-ravaged Middle West and set up a system of flood disaster insurance.

White House aides said the request was believed to be the biggest in the history of American disaster relief.

Mr. Truman urged Congress to provide the money "with the greatest possible speed" as an emergency measure.

He said physical damage from the flood waters in Kansas, Missouri and nearby states had passed the billion-dollar mark, with loss of income amounting to about $1,000,000,000 more.

$25,000,000 Appropriated

Congress has already appropriated $25,000,000 to cope with the immediate emergency, but Mr. Truman said 16 times that much is needed to help the Midwest dig out of the mud-engulfing cities, farms, and factories.

In a special message to the legislators, the President said the region was of such great importance to the nation that its recovery must be speeded.

Vive President Alben Barkley referred the request jointly to the Senate Public Works and Appropriations Committees in order to speed action. Ordinarily, it would have been considered first by Public Works, later by Appropriations.

The President asked approval of the $400,000,000 appropriation:

1. To indemnify the flood victims "for a portion" of their loss of real and personal property.

Would Make Loan

2. To make and guarantee loans on liberal terms "for the building of homes and business to replace those destroyed."

3. To help farmers drain and rehabilitate their land, replace buildings, "and restore the productive capacity of their farms, through on-farm assistance and disaster loans."

4. To permit loans where necessary to enable state and local government participation in the rehabilitation activities.

5. To provide funds to establish "a national system of flood disaster insurance, similar to the war damage system of World War 2.

Mr. Truman told Congress he expects to establish a "flood disaster administration" as a small policy and control body, with operating functions placed in existing federal and state departments and agencies.

Hurricane Gains Force In Sweep Toward Mexico

"Charlie" Packing Winds Of 120 MPM

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20 (AP) — A tropical hurricane built up its power to 120-miles-an-hour winds tonight in the southwestern Gulf of Mexico and headed for the Mexican mainland.

The hurricane dropped to 75-mile-an-hour winds in smashing across the Yucatan peninsula earlier today. No deaths were reported on the peninsula, from the storm that four days ago killed 109 persons in sweeping across Jamaica.

At 7 p. m. (EST) the hurricane was located about 130 miles west of Merida on the northwestern tip of the peninsula.

Moving 16 Miles An Hour

The New Orleans Weather Bureau reported it was moving in a westward direction at 16 miles an hour toward the eastern coast of Mexico.

The storm struck the peninsula with 100-mile-an-hour winds but was slowed in its blast over land. It burst into the gulf with winds of 75 miles per hour, barely hurricane force. But it gained strength over water.

Hurricane winds extended about 50 miles to the north and gales extended an additional 200 miles to the north.

W. R. Stevens, chief forecaster of the New Orleans Weather Bureau termed it "a very dangerous hurricane."

Plane Warns Small Vessels

The same storm, named "Charlie" by the Weather Bureau, was less destructive in its march across the Yucatan peninsula, than when it hit Jamaica with 130-mile an hour winds. Jamaican damage was reported at $56,000,000. No estimate of damage was made of its strike on Yucatan.

As the storm moved through the Gulf, a Coast Guard PBY amphibious plane flew ahead dropping messages to small vessels warning them that they were in the path of a hurricane and should seek shelter.

Motorist Meets Double Trouble

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 20 (AP)—When trouble came to James A. Jones today, it came double.

Jones, 20, stopped his car at a traffic signal. Then, he told police, three young men opened the door, jerked him out and took $15 and his car keys from him.

They fled. He chased them for a block or so but lost them. While he was hunting for them, they returned to his car and stole it, too.

South Korean Troops Seize Four Heights

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21 (AP)—In fierce fighting on the Eastern Korean front Monday, South Korean troops crossed minefields and captured four heights in hand-to-hand battles with stubbornly-resisting Reds.

Other South Koreans, using bayonets and hand grenades to clear the way, surged up the slopes of two other knife-edge ridges, to reach within 50 feet of the top by late afternoon.

Cold And Polio Cures, Moon Trips Seen Within 75 Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Leading chemists predict cures for the common cold and polio, rocket trips to the moon, even guarantees of no rain at picnics.

How soon? Within the next 75 years.

What they see in the crystal ball of the future is told in the diamond jubilee issue of the American Chemical Society magazine, Chemical and Engineering News. The society celebrates its 75th anniversary at a meeting here Sept. 3-7.

Prof. John C. Bailar, University of Illinois, foresees "cures or preventives available for infantile paralysis, mental illnesses, allergies, the common cold."

The complex chemistry of cancer, hardening of arteries, and arthritis will be unraveled, adds Dr. H. B. Haas, General Aniline and Film Corp., New York.

"At least one man will have circumnavigated the moon and returned safely,"—Dr. C. C. Furnas, Cornell Aeronautical Lab., Inc., Buffalo.

The first moon rocket won't be manned, says Dr. A. V. Grosse, research institute of Temple University. "It will be easily observed as it strikes the moon by the flash of magnesium in its head."

"Not only making rain but preventing it will be established practice," assuring sunny picnics—Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen, U. S. Testing Co., Inc., Boston.

11 Killed When Plane Crashes Into GIs' Truck

Both Catch Fire; 22 Others Injured

FORT DIX, N. J., Aug. 20 (AP)—A jet training plane, fighting for altitude, roared into a truck full of soldiers at the edge of McGuire Air Base today, killing 11 men and injuring 22.

The plane bounced off the truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training. Both the truck and the plane caught fire and burned fiercely.

The tired soldiers were just starting back to Fort Dix for supper. As they climbed into the truck they saw the plane bearing down on them at tremendous speed. Before they could jump clear, it plowed into them, showering the truck with blazing jet fuel.

Two Fliers Killed Instantly

Army authorities said the two Air Force officers in the plane were killed instantly. Nine GIs on the ground died in the crash. Of the 22 injured, 16 were treated at the post hospital for minor burns and injuries and released. The other six were detained two of them in critical condition.

More than 50 soldiers were in the group around the truck in a clearing of the woods where the Ninth Division has an outdoor training school. They had just finished the day's work. Some had gotten into the truck. Others were standing nearby.

The plane gouged a 200-yard path through the woods.

Cause Undetermined

An Army spokesman said the control tower saw the plane was in trouble as soon as it took off and was trying to reach it by radio when it slammed to the ground.

The identities of the dead and injured were withheld by Army authorities pending notification of next of kin.

Army firefighters raced to the crash scene and put out the fire in the truck and plane.

The cause of the crash was not known immediately, but some witnesses said the plane was on fire before it crashed.

Suspended State Dept. Aide Tells Of Visiting Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Oliver Edmund Clubb, suspended chief of the State Department's China section, today told of conferring with Communists during a visit he paid to the magazine New Masses while on home leave from China in 1932.

But Clubb introduced entries from a personal diary relating that when he sought out the left-wingers in New York he was "masquerading somewhat under false pretenses" and "felt too much like a stranger to show the proper revolutionary enthusiasm."

Reversing his earlier testimony, the 50-year-old witness told the House Un-American Activities Committee that among those he met at the New Masses office was Whittaker Chambers, who later confessed he had acted as a courier for a Soviet spy ring.

Clubb had told the committee last March that he didn't recall ever meeting Chambers, but he said today a diary had refreshed his memory.

Clubb gave his testimony against a background of charges that the State Department's Far East policies helped bring about the Communist conquest of China.

A veteran of many years' diplomatic service in the Far East, Clubb told the lawmakers he visited the left-wing New Masses office because he liked to meet new people when he was home on leave from foreign duty to "get the picture of conditions" in the United States.

Fires Sweep Forests In Pacific Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20. (AP)—Fires ripped through the forests of Western Oregon, Washington and California today.

At some 50 scattered spots in the Pacific northwest flames ate into huge Douglas fir trees and sent smoke clouds into the sky.

Humidity was down to 10 per cent in some of the woods areas and Oregon and Washington foresters kept all logging operations shut down. That put 35,000 men out of work. The Western Washington ban was on a day-to-day basis. The Western Oregon closure was "until fall rains come."

There has been no rain of consequence since May.

Gutted Truck After Jet Crash

A soldier examines the charred wreckage of an Army truck which was struck and set afire by a crashing jet training plane at Fort Dix, N. J., yesterday, killing 11 men and injuring 22. The plane bounced off the loaded truck and plowed on into a woods where the ground soldiers had been training.

Butler's Senate Campaign Hailed By Sen. M'Carthy

Served To Expose 'Reds In Government'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Republican campaign tactics in Maryland's 1950 senatorial election were defended today by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who said they served to expose "Communists in government."

A Senate subcommittee which investigated the contest denounced the campaign conducted in behalf of Sen. Butler (R-Md.) as a "despicable 'back street' type." It said "non-Maryland outsiders" were important factors in it and named McCarthy as one of them.

But the committee did not recommend that Butler be unseated. The Baltimore lawyer defeated former Sen. Millard Tydings, a Democrat, by 43,000 votes.

Butler's Campaign Praised

McCarthy, rising in the Senate to make a minority report on the inquiry, claimed Butler's campaign was "intelligent and courageous." He said it was quite true that he had participated in the campaign and added that he intended to take part in others.

Communists in government was the "one big issue" of the Butler-Tydings campaign, the Wisconsin Senator said, and the investigating committee's report, signed by seven Democrats and two Republicans, failed to take this into account.

Before he ran for reelection, Tydings had directed a Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges that Reds had infiltrated the State Department. A majority of the Tydings committee denounced the McCarthy charges as a hoax. McCarthy repeated today his contention that the inquiry was a "whitewash."

Charges Tydings Lied

"Why the (elections) subcommittee feels it was proper for Tydings to lie and put the finger on the Butler campaign for exposing that lie, I don't know," McCarthy said.

"Sen. Tydings lied about the State Department files, and he lied about the FBI investigation of them. It was a dishonest thing on the part of Tydings. All we did is expose them."

McCarthy also claimed that Tydings refused to call witnesses whose names were offered to him. Some of this evidence is now coming out in other hearings, he said.

Three Money Bills Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today three big appropriations bills, trimmed by a total of $320,000,000 under President Truman's budget requests.

The bills provide $2,512,004,000 for the Labor and Federal Security Departments, $802,988,000 for Agriculture and $511,865,336 for the Interior Department.

President Truman had asked for $251,334,000 more than the amount approved for Labor and Federal Security, $17,017,546 more for Agriculture, and $52,220,664 more for Interior.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 20 (AP)—The Huntington Publishing Co. today offered $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who stole nearly 1,000 copies of the Herald-Dispatch from West Huntington streets this morning.

Probers Told Red Spies Influenced Jap Attack On U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — A Japanese official swore today that a Communist spy ring helped to influence Japan to attack the United States in World War II, and had tipped Russia before Pearl Harbor that the plans would bear fruit.

The sworn testimony was given by Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for Japan's attorney general, at a surprise meeting of the Senate Security Subcommittee.

Yoshikawa, speaking through an interpreter, said he learned the story from the confession of Richard Sorge, head of the spy ring, whom the Japanese hanged in 1943 for espionage.

Senate Passes Defense Housing Bill Compromise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Senate approved and sent to the House today a $1,635,000,000 defense housing bill, designed to help provide housing for workers in critical defense areas.

As agreed to by a joint Senate-House committee which worked out the differences between original Senate and House versions of the bill, lower down payments on low and moderate priced houses would be permitted all over the nation.

Down payments would range as low as four per cent of the purchase price of a house costing $7,000 or less, on a GI loan. The GI down payment on a house in the $7,000-$10,000 range would be six per cent, and eight per cent on one in the $10,000-$12,000 class.

A 10 per cent down payment would be required on a $7,00 house on which the Federal Housing Administration insured the mortgage, or which was conventionally financed. This would step up to 15 per cent down on a $7,000-$10,000 house, and 20 per cent on one costing from $10,000 to $12,000.

Purchasers would have 25 years to pay. The terms are considerably easier than those now required under residential credit regulation "X," which also operates on a sliding scale.

The conferees agreed also to permit the government-owned Federal National Mortgage Association to make commitments to purchase up to $200,000,000 in mortgages between now and the end of the year. This would be to cover loans made under the Military Housing Act, dwellings in critical defense areas, and housing made necessary by disasters, such as floods.

McFarland Raps Republican RFC Report Charges

'Political Poppycock,' Ariz. Democrat Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz) told the Senate today that Republican charges made against President Truman in a minority report on the RFC investigation are "political poppycock."

The majority leader accused the Republicans of "smirking piety" and "demogogic political inference and innuendo." No one can charge the President with "personal or official dishonesty," McFarland declared.

His attack was directed at a blistering report written by Sens. Capehart (R-Ind) and Bricker (R-Ohio) as an aftermath of a Senate subcommittee's inquiry into lending policies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Pendergast Politics" Charged

Bricker and Capehart said Mr. Truman and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle have transferred corrupt "Pendergast politics" to a national level. They charged that Donald Dawson, the President's patronage chief, has been proved "incapable of honest duty." They also hit at government "blood suckers" and "political parasites."

The charges against Mr. Truman and Boyle. McFarland said, are "the high point in political effrontery, in sheer undiluted political hokum."

"No man living can point a finger at Harry Truman and charge personal or official dishonesty," McFarland said. "No man living can say Harry Truman is corrupt."

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) characterized the charges against the President and Boyle as "scurrilous."

Democrats' Version Is Milder

Three Democratic members of the subcommittee came out with a majority report asserting they have fully proved charges the RFC fell prey to a political influence ring "with White House contacts."

But their version was much milder, more general, and didn't call names.

Fulbright, who is chairman of the subcommittee, said the GOP minority report was so partisan he regretted it had to be printed at public expense.

Thus the subcommittee closed its books on a sensational year-long investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the government's big lending agency.

Aid Bill Action Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Senate committee action on the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program was delayed today when not enough senators showed up for a meeting.

Five Russian Exile Groups Unite To Fight Dictatorship

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 20 (AP)—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the short-lived Russian Republic after the 1917 revolution, said tonight five anti-Communist Russian exile groups have banded together to fight dictatorship in their homeland.

The merged exiles call themselves the "Council for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia."

In an interview the aging anti-Communist declared "the Soviet Union intends to fight a global war when the financial structure of the United States, Britain and France is weakened."

"Russia is now conducting a peace war," he said. "She is deceiving the people. The purpose is not peace at all but war."

Kerensky came from America to lead the refugee talks and presided at the four-day meeting. They met in strict secrecy, guarded by German plain clothes officers. Delegates feared Communist reprisals as they formed the five-ply organization.

Joy Tells Nam Probe Doesn't Back Up Claim

Shooting Attributed To Korean Civilians

MUNSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21. (AP)—Deadlocked Korean truce talks appeared headed into a new crisis today because of a shooting in the neutral zone near Kaesong, site of the conference.

However, Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes and Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke left Munsan as usual today for subcommittee talks at Kaesong on the tangled armistice buffer zone issue.

A strongly-worded protest by Korean Lt. Nam Il, chief Red armistice delegate, blamed Allied troops for the slaying of a Chinese patrol leader Sunday morning.

Nam demanded a "satisfactory reply" at once.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior United Nations truce delegate, replied from Tokyo today that a preliminary investigation by a joint Allied - Communist liaison group "does not substantiate the charges you have made."

Joy added that he would reply fully to Nam after he gets a complete report from the investigators.

Korean Civilians Blamed

A U. N. command statement Monday night attributed the shooting to Korean civilians trying to sabotage the truce talks. The statement said preliminary investigation "failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any United Nations military formation."

It said "the possibility exists that the shooting was the work of a politically-guided civilian group operating under instructions to create an atmosphere of tension which would tend to support the breaking off of the current military armistice conference."

Elaborating, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. delegation spokesman, told correspondents "there are indications that there is a segment, mainly political in nature, who feel their war against the South Koreans should be continued."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo issued a statement Monday night, however, which left open whether North Korean or South Korean civilians may have done the shooting.

Dressed In Civilian Clothes

The Ridgway headquarters statement said "preliminary questioning of witnesses has disclosed that many of the assailants were dressed in civilian clothes and did not wear steel helmets or other military garb.

"Some witnesses stated that a great number of the participants were civilians, who may be partisans of either side who are intent on sabotaging the efforts of the delegations to arrive at a satisfactory armistice negotiations."

The South Koreans have consistently protested any settlement leaving Korea divided, and there have been many indications that the North Korean Reds also want everything or nothing.

While the neutral zone dispute remained up in the air, the Reds appeared intent on capitalizing on the incident. An elaborately-staged

Oregon Convicts Continue Strike

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP) — Thirteen hundred convicts refused tonight to end their sitdown strike in exchange for food. They haven't had a meal since Thursday breakfast.

Warden George Alexander won the first break in the six-day strike when 40 trusties went back to work this morning.

As the warden gained this ground, there came a hint that move to oust him immediately might not succeed. Gov. Douglas McKay said the prison board of control is not going to be hurried into picking a new warden. Alexander has been slated for several months to shift to a new job as administrator in which he would not have a hand in prisoner control.

Although Alexander's edict of work-or-don't-eat brought the 40 trusties—mostly cooks, truck drivers, and gardeners—into line this morning, there was no hint from the quiet cell blocks that the 1,310 other foodless convicts were ready to follow suit.

They have been flavoring their water with salt and calling it chicken soup or mixing in sugar for energy, a prisoner released today said in an interview. The released man, George A. McIntyre, Boston, who completed 10 months for larceny by bailee, said the inmates started their strike without premeditation. It just grew, he said, after Guard Lt. Morris Race used a billy club on a prisoner in breaking up a fight.

Price Says USSR A-Bombs Potent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Congress was told today that the Russians have more and bigger atom bombs than previously believed, but that they are in for a "sad" time if they start a world war.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.) made the first part of the statement — about Russia's atomic progress. He told the House:

"There is no question but what Russia has more atom bombs than we expected and they are bigger and more potent than previously believed."

On the other side of the Capitol Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said about the same time that the military high command had given legislators the following assurance:

"The Russians would find it a very, very sad affair if they attack us now."

Price is a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. He protested a deep slash made by the House Appropriations Committee in funds for civil defense. The committee cut the fund from $535,000,000 to $65,255,000, saying administration officials had not presented any "realistic" plan.

McKeldin Would Back "Ike" If Nominated

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, continuing a vacation tour of the Pacific coast, today told an interviewer he would support Gen. Eisenhower for president in 1952 if the General is nominated.

However, the Governor said he does not favor Eisenhower for President.

Price Lids Taken Off Antique Autos

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP) — Price ceilings were removed from antique automobiles today.

OPS, which took the action, said it applies to all cars more than 25 years old.

Such vehicles are not to be confused with ordinary jalopies of less hoary vintages. OPS said that when a car passes its 25h birthday, it enters the antique class and usually has a value far higher than younger used cars.

McCarran Warns Of Aliens' Threat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said today that possibly 5,000,000 aliens have poured into the country illegally, creating a situation "potentially more dangerous" than an armed invasion.

Vast numbers of "militant Communists, Sicilian bandits and other criminals" are among the 5,000,000, McCarran stated.

He said they would provide an enemy nation with "a ready-made fifth column."

McCarran is chairman of a Senate subcommittee on internal security. The group has just completed an investigation of alleged subversive activities in the United States. The Nevada Senator said his information about illegal aliens came from secret testimony by immigration officials.

Handicapped by lack of funds and staff, the Immigration Service has made little effort to seek out unwanted foreigners and deport them, McCarran said. His statement accompanied the subcommittee's report to the Senate.

Iranian Oil Talks On Verge Of Collapse

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 20 (AP)—British-Iranian oil talks were reported tonight on the edge of collapse—kept going only by the abrupt threat of American Envoy Averell Harriman to withdraw from his peacemaking role.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was reported visibly shaken by Harriman's threat and accusation that the Iranians were not negotiating "in good faith" to break the deadlock that has closed the British-owned but nationalized Abadan oil refinery.

After a two-hour talk with Harriman and Richard Stokes, the British negotiator, Mossadegh told reporters he was "hopeful" new talks would have good results.

ITU Told It Has Fight On Hands

ATLANTA, Aug. 20 (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers' Association was told by a labor union today that it had a fight on its hands. The warning came from two attorneys for the International Typographical Union, now holding its 93rd convention.

Earlier, the printers heard AFL President William Green characterize Sen. Robert Taft (R-O) as "an organizer of Communism in America." Green said the Taft-Hartley law "has made people resentful and they may turn their faces toward Communism."

The attorneys Gerhart Van Arkle and Henry Kaiser, were highly critical of the National Labor Relations Board.

Van Arkle, commenting on the number of cases brought against the ITU before the labor board and utrin court, asserted: "Our defeat is sought by the sheer volume of litigation. The ITU will not be litigated out of existence."

Van Arkle told the convention that under the Taft-Hartley law they could not enforce a demand for jurisdiction over the varitype or teletypesetter processes of printing.

To strike over that demand would be, he said, a jurisdictional dispute within the meaning of the Taft-Hartley Act—and jurisdictional disputes are forbidden even where non-union workers are involved.

Bride-To-Be Winner Of 'Powder Puff Derby'

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP) — Miss Claire McMillen, a tall blonde bride-to-be from Santa Ana, Calif., tonight was declared the winner of the fifth annual all-woman transcontinental air race—the so-called "Powder Puff Derby."

Miss McMillen, 27, piloted the Cessna 140 "Bellflower Belles" across the finish line of the Santa Ana-to-Detroit race late Friday afternoon, a little more than 48 hours after the takeoff. Her co-pilot was Mrs. Frances Bera, 26, Bellflower, Calif.

BROMLEY, Eng., Aug. 20 (AP)—Quadruplets—two boys and two girls—were born today to the wife of a $19.60-a-week mechanic, but the largest of the four died tonight.

The three surviving babies were all in oxygen tents.

The mother is Mrs. Muriel Brown, 27.

Youth, 16, Has His First Sip Of Water

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, his life despaired of when he was born without an esophagus—the tube that carries food to the stomach—had his first sip of water today.

"It felt kind of ticklish," said Robert Earl Linsig, Marlboro, N. Y.

Today's drink was made possible by an operation five years ago.

Doctors then joined his stomach and mouth with a section of his small intestine. It didn't take at the time, but the makeshift esophagus was left in place.

Now, after another operation on the same tube, doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian-Medical Center are cautiously hopeful.

Slain OSS Major's Body Brought Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) — The body of Maj. William V. Holohan, victim of a mysterious cloak-and-dagger slaying in wartime Italy, was brought home today after seven years.

The bronze casket was lowered from a Navy transport to a flag-draped pier at the Brooklyn Army Base.

Two of Maj. Holohan's American comrades in an Office of Strategic Services behind-the-lines mission are accused by the Defense Department of helping slay Holohan.

Attention Celanese Workers

Every employee who is eligible to vote has a stake in the Union Security election today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The unfair Taft-Hartley Law counts every eligible vote not cast as a vote against Union Security.

This unfair law says if you are in hospital, sick or disabled at home, absent on vacation, or not scheduled to work any of the election days your eligible vote is counted against Union Security.

Every vote counts. Every vote is needed. If you are disabled, but are willing and able to be moved Local 1874 will provide ambulance service for you tomorrow or Thursday.

If you are not scheduled to work on any of the three election days and have no other means of transportation to the plant we will arrange to pick you up and return you home after voting.

You will vote in the Union Booth at the Main Gate.

Any eligible voters needing ambulance service or transportation should telephone us promptly.

Telephone CUMBERLAND 1652 — or CUMBERLAND 3553.

Every possible vote is needed to make the Union Security clause in our present contract legal and valid.

A Message To

Celanese Workers About The Union Security Election

The Union Security clause negotiated in your contract will not be legally valid until a majority of Celanese workers vote "YES" at the National Labor Relations Board election on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The "red tape" of the unfair Taft-Hartley Law makes it necessary to go to the expense and inconvenience of holding this election. It will cost the United States government, the Union and the company MONEY. It will INCONVENIENCE Celanese workers.

In August 1948 Celanese workers voted more than one hundred to one at the same type of an election, on the same question, in favor of Union Security. The vote was 7530 voting YES and only 75 voting NO.

Now we have to go through with it again!

Can You Figure This Out?

When we vote for a senator, congressman, governor, state legislator, mayor, city councilman, sheriff or any other elected public official it is only necessary for the candidate to get a majority OF THE VOTES CAST in order to win election. THAT IS THE DEMOCRATIC WAY.

The Taft-Hartley Law thinks this is too good for labor unions of working people. So The Taft-Hartley Law says that Celanese workers can not have UNION SECURITY unless a majority OF ALL ELIGIBLE VOTERS cast favorable ballots in the election. THAT IS TAFT-HARTLEY LAW TYRANNY.

Can you figure it out?

It Is Up To You To Vote!

You may wonder about the ELIGIBLE voters who are sick, in hospital, away on vacation or absent from work owing to other emergencies during the election . . . and are UNABLE to go to the plant and vote?

Well, the answer to that is simple. The Taft-Hartley Law counts THEM—and everyone who doesn't vote—as being AGAINST Union Security! Yes, that's the Taft-Hartley Law!

So, it is up to every Celanese worker who IS able to be in the plant on election days to cast his or her vote for Union Security.

Voting will take place on this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 21, 22 and 23. Times and places are posted on all Bulletin Boards and in Local 1874 handbills.

Local 1874 members won out against the same obstacles in 1948 by better than one hundred to one vote. Let's do it again!

Anti-Communist Council Urges That War In Korea Be Kept Going

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Council Against Communist Aggression urges that the war in Korea be kept going, saying that is better than any end to the fighting that is likely to come out of the Kaesong cease-fire talks.

The organization, made up of some union officials, writers, students and other individuals interested in the Far East and in the strategy of Communism, argued against accepting in Korea anything less than a unified nation safe from renewed Red attack

Its statement summed up the point in this manner.

"Short of the utopia of a unified, free and independent Korea, our best chance to win peace in Asia is active or stalemated hostility in Korea which will tie down Chinese Communist and allied Soviet forces until French and free Viet-Namese in Indo-China and British in Malaya have crushed the Communist rebels and the Philipinos have eliminated them from their islands.

"Buttressed by settlement of the Kashmir dispute on any reasonable basis, extension of the new Pacific pact of the United States, New Zealand and Australia to the Philippines and a rearmed Japan, linked with a Southeast Asia alliance when they are ready, we can gain and hold sections of Asia for freedom as decisive in their sphere as Western Europe.

"Because of Soviet Communism's greater military vulnerability in East Asia, this can effectively counter-weight Soviet Russia against further aggression in Western Europe, where Stalin's forces are at the same time most secure and most offensively powerful."

The council, formed in Philadelphia early this year, has the announced aim of "dissemination of democracy's information in aid of world freedom."

Extradition Of Suspects

The request of an Italian court for extradition of two American former OSS agents accused of the murder of Major William Holohan must be approved by the Italian Foreign Ministry before it can reach the U. S. State Department. But the responsibility of the State Department thereafter is clear. It would request warrants and affidavits and arrange for a hearing before a United States commissioner or federal judge.

If sufficient evidence were submitted to support the Italian charges, the men—Aldo Icardi and Carl LoDolce—would have to be turned over to the Italian court for trial. Frequently in cases of extradition between nations, one country can refuse to turn over its own citizens for trial by another. But the U. S. Supreme Court ruled in 1913 that the American treaty with Italy on extradition covered American nationals accused of committing crimes in Italy.

In the case of Charlton v. Kelly the Court decided that Porter Charlton must be given over to Italian authorities for the alleged murder of his wife. Evidence had been put before a federal court in New Jersey that Charlton was insane. But Italy had sent copies of a confession which it said Charlton had signed.

Part of the Charlton case revolved around the meaning of the word "persons" in the U. S.-Italian treaty on extradition of 1868. In the words of the treaty, "The Government of the United States and the Government of Italy mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been convicted of or charged with the crimes in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other." Murder is one of the crimes named in the next article.

Said the Court: "That the word 'persons' etymologically includes citizens as well as those who are not can hardly be debatable. The treaty contains no reservation of citizens of the country of asylum."

An interesting aspect of the Charlton case is the fact that the Italian penal code of that time provided that Italian nationals could not be extradited for crimes committed abroad. In requesting Charlton's extradition, Italy argued that the penal code was consistent with the treaty in that Italian nationals could be prosecuted in Italy for crimes committed abroad, whereas under U. S. law Americans could not be tried in the United States for crimes committed elsewhere.

Some doubt remains of the jurisdiction of Italy in the slaying of Holohan. In December, 1944, the whole northern part of Italy was still in Axis hands. An Italian court has ruled, however, that Italy does have jurisdiction over two alleged Italian participants in the murder plot.

The question of extradition has arisen, too, in the demand of Poland that Sweden return 12 Polish sailors who fled the country in a Polish minesweeper. Sweden has already granted asylum to the mutineers and to four other Poles who escaped by airplane.

The United States has been generous in providing the privilege of asylum to political refugees from countries behind the Iron Curtain. Moreover, a provision of the 1949 Central Intelligence Act appears to encourage defection. Admission is authorized for 100 aliens a year who can give information "in the interest of national security or essential to the furtherance of the national intelligence mission."

Monopoly In Boxing

Professional boxing will be the subject of a congressional investigation similar to that being given organized baseball by the House Monopoly Subcommittee if three senators from the Northwest have their way. Sens. Cain (R., Wash.) and Welker (R., Ida.) have introduced a resolution (S. Res. 191) calling for an inquiry into control of boxers by the International Boxing Club, and Sen. Magnuson (D., Wash.) is sponsoring another (S. Res. 189) to bring television restrictions in boxing under scrutiny.

The senatbrs argue that when Joey Maxim makes a long-delayed defense of his light-heavyweight title on Wednesday, his opponent should be Harry "Kid" Matthews — constituent of Cain and Magnuson and native son of Welker's Idaho—rather than "Irish" Bob Murphy. Matthews trounced Murphy in March but is being snubbed, the senators contend, by the IBC monopoly.

International Boxing Club was formed in 1949 following the first retirement of Joe Louis from the ring. Louis was then said to be the principal promoter. IBC soon absorbed the previous promotional monopoly, Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting Club, and a short-lived rival, the Tournament of Champions.

The power of the IBC lies in the exclusive service contracts it holds to promote fights by most of the country's leading boxers. This power is fortified by the syndicate's control of boxing in Madison Square Garden, the New York ball parks, and other principal sports arenas throughout the country.

Magnuson's concern over whether the IBC is "preventing or hindering the American public from viewing" boxing and wrestling "through the medium of television" contrasts sharply with a congressional attitude of some 40 years ago. In 1912 interstate shipment of prize fight films was flatly prohibited. The law was passed because of racial feeling aroused by the defeat of a white heavyweight by the Negro champion, Jack Johnson. However, it was violated with impunity in later years and finally was repealed in 1940.

Needed Investigation

The reaction of many Americans to the report that the Bureau of Internal Revenue is to be subjected to a congressional investigation will be that it's about time. They remember the charges that tax collectors have taken bribes and extorted money from taxpayers, that tax cases have been settled through political influence and that certain gangsters have enjoyed easy treatment at the bureau's hands.

The specific purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether the tax laws are being fairly and efficiently administered, whether the staffs are competent and, in general, whether the system is properly organized to collect the billions of money annually contributed by the people to the support of their government. These are proper objectives but the by-products of such an investigation can provide sensations not unlike those which accompanied the RFC hearings.

The mere fact that in one New York district alone eight deputy collectors were convicted of bribery is enough to show what may be revealed in a country-wide study.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Glands Swell In Hodgkin's Disease

Hodgkin's Disease is a rare condition leading to progressive enlargement of the lymph nodes. To some authorities the malady has all the earmarks of inflammation; to others it resembles a neoplasm (tumor).

Symptoms are just as vague as the cause. There are lymph structures all over the body and early manifestations depend upon the set involved initially. The most common symptom is swelling of the neck glands. Now and then it occurs rapidly as in the gentleman described by Dr. Antonio Rottino of New York City. This man discovered, while shaving one morning, that his neck was enlarged; the preceding day it had been normal. In another instance a mother sent her child to a St. Patrick's day parade. She had washed his neck thoroughly before dressing him; when the youngster returned that afternoon, she noticed swollen nodes in the neck. By the next day they had grown so large that she took the boy to the hospital for advice.

It so happened that in both patients, Hodgkin's disease was the diagnosis but as a rule swelling of the neck glands has simpler origins. In children the condition is quite common and usually can be traced to sore throat, tonsilitis, or ear infection.

When the glands in the groin or axilla are attacked first in Hodgkin's disease, swelling in these areas is marked; but glands on the inside of the body, such as in the chest and abdomen, also may be involved and considerable enlargement is necessary before any sign of trouble is produced. When this occurs, the disorder may escape detection for months or years. A good example of this type of involvement is illustrated by the young men who was sent to the hospital because of fever and slight cough. X-ray of the chest revealed a mass that was interpreted as a tumor. A short time later a gland in the neck began to enlarge. It was removed and sent to the laboratory, where the correct diagnosis was made. In this case, the true situation was not discovered until the ailment had spread to a more accessible area.

In the early stage of the disease the affliction is confined to the glands. The nodes are small and isolated in the beginning but later increase in size and number so that great collections of tumors appear in any of the locations mentioned.

Ultimately, the swelling presses upon more vital structures such as the windpipe, the blood vessels, esophagus (gullet), gall bladder, stomach, and even the spinal cord. The spleen also enlarges. Meanwhile, appetite wanes, weight is lost, anemia develops, and fever is present. Unless treated, the disorder may be fatal within two or three years.

This illness cannot be prevented because the cause is not known and there is no way of determining who will become a victim. But with treatment it is possible to elleviate symptoms, reduce glandular swelling, and prolong life for many years. The best plan to date is X-ray, especially in the early stages before spread has occurred all over the body. Nitrogen mustard also is used, as well as certain isotopes.

EAR PULSE

B.Z. writes: For several months the pulse beat in my left ear has been throbbing noticeably. Can you explain this peculiar sensation?

REPLY

It may be due to ear infection or blockage of the canal. A circulatory disturbance and an abnormality of the blood vessels are other possibilities. A checkup is in order.

HYPOSPRAY

H. N. writes: Is the hypospray that received so much publicity still in use?

REPLY

I doubt it, because I have seen no follow-up reports on this instrument. There may be reasons other than medical which center about its manufacture and sale.

TOO MUCH D

Mrs. Y. writes: What ill effects could develop from taking too much vitamin D?

REPLY

An overdosage disturbs calcium metabolism and as a result the arteries, liver, and kidneys suffer. In some instances kidney stones form and uremia occurs. This complication came to the attention of the medical profession several years ago when massive doses of vitamin D were recommended in the treatment of arthritis over a long period of time. The fad ended after several fatalities were reported.

BALLOON BLOWING

Mrs. D. writes: My child was playing a balloon blowing game with other youngsters and she fainted. The game was not as exciting or fatiguing as some that children play. Could loss of oxygen be responsible for her fainting attack?

REPLY

This is possible but because it is unusual for children to faint may I suggest that you bring this matter to the attention of your family physician?

Arranging Convoy For "Winds Of Freedom" Operation Like Loading Circus Train; Friendship Balloons Will Help Stay Moscow's Hand In Starting A War

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is again on a tour of Europe, studying conditions there. His column today takes the form of a letter written from Germany to his wife about her son.)

MUNICH, GERMANY

Dear L. W.:

Driving up toward the Czech border the other night, about dusk, I noticed a big van lumbering along with a little car behind it. The van looked like it was lost from our convoy and we stopped it to inquire.

In the little car behind was your son. He was pushing the driver of that van like a terrier biting the heels of a recalcitrant bull because that van contained the most important part of our "Winds of Freedom" operation — namely, the messages we were sending that night to the people of Czechoslovakia.

I left the car full of VIP's where I was riding and joined your son, not only because I enjoy his company but to see what it was all about. What happened was that the friendship messages to the Czech people had been late arriving in Munich from Cincinnati and we had to get new messages printed in Germany. The latter also were too late to join the main truck convoy which had left Munich at noon so Tyler was commissioned to remain behind to see that the most important part of our operation got to the border on time.

I am writing you because I know he hasn't fulfilled his promise to write you every day but I think, when you read this, you'll understand why.

The Winds of Freedom, incidentally, shift back and forth along the border and neither he nor I knew exactly where to join the other trucks. But he had instructions to meet a lookout in front of the post office in Weiden, a little town 10 miles from the border. The lookout directed us 10 miles in another direction, where we sighted our convoy and where your son finally delivered the 2,000,000 messages to the Czech people on time.

The trucks were parked on a narrow road on the Bavarian hillside almost on a straight line toward Pilsen and Prague, the two largest cities of Czechoslovakia.

Arranging a convoy is a complicated operation, somewhat like loading a circus train and it reminded me of my old ten-wrecking days. Electric generators are at one end of the convoy, though far enough away so that no sparks can reach the hydrogen tanks used to fill the balloons, these are filled inside the truck and launched from its rear end. Next come four sidegate trucks for rubber balloons. The latter are so big they can't be filled inside the trucks, so the hydrogen tanks are lead sideways with a hose extending to the balloon-launching tables on the side of the road.

Tyler operated the valve on the hydrogen tank, supervising a crew of three Germans. The balloon is inflated with hydrogen until it touches two inverted table legs about four feet apart. When it reaches this diameter, it is tied at the bottom and sent on its way across the iron curtain. I autographed one of these balloons for Gottwald and Stalin.

The long line of trucks parked alongside a Bavarian wheat stubblefield made a fascinating, eerie spectacle in the night — the gutteral German voices, the swish-swish of the flowing hyrogen, and the steady silent launching of the big bags as they slipped off into the darkness.

The boys were getting off their missives to Prague pretty regularly —about 1,300, all told—when it started to drizzle. We kept going for a while, since rain doesn't impede the balloons. They rise above the clouds in no time, but it does get the men wet. So at 2 a. m. we finally laid off; everyone was pretty well soaked.

I sat in the car for a while, waiting for the rain to stop but when it didn't I used the excuse that I had to get to the cable office, and at 3 a. m. headed back for Munich. I'm getting old, I guess, and can't take it.

Before I left, however, I went down the line of murky trucks, trying to find your son. I finally located him sitting inside a truck, listening to German veterans and ex-prisoners swapping war experiences with American GI students—men who had once been fighting each other but who now worked together launching friendship messages to another people whom they hoped they wouldn't have to fight.

Germans, incidentally, supposed to be the military master race, seem to me completely pacifict. German youngsters are just as unenthusiastic about raising an army as your son and other American youngsters are about the draft. Sometimes I think it's chiefly the old dodoes who are complacent about the prospect of war. However, I'm convinced that Moscow wants to wait a considerable time before it plunges the world into war. Its satellite peoples are too restless and would turn against the Kremlin in case of war. That's why I think this balloon deal, coming at this particu ar time, may help. It's only a drop in the bucket of course, and lots of people will pooh-pooh it but you have to make a start some way or other in attempts at penetrating the iron curtain, so we've taken the frist step.

Anyway, I drove back to Munich at 3 a. m., leaving your son up on the border. They resumed launching the balloons at 4 a. m. and continued until 6 but he didn't get back to Munich with the trucks until noon, making a 28-hour day—from 8 a. m. till 12 noon the next day.

The winds weren't quite right the day following, however, and he got 12 hours sleep through last night. When I arrived at the border at 2 a. m. they were at it again, continuing until 6 a. m. They planned to lay over until noon, let the men sleep on the roadside, and then unloose another barrage which would hit Prague about 4 p. m., just as the people were starting home from work.

Well, that's why your son hasn't written and why I am trying to report for him.

I am very lonesome and anxious to get home. It's rained a lot here and I hope you've had some of it at home. When I left the pastures were just about burned up. See you soon.

DREW.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Strange goings on these days at the White House—at least, as the tale is told by Senator Neely, Democrat, of West Virginia, who took a delegation of members of Congress with him the other day to see the President and afterward revealed that a important defense contract, involving millions of dollars, has become a matter of political controversy inside the Democratic party.

With billions of dollars of taxpayers' money being disbursed and with the President in his speeches assuming an air of righteous indignation toward those who cast doubts on the fidelity of his Administration to the public interest, it is strange, indeed, to read the following from a United Press dispatch:

"A West Virginia congressional delegation said after a talk with President Truman that New York State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick is trying to get a government contract for a distilling firm to operate an ordnance plant at Morgantown, W. Va.

"Senator Matthew Neely, Democrat, and three Democratic House members — Harley O. Staggers, Cleveland M. Bailey and Mrs. Elizabeth Kee — told Mr. Truman about the tug-of-war within the Democratic party over the plant.

Favor Different Firms

"Neely said afterward that Fitzpatrick saw the President yesterday "in behalf of United Distillers of America," one of the two companies seeking to operate the Morgantown plant to produce ammonia. Neely and his delegation favor awarding the contract to the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation . .

"Neely said he and his associates did not ask the President to take any specific action, but that they went to the White House because Fitzpatrick 'spoke for the other side yesterday.'. . . .

" 'We want to settle this thing on its merit, not on politics.' Neely said."

When the foregoing was published, Mr. Fitzpatrick denied that he had asked President Truman to intervene in awarding the contract but added that he did bring the facts to the attention of Representative Celler, Democrat, chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee studying monopolies. Mr. Fitzpatrick said he asked that the facts be studied and the award made on its merits.

According to the Associated Press, Senator Neely revealed also that Mr. Celler "had spoken to Undersecretary of the Army Archibald Alexander in behalf of United Distillers," which had been "chartered in New Jersey not long ago for the purpose of bidding on the Morgantown lease."

What does all this mean—that the Democratic leaders are engaged in a controversy as to whose influence shall prevail in the awarding of defense contracts? Why shouldn't the Department of the Army make those decisions without pressure from any side, and why should the President be asked to decide these matters, especially as between members of his own party?

Obviously, Republican as well as Democrats pay the taxes that finance the huge defense contracts. Obviously also, the White House is not the place to decide matters of this kind — and yet when one side hears that the other side has access to the ear of the President on such matters, it s natural for the fur to fly.

Doesn't Help Matters

Not long ago, the President denied public accusations that another member of the Democratic political hierarchy—William M. Boyle, Jr.—had any connection with the awarding of an RFC loan.

Thus far the President has said nothing as to the nature of the Fitzpatrick-Neely controversy about the ammonia plant, and the public might not have known anything about it but for the candor of Senator Neely.

In the recent discussion about the use of influence to get contracts awarded, much was said about the activities of politicians. In the normal course these things are not likely to stir attention but, when there is supposed to be a war emergency and the public is asked to pay heavier and heavier taxes, it is indeed regrettable to observe a titanic struggle between political leaders over the award of a defense contract. It can only add to the very atmosphere of suspicion and distrust which Mr. Truman himself was decrying the other day in his speech to the American Legion.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Truman And McCarthy

There can be no question that Senator Joe McCarthy has finally got under the skin of President Harry Truman. This has very little to do with McCarthyism, which is a smear-word that may be defined as indiscriminate disclosure of names of alleged Communists and homosexuals on the Senate floor. It has everything to do with careful, scientific investigation by the McCarran Committee, which is establishing beyond doubt a pattern of Communist infiltration into our government.

The McCaran investigation has been inadequately reported because it is not dramatizing anything. No attempt is being made to pillory anyone. Witnesses are treated with courtesy and fairness. There is little noise.

But an astonishing record is being built document by document, word by word. And it is not premature to say that there are indications that the evidence will show, in the end, that the Tydings Committee did perform a white-wash.

Whatever anyone may say about Joe McCarthy and the methods that he employs, the McCarran Committee record stands. For instance, I am now reading the transcript of the testimony of Dr. Karl Wittfogel, a former German Communist, a scholar of outstanding stature, now professor at the University of Washington and in charge of a Chinese history project at Columbia University.

It has alrdeay been established by the committee that the Institute of Pacific Relations had developed a tremendous influence in the determination of our Far Eastern policy through the placement of persons associated wtih it in key positions. It has not been established or even asserted that the Institute ever was or is now a Communist organization. Thus far, it has been shown that the principal personalities, during the development period of the Institute, were Edward C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore.

Dr. Wittfogel's testimony is very important as showing the direction of this Institute in developing the American China policy:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . The prestige that you received by this listing in connection with the IPR was of value to you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. It was wonderful. At the time when people knew nothing about me. . . Anyhow, I had a lovely time. I was introduced to people and was received by the president of Stanford University. Wherever, I went, I was referred to as a man who had written a wonderful book. I knew my friends didn't read this book because they didn't read German.

"Anyhow, I had a wonderful time. I must say, later on when I did something which contributed to the scholarship of this country, I was no longer connected, by umbilical cord or otherwise, I was deemphasized and I wasn't even introducd to the janitors of universities.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, while they thought you were a Communist, you received a listing: is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is right.

"Senator Ferguson. In that listing, then, you had entree to certain people and certain society; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is correct.

"Senator Ferguson. But when you were definitely known to be not Communist, then this all disappeared?

"Dr. Wittfogel. The thing faded away.

"Senator Ferguson. Did you find they did not want you in the Institute of Pacific Relations as a noncommunist?

"Dr. Wittfogel. I didn't go near it, but I was not invited. . .

"I was invited to one more conference, I made myself disagreeable. After that time, whatever my scholarship was, objective sources seemed to think, it had not decreased but increased. I didn't compensate for the wrong development of my political position.

"Senator Ferguson. You think by being a noncommunist in connection with the Institute of Pacific Relations, they had no use for you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is the way it looked.

"Senator Ferguson. You are satisfied as to that?

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

The reader might ask, "What does this prove?" He might even ask, "Why trust an ex-Communist?" Yet, as I read the pages of this testimony and note the disclosure of evidence in correspondence among these persons, intended for their eyes alone, I can realize how a politically-minded individual like Harry Truman can lose his temper at what Joe McCarthy started. The record that is being built can, in a campaign, be very unpleasant.

For it was McCarthy's hurling of names that forced this question of Communist infiltration to the fore. True, many of there men were not Communists; they were perhaps dupes or dopes. But the country is paying a ghastly bill for their activities, and we need to protect ourselves against more of the same.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Atomic Plenty

WASHINGTON—

National strategy flows, or ought to flow, directly from the facts of the national situation. When the facts change, the strategy must change. Or else, because the transformation of the national situation has been ignored, national strategy becomes obsolete, inefficient and perhaps even unworkable.

These rather threadbare truisms are relevant at the moment because the central, dominating fact that has shaped all post-war American strategic thinking is rather rapidly ceasing to be a fact at all. Instead of being incredibly rare and incredibly costly, the fissionable raw stuff of atomic weapons, although still expensive, is becoming relatively plentiful. This revolutionary development, which has as yet been hardly noticed, results from the interaction of two different processes.

The first process, which is as yet experimental, is the work that is being done with the so-called breeder reactor. Its purpose is to make better use of the basic raw material of the whole atomic program, uranium.

Schoolboy Stuff

It is almost schoolboy stuff, nowadays, that uranium is composed of two isotopes. The common isotope, which comprises 99.3 per cent of the world's uranium supply, is the inert U-238. The rare isotope, which comprises only seven-tenths of 1 per cent, is the radioactive U-235. Only radioactive U-235 is directly fissionable. Hence the Manhattan District program originally centered around the appallingly difficult and troublesome problem of separating out the pure U-235 which formed the heart of the Hiroshima bomb.

Even before the end of the war, in the Hanford pile, means were found to transmute some of the inert U-238 into fissionable plutonium. This, in itself, had the effect of multiplying our total resources of fissionable raw stuff, and the Nagasaki bomb was a plutonium bomb. The breeder reactor, speaking very crudely and non-technically, represents another means of getting a vastly higher proportion of fissionable raw stuff out of U-238 —of doing the same sort of job as the Hanford pile, but doing it quite differently and doing it far better.

The theory, which has been published, revolves around a more efficient use of the liberated neutrons which promote chain reactions. But the theory, for public purposes, is far less important than the practical fact that the breeder reactor experiments appear to be succeeding. The first test model ought to be completed and doing its work this autumn. And if the new breeder reactor lives up to expectations, the result will be a potential multiplication of our atomic resources by a secret but certainly significant figure.

Want Bigger Bang

The proven process working in precisely the same direction is simply the refinement of atomic bomb design, in order to make more efficient use of the fissionable raw stuff already in hand. One line of experiment has been towards getting a bigger bang, which means that fewer bombs can be used to destroy a given target. Thus the last of the three bombs exploded at Eniwetok was what the scientists, in their grim way, call a "hundred kiloton bomb," or the equivalent in power of 100,000 tons of high explosive. The primitive Hiroshima bomb was the equivalent, it will be recalled, of a mere 20,000 tons of high explosive.

The other line of experiment has been towards getting an atomic explosion with less fissionable raw stuff—with what is called a "subcritical mass." The first results in this field were successfully tested at Las Vegas, Nevada, some months ago, when a mere five kiloton bomb, well-adapted for tactical use on the battlefield, was touched off. Further tests at Las Vegas are scheduled for October, it can now be disclosed. And besides the several new models of tactical bombs which will then be exploded in Nevada, tests are also planned, probably for the United States Army proving grounds in Utah, of atomic explosions underground.

Even the Eniwetok and first Nevada tests are known to have had an effect equivalent to increasing our resources of fissionable raw stuff from two to four times. Probably the correct figure is that we can now make three times as many effective bombs with the raw stuff in hand as we could have before these tests. Presumably the new tests will carry the process stil further. Consider these facts in conjunction with the high hopes for the breeder reactor. Remember that a plentiful supply of atomic weapons is a very different order of magnitude from a plentiful supply of artillery ammunition, for instance.

The only possible conclusion is that we are moving from extreme scarcity towards relative plenty in the vital atomic field. The technical details—how many bombs, how they are made and so on—need not and should not concern the general public. But in a presumably free society, the public will determines broad lines of national policy; and policy must inevitably be deeply influenced by this transition from scarcity to plenty.

Night Parking Violations Total 1,047 In Survey By City Police

A survey conducted by the Cumberland Police Department during the past week to check on all-night parking shows 1,047 violations.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long released the figures yesterday after receiving a report from Police Sgt. Frank A. Shober. None of the offenders were prosecuted.

The commissioner announced last week police would initiate an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is in violation of a city ordinance. He pointed out first "offenders" were issued courtesy warning tickets.

Violators caught will be required to post $1 bond at Police Headquarters for a hearing if it is desired. In some cases, permits will be issued to park at night.

The locations and number of violations submitted by Sgt. Shober follows:

Pennsylvania Avenue, 33; Race Street, 28; Seymour Street, 18; Grand Avenue, 63; Arch Street, 29; East Mary Street, 11; Humbird Street, 18; East Elder Street, 28; Maryland Avenue, 45; North Centre Street, 36; Columbia Street, 52; Independence Street, 21; Decatur Street, 23; Goethe Street, 29; Bellevue Street, 12, Fulton Street, 13.

Glenn Street, 10; Charles Street, 8; Davidson Street, 26; Bedford Street, 30; Washington Street, 94; Frederick Street, 27; Hanover Street, 14; North Mechanic Street, 35; Greene Street, 37; Gephart Drive, 40; Fayette Street, 47; Cumberland Street, 23.

Lee Street, 27; Waverly Terrace, 41; Marion Street, 13; Baltimore Avenue, 19; Park Street, 15; Cecelia Street, 17; Elm Street, 14; Spring Street, 10; Baker Street, 11; Emily Street, 11, and Central Avenue, 19.

Long said city garbage collections and street department workers have been hampered by cars parked all night.

Amcelle Worker Given Watch

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Rapillo, 11 Barncord Street, Ridgeley, yesterday was presented a wristwatch at the Celanese plant on the completion of 25 years service there.

The watch was presented by H. C. Givens, Jr., plant manager, and Alvin B. Storey, superintendent of the Textile Department, presented her with a 25-year emblem and certificate.

Mrs. Rapillo is employed in the coning section of the plant.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRUMP BRINGS DISCARD

DID YOU ever shorten your own trumps intentionally by means of an "unnecessary ruff," so that you would cause your hand to have one trump less than the dummy? And did you then use that last trump to discard from your own hand some high card which otherwise would block the running of lower cards in the dummy? If you have built and made that play, you have executed one of the prettiest unnamed maneuvers in the game.

West led the heart 10 to the A and the Q came back to the K, whereupon the able declarer, Charles H Goren, of Philadelphia, proceeded upon a pretty plan. First he laid down the spade A and noted the fall of the Q. The club A dropped another Q and then the club J was led to the K. West returned the diamond J, and his opponents were surprised to see Mr. Goren discard a club from the dummy instead of ruffing there. East won that with the A and returned the diamond 5 to the K.

Now the spade 3 was led to the 10 and the carefully-saved heart 6 led so that South could ruff with the spade K. South's last trump, the 7, was now led to the 8, and the stage was set for the denouement. It was the lead of the spade J, on which the club 10 was discarded from the closed hand That unblocked the dummy's lower clubs, so that the 8 and 6 took the last two tricks.

Notice that, if that play had not been made, South could have taken only one club trick besides his A, and he therefore would have been set a trick in his game contract.

Judge Harris Disqualified From Mine Damage Case

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the trial of four youths of the Westernport area who are accused of a number of crimes involving arson, explosions and other damage of mining property in the Georges Creek section.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris said yesterday that he is disqualified from sitting on the bench as his brother, Lewis Harris, ownes a powder company which was damaged on two occasions by fires allegedly set by the youths.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday his office is preparing criminal information which will be presented to the court at the hearings. Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Edward J. Ryan, attorneys for the four youths have filed petitions waiving grand jury action and asking that Fletcher's office present the cases on information.

Fletcher said this information is in the process of being prepared and the hearing for the quartet will be set as soon as possible.

Judge Harris is scheduled to go to Oakland September 10 to give the charge to the September grand jury of Garrett county.

The hearing of the four youths in court here will clear the way for the October term of court at which three murder trials will be held. All of the slayings took place within a 10-day period this month and the filing of petitions to hear the mining damage cases on information made it unnecessary to call a special session of the grand jury as first believed the only way to prevent a jam at the October term.

28 Selectees Receive Orders

Induction orders for 28 Allegany county selectees were received yesterday morning by P. Emmett Fahey, clerk, co-ordinator.

The contingent will leave September 17 with 12 going from Draft Board No. 27. Board Nos. 28 and 29 will send 12 and four, respectively.

Twenty-eight local registrants will receive pre-induction physical examinations next Monday in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Yanks Split With Tigers

39,540 See Detroit Win, 6-3, Lose 12-5

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra, a couple of old New York Yankee money players, smashed in six runs between them as the Yankees salvaged the second game of a twi-night doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 12-5 tonight. The second-place Yanks who lost the first game 6-3 now trail the leading Cleveland Indians by one full game.

Starter Virgil Trucks, whose only victory in the last month was over the Yankees, won the first game with the help of Pat Mullin's 11th home run.

An eight-run explosion in the fourth inning aided Joe Ostrowski to register the nightcap victory.

Berra, who had homered in the first game, also smashed one—his 20th—in the second contest to drive in two runs. DiMaggio cracked a two-run single and drew a bases-loaded walk. Fred Hutchinson suffered his seventh loss against eight wins.

The Tigers halted the five-game winning streak of Ed Lopat in the opener. Lopat's mark now is 16-7.

Trucks aided by Jerry Priddy's triple, double and single that drove in three runs, won his sixth game against seven losses.

A crowd of 39,540 turned out for the twin bill. Box:

Lover's Leap Evens Series, Often Pitches One-Hitter

Betsy Is 5-2 Victor Over Rice's; Deciding Game Set Wednesday

Betsy Often gave up only one hit—a double by Elsie McKee in the 7th inning—in pitching Lover's Leap to a 5-2 triumph over Rice's Market yesterday in the fourth game of the best-of-five games championship series of the Queens Softball League.

A large crowd at Community Park saw the aggregation managed by Francis Duckworth and Dan Clites register its second victory and square up the series at two-all.

President Earl Nonnenmann last night announced the fifth and deciding game of the series will be staged Wednesday at 6 p. m. at East Side Field. Rice's won the toss after yesterday's game and will be the home team in the final tilt. Umpires will be Conn, Dyche, Keller and Herboldsheimer.

In the games played to date, Rice's won twice at Stitcher Field, 5-4 and 8-2, and Lover's Leap copped two at Community Park, 8-5 and 5-2.

Rice's took a 1-0 lead in the second inning of yesterday's game but Lover's Leap scored two runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the seventh to put the game on ice. The Market girls registered their final marker in the 7th.

Dot Heavener with a triple and single and Alice Wertz with two singles shared four of the winners' ten hits. Clara Kreigline, third sacker, of Lover's Leap and White, shortfielder of Rice's, featured afield. Kreigline choked off a Rice rally by snaring a torrid liner while White made several nice catches in shortfield. The box:

Four Homers Power Tribe To Triumph

Garcia Bags 17th Win Over Senators, 5 To 3

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 (AP)—Four home runs powered by the Cleveland Indians to a 5 to 3 victory over the Washington Nationals tonight in the opener of an 18-game Tribe home stand. Mike Garcia hurled his second walk-free game of the season in winning his 17th against eight losses. It was the ninth straight loss for Washington.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's lead-off batter, pounded a 1-1 pitch from righthander Dick Star over the right field fence to keynote the Tribe's attack.

Later in the first inning, with two out and Larry Doby on base by a walk, Al Rosen smashed his 22nd homer of the season into the left field stands.

Bob Avila clubbed a home in the third, and Harry Simpson got the fourth Cleveland round-tripper off Starr in the sixth.

Third baseman Eddie Yost nicked Garcia for the Senators' lone homer in the seventh, but Mickey Vernon, a former Indian, gave the big bear the most trouble by getting four of Washington's 12 hits.

Vernon doubled after Pete Runnels' first-inning single to drive home the Nats' first run. He scored the Visitors' second run after leading off the sixth with a single and advancing on singles by Sam Mele and Cass Michaels.

Doby ran his string of games with safe hits to 20 with a double in the seventh. He was taken out after getting on base, and Sam Chapman finished the game while Doby rested his injured left leg.

Vernon's double and Yost's homer were the only Washington extra-base blows, while the first five Cleveland hits off Starr all went for extra bases, and two of the three off reliefer Sid Hudson were doubles. Hudson took over for Starr who went out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Score:

Mickey Mantle Will Take Army Physical

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 20. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' prized baseball farmhand, reported to his local draft board this morning and left immediately for Oklahoma City to take a special army physical examination.

Mantle, now with Kansas City of the American Association, twice has been classified 4-F, once on the advice of his local draft board's physician and again after an induction station examination at Tulsa last April 20. He has a chronic leg bone infection.

The 19-year-old outfielder came here from Kansas City where his club played yesterday. He said he hoped to complete his physical tomorrow in time to catch a plane for St. Paul, Minn.

Former Penn Player Dies Of Grid Injury

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—(AP)—H. Farquhar Jones, 25-year-old former University of Pennsylvania football star, died today of a rare type of chronic anemia.

His father, Dr. Harold W. Jones, professor of clinical medicine at Jefferson Medical College, said an injury his son suffered in the 1945 Penn-Brown football game was a contributory cause.

Jones, a right halfback on the Penn team, sustained an injury of the spleen in the game. In November of 1945 he was found to be suffering from hemolytic anemia, a blood disease that destroys the red cells.

Yanks Recall Mantle

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS)—The New York Yankees tonight recalled rookie phenom Mickey Mantle from their Kansas City farm team in the American Association.

Since going back to the minors, Mantle has rapped out 60 hits, including 11 homers, nine doubles, three triples and batted in 50 runs in 40 games.

Club Owners May Delay Selection Of Commissioner

Meeting Set Today, Eleven Considered

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Election of a commissioner in the major league club owners' meeting here again tomorrow appears unlikely, say a majority of the baseball executives.

A previous meeting Aug. 7 resulted in cutting down the list of candidates to 11, including the following:

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Ford Frick, president of the National League; and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

The owners recognize that some or all of the generals may not be available. Gen. Vandenberg is reported to have notified the four-man screening already committee of his unavailability.

Weeding Out Process

Brooklyn clubowner Walter O'Malley said he is practically certain a commissioner will not be chosen because "we're still in the weeding out process."

Giles, a leading candidate to succeed A. B. (Happy) Chandler, also doubts that one will be named at this time. An American League club owner said there isn't a chance the election will take place.

Ellis Ryan, head of the Cleveland Indians and a member of the screening committee, said:

"I hoped that we would be ready to elect a commissioner. But—"

Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, and chairman of the committee, said he didn't know whether or not a commissioner would be named, "but I won't let them hurry into it and get the wrong man."

Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said the important thing is to get the right man "even if it means waiting until the winter meetings in December."

As it happens, one dissenting vote could prevent an election tomorrow. The meeting is not a formal joint session such as is needed for the election of a commissioner. It is simply an executive session. It can only be turned into a joint meeting by unanimous consent of all present. A joint meeting normally requires a 30-day call.

Candidates Contacted

According to Ryan, the same 11 candidates will be discussed tomorrow. All have been contacted. Several have declared themselves unavailable but the identity of these was not learned.

Other names, including Jim Farley, George Trautman, head of the minor leagues; Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio, and Senator Edwin Johnson (D.) of Colorado, who did not receive sufficient votes to remain in the top 11, may be re-introduced.

Before an effort is made to elect the game's third commissioner, the committee on contract revision, composed of Branch Rickey, William DeWitt and Giles, will turn in its report.

The committee also may recommend that the commissioner's salary be increased to $75,000. The late Judge Landis received $50,000, which is what was paid to Chandler until the owners decided to give him a $15,000 increase for the final three years of his seven-year term.

Little League Dodgers Crack 18-Game String

Cave Hurls 2-Hitter, Defeats Washington In Opener Of Series

Gene Cave turned in a two-hit pitching performance as Manager Bill Buzzard's Dodgers, champions of the Dan Division, drew first blood in the round robin series for the championship of the Little League by defeating the Phillies, unbeaten leaders of the Dapper Division, by the score of 4-2 last night at Penn Avenue Field.

It was the first loss suffered by the Northcraft-Boyle managed aggregation in 19 starts against Little League opponents this season. To crack this winning streak the Dodgers whipped the Phillies' best pitcher, Arthur Washington.

Wallace and Bruce walked and Fair and Valentine singled in the first inning to give the Dodgers two runs. In the third Regis Fair hit for the circuit and in the 5th singles by Cave, Hillegas and Lafferty, coupled with an error, produced the final tally.

Ronnie Diehl's single in the 4th was the lone safety yielded by Cave until the final frame when the Dodgers' hurler hit Hanekamp with a pitched ball and Arthur Washington belted a four-bagger. After one down, Cave lost control and filled the bases by walking Collins, Garlitz and pinchhitter Butts. The rally died, however, when Dunbar scooped up O'Neal's grounder and threw out Collins at the plate and McKenzie, batting for Stinson, struck out.

Two of the six hits yielded by Washington were credited to Regis Fair who garnered a homer and single. Washington fanned 10 and issued two passes — both in the first inning. Cave gave up six free tickets and whipped five.

The Dodgers won 15 and lost three during the regular campaign in the Dan Division.

A team must lose two games to be eliminated from the round robin series.

Tomorrow night at 6:15, the Phillies tackle the Senators, winners of the Whiz Kids Division while on Friday the Dodgers play the Senators. Box:

Briton Sets New Auto Speed Marks

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 20 (AP)—Lt. Col. A. T. (Goldie) Gardner, veteran British racing driver, throttled his little "Magic Midget" to new international and American land speed records today.

The 60-year-old Englishman was clocked at an unofficial 139 miles per hour. This was much better than the present one hour class international records and a number of new American marks.

A plugged oil line forced the Englishman to stop his super charged, four cylinder British car after driving for an hour. He had hoped to keep the streamlined racer roaring around the track for two hours.

Lawrence Tech Starts De-Emphasis By Canceling Basketball Schedule

Detroit College Won 20 Of 22 Last Season

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (INS) — Lawrence Tech of Detroit today cancelled its intercollegiate basketball schedule for 1951-52 because of a feeling that "intercollegiate sports are overemphasized throughout the country.

The fairly-small college has had a nationwide reputation for its basketball teams ever since Coach Don Ridler took hold in 1937 and has played many larger schools.

Its coming schedule would have taken the team, which won 20 and lost 2 last season, to Hawaii, and into the Buffalo Memorial Stadium, Philadelphia Convention Hall, and the Cleveland Arena.

A statement from Lawrence Tech President E. George Lawrence said that the dropping of the schedule was decided at a meeting of the board of control.

Lawrence added:

"While the board previously supported schedules of this type it felt that present conditions certainly indicate the need for de-emphasis."

The statement made no mention of the basketball "fix" scandals, but the current investigations were indicated in the mention of "present conditions."

The board lauded Athletic Director Ridler and requested that he remain at Lawrence Tech to develop an intensified program of student activities.

Lawrence Tech also played in the last National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Gardens. The team lost to Dayton who went into the finals.

Games which are being dropped this coming season were with North Dakota State, Carnegie Tech, Niagara, Colorado State, St. Bonaventure, De Paul University, Creighton, Washington & Jefferson, St. Joseph of Philadelphia, John Carroll, Idaho State and Baldwin-Wallace. Also cancelled was a Jan. 24-Feb. 6 tour of the Hawaiian Islands, including a game with the University of Hawaii.

Oil Seepage Into Well Subject Of Court Suit

Damages of $5,000 are asked in a suit docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Brooklyn M. Duckworth, individually and as executor of the estate of his mother, Mrs. Anna V. Duckworth, against the Penn Economy Oil Company and the G. C. Sensabaugh Company.

The declaration in the suit was filed by Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for Duckworth, and states that the plaintiff owns a two-story frame residence in McCoole with a well in the rear of the property which has been used for 35 years. An electric pump is used to draw the water from the well into a storage tank in the basement of the house and thence into the pipe system.

On September 17, 1949, Mrs. Duckworth died and the plaintiff was named executor and sole beneficiary of her estate. On May 19, 1949 the oil firm and the Sensabaugh Company allegedly installed storage tanks on an adjoining property. One of the tanks containing kerosene is alleged to have leaked and seeped into the soil and sub-soil and contaminated the well and property of Duckworth.

A new water system was made necessary due to the permanent damage to the old system, the plaintiff claims.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20 (INS)—Couldn't be more surprised that Errol Flynn has sold his original story, "Trail Of Zaca," which is about his famed yacht, to John Carroll. Carroll will make it as an independent after he finishes his concert tour around the end of the year.

Errol Flynn

How does it happen Errol didn't star himself in his own story? Heaven knows the boat has been the center of enough adventures for ten movies.

Flynn has gone fortune hunting aboard the Zaca. It was from her deck that a 16-year-old French girl dived overboard, supposedly to "save her honor" (a French court decided differently). And it was aboard the same luxury yacht that Errol and Pat Wymore spent their honeymoon.

Lovely young actress, Pier Angeli, gets the extra special care in story selection by MGM. Not in a long time has a youthful player exuded the delicacy and spirituality of the Italian girl. Did you see her in "Teresa?"

Now it appears that her next will be "The Seven Souls Of Clement O'Reilly," a semi-fantasy in which a young and sensitive girl is made love to by a puppet artist. He is bitter and cruel to her—but each of his seven puppets woos her tenderly.

The drama evolves from her bewilderment between the real man and his romantic dolls. Edwin Knopf produces.

Here's the straight on the Paramount rights in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes". (remember—they made it years ago with Ruth Taylor?)

When Anita Loos revamped her comedy classic as a broadway musical, Paramount retained an interest. Should a rival studio put in a bid, Paramount has first bids on making it themselves. Or, they will share in the profits of the sale price.

My money says "Gentlemen Prefer," etc., will go to 20th when it returns to the screen, musical version.

Dropping by "The Merry Widow" set to watch Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas make love took me back to the old silent days. I don't know how long it's been since I've heard musicians playing "mood music" on the sidelines—certainly not since the talkies took over.

But, Director Curtis Bernhardt was after a scene of "tender passion" which, he believed, could be induced only by violin music— so there they were, three of them, fiddling away romantically.

Lana looks wonderful after dropping all the extra weight. And she's in a gay mood. It's obvious she's glad to be back at work again.

No one can convince me this girl wants to retire.

Hollywood in shorts:

Gary Merrill must have come under Scottish influence while he and Bette Davis were making a picture abroad. He showed up in the 20th commissary wearing bright plaid shorts.

Stephen Ames has sold his Holmby Hills home to an eastern millionaire for $110,000.

Patricia Neal (she rated rave reviews in "Cocktail Party" at La Jolla) dropped by the Del Mar track the other day and cleaned up on five races. Pat's in her "lucky cycle" for sure — careerwise, romantically and now the nags.

Kenneth Hopkins designed all the swank hats worn by the chorus beauties in "Follies In Fashion," new show at the Biltmore Bowl tomorrow night.

Already, Christmas repeat orders are in for the album Bing Crosby, Dixie and the boys made last year, "Crosby Christmas." Bing is becoming as closely associated with the Yuletide as Santy Claus.

Peter Lawford left today for England—this time Jeanne McDonald wasn't on the same plane.

Bob Ryan got a big kick meeting his old high school pals at the Chicago premiere of "Flying Leathernecks."

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

A child hygiene clinic will be held at the LaVale Fire Hall today at 10 a. m.

Tederick Cites Increased Cost Of Water Dept.

Says Entire Income Is Being Spent

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick answered criticism of the operation of his department by submitting a budget for the fiscal year, beginning last July 1 and ending June 30, 1952, at yesterday's council session.

"This isn't necessary," Tederick told the council, "but I'm doing this because I've heard all kinds of remarks about the lucrativeness of my department."

"True, the Water Department does have a nice income," Tederick stated, "but the expenditures are quite heavy and we are now operating on the full income of the department."

The commissioner pointed out the cost of living has raised tremendously in the past few years, but that the water rates have remained the same. The operating costs of the department have also jumped, he added.

The water budget follows:

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you tell an invalid gruesome stories?

Answer: The fact that you should not seems quite obvious, yet one regularly meets the fellow whose idea of entertaining a sick person is to tell him of some other friend who "had the same trouble you have and the doctors couldn't save him." One of several unconscious motives for such tactlessness may well be an impulse to deflate the temporary importance which the sick man gets from his illness by picturing someone who is—or was—worse. It is an unpleasant version of the same urge that makes almost any of us want to "top" another person's story with a more sensational one.

Is there a second "prime of life"?

Answer: Yes, for an increasing number of people, maintains Dr. Martin Gumpert, noted specialist in geriatrics (study of old age diseases). We have tended to think of such men as Goethe, Michelangelo and Verdi, who created masterpieces in their eighties, almost as freaks, but with modern medicine permitting so many more people to reach great age there are signs that "old age developes a creative power and urge of its own, of which we have hardly taken notice up to now." In Europe today, especially, men of 70 and over often seem more vigorous and creative than "their bloodless, fatigued sons and grandsons."

May psychoanalysis be an "escape"?

Answer: Yes, though a skilled analyst can usually prevent its being too effective. There is a type of intelligent but deeply suspicious person who will manage if he can to keep his analysis "going round in circles" or at least to avoid his actual "sore spots." What he wants unconsciously is to defeat the analyst and thereby prove to his own satisfaction that nobody can—or wants to—cure him. Thus he can justify his conviction that the wrongs he has suffered — usually from one or both of his parents—are beyond repair, and that therefore he cannot be expected to do anything to rectify them.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUCS" BAER
(Distributed by International News Service)

There's a rumor fermenting that Gen. Eisenhower will run for president if he gets nominated by both parties. That's playing it as safe as being a life-saver in a wading pool.

• — • — •

Such a procedure might mark the flattening of the two-party system. Just a minute. Did that end around 1932?

• — • — •

If Ike grabs both nominations he will be like a scrub-woman's thumb. My undercover man in the umbrella factory buzzes me that's going to happen sure as a gun's iron.

There's a first time for everything. And the Washington Democrats may find there's also a last.

Fritz To Transfer To Colombia Post

The Celanese Corporation of America announced yesterday that Harry W. Fritz, Jr., 351 Bedford Street, had been appointed head of the technical service department of Celanese Colombiana, the new Celanese unit in Colombia, South America. Mr. Fritz will give technical assistance to the Colombia weaving mills and dyehouses when processing Celanese yarns.

Mr. Fritz is a graduate of the University of Texas with the degree of bachelor of science in chemistry. He joined the Amcelle organization in August, 1947, following periods of employment with the Neches Butane Products Company of Port Neches, Texas, and the Hercules Powder Company.

Mr. Fritz will leave for South America in October.

Veteran Is Taken To VA Hospital

Edward M. Barkey, said to be a Californian, was taken to Newton D. Baker VA Center at Martinsburg, W. Va., Sunday after he became ill in Romney, W. Va.

A. L. Russell, service officer of the American Legion Post in Romney, said Barkey is believed to have become ill after an overdose of sleeping tablets. Papers in his possession indicate Barkey was an Air Force pilot during World War II and also that he had been released some time ago from a Veterans Administration in Dearborn, Mich. He had been staying in Romney for about a week.

Want to keep your skin moist and young looking? Then be sure that you eat what it takes to do it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

After reaching the ripe old age of twenty-five, must you resign yourself to seeing your skin beauty dry up and fade away? Most assuredly not! Time won't take its toll, unless you fail to use your head to help Nature. You need only be as faithful about the internal care that you give your skin as you are about its external pampering. But you will never be able to have and to hold your skin's loveliness if you rely on external lubrication alone.

Your Skin's Moisture

A prime requisite of your skin is what you get free, right out of the tap — plain old aqua pura. Always drink six to eight glasses a day (no less or little more) unless so advised by your physician. If you shun water, as too many women do, the moisture content of your skin diminishes and the drying and lining process accelerates. The worst of it is, the full effect of this deterioration won't be apparent until it's too late.

To nuture your skin's beauty, be sure to include plenty of vitamin A in your diet. The rule of a carrot a day is no old wive's tale. It really turns the trick. Also high on the A list are egg yolks, fruits, cream, and whole milk. Those who have a weight problem should concentrate on the less-fattening foods on this list.

Dry Skin Diet

Serious dry skin conditions are often alleviated by eating one cake of yeast every day. If that sounds a bit unpalatable, you may be quite surprised to discover that after a short time you actually will be acquiring a taste for the flavor! Many people do. Others blend the yeast into a tomato juice cocktail, some mash it with peanut or apple butter and spread the mixture on a cracker.

When you can give a lift to the look of your skin just by feeding it what it needs, why neglect to do so? Even the most bitter pill is worth the taking when skin beauty is the result!

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
Is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

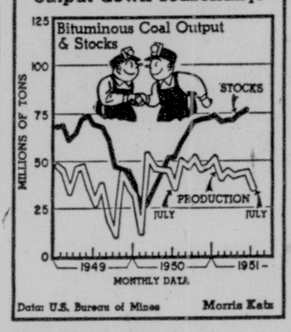
Market, Plagued By Ticker System Breakdown, Loses

Spotlight On Business

COAL STOCKS RISE

Push to near-record level; output down seasonally.



NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP) —Plagued by mechanical difficulties in its high speed quotations system, the stock market today limped through a slow and slightly lower session.

The breakdown in the stock ticker system came shortly after 11 a. m., (EST) and persisted to the close. An emergency circuit was established over the exchange's bond quotations system within an hour after the blackout started, and this enabled the market to keep going.

Prices were around a dollar a share lower at the most among leaders, and there were a goodly number of plus signs that went to a dollar or better in active areas.

Rails were depressed more than any other division, but even here the fall was not large.

The volume of trading was limited to 1,130,000 shares with 530,000 shares of the total in the first two hours, before the ticker service breakdown.

Trading was fairly broad with 1,095 issues making the market. There were 395 issues higher and 424 lower with 42 new highs four new lows reached during the day.

Trading in low-priced shares was a feature of the day. Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue up ⅛ at 1⅞ with 34,400 shares traded.

It was followed by National Power & Light unchanged at 1¾. United Corp., eighth most active, was off ⅛ at 4⅜.

American Telephone, the most popular high-priced stock, was up ⅜ at 162⅝, equal to the high of the year.

While most major groups were down, there were some independent gains made in oils, copper and gold mines, and aircrafts.

After the market closed, the stock exchange reported an increase of a little more than eight per cent in the short interest at 2,518,704 shares as of Aug. 15 from the revised total for July 13 of 2,323,598 shares. There were 859 issues in which a short interest was reported Aug. 15 as compared with 856 issues as of July 13, exclusive of odd lot dealers' short positions.

Judging Starts This Morning At Local Fair

Fate Of Exhibits Will Be Determined

Today is "Judging Day" at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair and before the day is over many men, women, and children in the Tri-State area will learn the fate of their exhibits at Fairgo, where the weeklong agricultural exhibition got underway yesterday.

Judging of entries in nearly all of the 10 departments is planned, beginning at 9 a. m. today, according to Harry E. Flook, who is now serving as general manager of his second fair here.

Manager Hopeful

Flook said yesterday that he thought the exhibits and attractions this year surpass those of 1950, generally considered the best previous Cumberland Fair. He expressed hope that the public would turn out to see the various offerings.

Much attention is being focused on the livestock department of the fair, where County Agent R. F. McHenry is superintendent. McHenry said that the livestock display will include about 235 head of dairy and beef cattle, 54 head of hogs and 36 head of sheep.

The livestock exhibitor who traveled the greatest distance to show his stock is J. Herbert Snyder, who brought 11 head of Guernsey dairy cattle from Union Bridge, over 100 miles away in Carroll County. Most of the dairy cattle at the fair is from Allegany and Washington counties. The beef cattle, however, is principally from three counties, each in a different state. They are Washington County, in Maryland, Bedford County in Pennsylvania and Mineral County in West Virginia.

Guernsey and Jersey dairy cattle and Shropshire sheep will be judged, beginning at 9 a. m. today. Ayrshire and Holstein dairy cattle and Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle will be judged starting at 1 p. m. today.

Starts At 9

Judging also will get under way about 9 a. m. today in the agriculture and fruit departments in which Albert O'Neal is superintendent. O'Neal said yesterday that there appeared to be more apples this year but less corn in the display. He observed that all of the alloted space for the exhibit in the Exhibit Hall will be filled.

Interest of the women of Allegany County and surrounding area centers on the household department, where the five judges will begin making the rounds of the Exhibit Hall at 9 a. m. today. Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, who with Miss Thelma Allin, her assistant, is supervising this department, announced the names of the judges yesterday afternoon. They are Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Oakland; Mrs. Sara Jane Long Mitchell, Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Emerson, state 4-H Girls leader; Miss Margaret Watson, assistant home demonstration agent for Washington County, and Miss Margaret Ringler, RFD 1.

Miss Bean expressed doubt that the judges will be able to complete their checking of the baked products, preserved foods and other good things to eat today.

Flook advised all persons coming to the fair to hold onto their admission ticket stubs until the end of the fair Saturday night. A drawing will be made then and some one of the fair patrons will have a choice of a deep freeze or refrigerator.

Arts And Crafts Exhibit Opens

Arts and crafts exhibits from 15 city playgrounds were placed in the City Hall rotunda yesterday.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said the exhibits are the best ever, both in quality and variety.

The exhibits will remain at City Hall until Thursday afternoon.

Judges for the contest will be Theodore P. Foote, Fort Hill High School art instructor, and Earl M. Nonnenman, manager of the Sports Shoppe.

The results of arts and craft classes in city playgrounds, the exhibit includes bead work, plaques, figurines, plastic jewelry, dolls, toys, basket work and flowers from seeds.

$1,000 Damages Result As Coal Car Derails

Damages assessed at $1,000 were caused when an empty coal hopper on a westbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train derailed and buckled Sunday about 6:30 p. m. at Bloomington. No one was injured, a railroad spokesman said yesterday.

Cause of the mishap was a broken coupler according to the spokesman and traffic on the westbound main line was held up five hours while maintenance crews cleared the wreckage. Diesel Engine No. 367 was traveling west through Bloomington when the 54th car from the engine developed a broken coupling causing the hopper to leave the rails and buckle. The car was a total loss. Engine No. 4426, out of Keyser, W. Va. was helper on the freight.

Ross F. Shaw, Oldtown, has resigned his post as chief observer for the Oldtown Airplane Spotters. Shaw, who sent his resignation into William G. Barger, county supervisor for the Civil Defense Program, plans to continue as observer until a successor is named.

Music Concerts Added To Fair As New Feature

Homemakers Chorus Sponsors Endeavor

Musical programs each afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock in the Exhibit Hall under sponsorship of the Allegany County Homemakers Chorus have been arranged as an added feature of the 34th annual Cumberland Fair this week, according to Mrs. Douglas Smith, chorus president.

First of the four afternoon concerts will be presented this afternoon by a trio from the Allegany County Junior Symphony under the direction of Martin E. Weisman. The trio will include William Babst, violinist; Miss Dolores Riley, pianist, and Norwood Edmondson, cellist.

Mrs. Margaret Haus of Mt. Savage will offer a program of piano and solovox music Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon a varied program has been arranged, beginning with selections by Carole Reith, pianist. Miss Thelma Allin, county assistant home demonstration agent, will play her accordion. Other entertainers Thursday afternoon will include Dean Hancox, pianist, and Kenneth McGraw, singer.

On Friday, the last day in which the chorus will offer musical entertainment at the fair, Mrs. John Dorn, accompanist for the chorus, will present a piano concert. Finally, James Hager will offer a 30-minute vocal program.

These concerts have been arranged by Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, who is chorus director. She also is chairman of rural music of the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs. The chorus plans to continue the concerts as an annual fair feature.

Weather

Cumberlanders breathed a little—only a little—easier yesterday after sweltering through a week of miserable weather that was August at its worst. Yesterday's high of 89 degrees was warm enough, but there was a breeze stirring now and then and the humidity was only 48 per cent. By 8 p. m. the mercury was down to 79. The overnight low was 55 degrees. It never lasts forever, though. The Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy and warm weather for today, with a high temperature between 85 and 90, and thundershowers this afternoon or tonight.

Shorthorns Good For Milking Too, Farmer Contends

If you think that Shorthorns are only beef cattle, Marshall Strite, Hagerstown dairy farmer, has a lesson for you.

The Washington County man has brought 10 head of his Milking Shorthorns to the 34th annual Cumberland Fair for exhibit here all this week.

County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday that this marks the first time that milking Shorthorns have ever been exhibited at Fairgo.

Strite emphasized that the Shorthorns used as beef cattle were developed by the Scotch. Milking Shorthorns, however, were bred by the English.

The farmer from Hagerstown said yesterday that milking Shorthorns are dual purpose animals. They milk well and fleshen quickly to give the two-way profit every progressive farmer wants, Strite added.

Council Accepts Resurfacing Bid

By unanimous vote, the Mayor and Council yesterday approved the bid of the Cumberland Contracting Company for furnishing and surfacing Trost Avenue from Edgewood Avenue to the city limit line.

The Maryland State Roads Commission specification of "B" blacktop will be furnished at $10.87 a ton and the necessary tack coat for 32 cents per gallon.

The council also voted unanimously to make free sewer tappage fees in the vicinity of Second Street and Wempe Drive for the housing project in progress. The request was made by Thomas B. Finan, attorney for the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Frederick County Adopts Visible Registration File

Allegany and Frederick counties will have the same type of filing systems for the permanent registration of voters with Frederick county's impending change from the vertical to the visible filing system.

Visible files are now on order in both counties and will permit immediate location of registration cards of voters.

When the Allegany County Board o Election Supervisors prepared to undertake the job of permanent registration, they and the Board of County Commissioners tangled over the type of file to be used, the supervisors wanting the visible type and the commissioners the vertical type.

The Frederick County commissioners on July 10 approved purchase of the visible filing system.

Frederick County Election officials said the visible file wil be a great improvement over the vertical system. The file will be particularly needed at rush times during and after election, they pointed out.

They explained that the registration cards will be so spread out under the visible system so that the names can be quickly discerned and the cards secured for whatever purpose is desired.

Under the present vertical system which they are abandoning, Frederick County officials pointed out, it is necessary to leaf through the files to "pull" the desired cards.

Following the reading of his letter of resignation, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, moved that the resignation be accepted with regret.

Approved unanimously was Mrs. Roeder's suggestion that a written statement be prepared in recognition of Rizer's long service with the community.

Rizer has been in ill health for several years and was succeeded several months ago by William A. Marean. Rizer's letter follows.

"Due to the present condition of my health, I regret that after over 40 years of service in the employ of the City of Cumberland, that I must now resign my position of city engineer and request the Mayor and Council pass an order giving me the benefits to which I am entitled under the city employes retirement system.

"I particularly desire to wish my friend and close associate, William H. Marean, every success in carrying on future work of the department. I also recognize my indebtedness to Everett L. Court Dismisses Two Claims For Jobless Pay

Henderson Upholds Board's Rulings

Appeals of two claimants from rulings of the Maryland Employment Security Board were dismissed by Associate Judge George Henderson in opinions filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Judge Henderson upheld the board's decisions in the cases of William A. Adams, former Celanese employe, and Phyllis I. Duckworth, a former Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

Adams had claimed unemployment benefits after retiring from his job at the Amcelle plant when he reached the age of 65.

Judge Henderson wrote in his opinion that Adams had retired voluntarily after inquiring as to what benefits were due him if he quit work at retirement age.

Adams testified that he was led to believe he would be entitled to unemployment benefits after retiring. He also said he retired because his health was poor. He submitted a physician's certificate to prove it.

But the court ruled that Adams was able to perform his usual work which was described as "light work."

Judge Henderson ruled that a worker who retired voluntarily is not entitled to unemployment compensation even if he is told he will receive it.

In the Duckworth case, Judge Henderson found that the claimant voluntarily quit her clerical job at the tire plant because she "could not stand the work." She claimed she was overworked and that her supervisor discriminated against her.

The court upheld the board's ruling that the evidence failed to show that she was given more work than she could do, or that she was discriminated against to a great extent.

Judge Henderson observed that "the right to quit and the right to draw unemployment relief are two different things."

City Tax Bills To Be Prepared

City Collector George E. Davis yesterday placed an order for the printing of 15,000 tax bills in preparation for mailing tax bills for the city.

Passage of a levy ordinance calling for a $1.31 tax rate on each $100 of assessable property in the city yesterday gave the Collector's office the go-ahead on the preparation of the statements.

The Commercial Press will begin printing the tax statements today.

Davis said plates for the addressograph machine have been prepared and that work on the bills will begin as soon as the printer delivers the printed statements.

He said the office hopes to have the bills in the mail by September 15.

3 Trainmen Overcome In Tunnel

Joseph Gideon, Engineer Dies In Mishap

Three Baltimore and Ohio trainmen were overcome with fumes in the Knobley tunnel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, shortly before 12 o'clock last night, when their freight train stalled.

The men were taken to Memorial Hospital where one was reported dead and the other two not in serious condition.

The dead man was identified as Joseph H. Gideon, of Brunswick, the engineer.

The fireman, Noel Williams, Brunswick and brakeman, Earl M. Virts, also of Brunswick, are uninjured.

The train, east bound, identified as coal train No. 7616 was enroute from Rawlings to Brunswick, over the cut-off. Railroad officials here said they had not determined what caused the engine to stall in the tunnel, but the road foreman and other officials were investigating.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner was summoned to the hospital and pronounced the engineer dead.

Officials said the train was traveling about three miles per hour through the tunnel when the engineer was overcome. The fireman and brakeman realized he was overcome and also felt the effects of the fumes. They cut the engine from the train and rushed the engineer outside for air. A call was made from the Patterson Creek tower, for a car to take Gideon to the hospital where he was reported dead on arrival.

Four Damage Suits Filed After Crash

Plaintiffs Seek Total Of $10,000

Four damage suits totaling $10,000 were filed yesterday in Circuit Court against the driver of a car involved in a collision in which four people were hurt last March 13.

The motorist, Arben Haycock, was named defendant in suits filed by Carl E. Frankenberry, George E. Ellis, John W. Hall and Robert E. Metz, all of Cresaptown.

Frankenberry declared he was driving north on Route 220 near the Celanese with Ellis, Hall and Metz as passengers on the day of the accident.

A car driven by Haycock, he said, approached from the opposite direction "at a very high and excessive rate of speed," crossed the double white line in the center of the road, and struck Frankenberry's vehicle.

Frankenberry said he sustained lacerations and shock, lost time from work and lost considerable income because the car, which he used to haul riders to the Kelly-Springfield plant here, was demolished. He asked $3,000 damages.

Ellis and Hall asked $3,000 each for injuries and time lost from work. Ellis said he sustained a concussion of the brain, a sprained back, an eye injury and shock, was hospitalized for some time, and lost time from his job.

Hall said he also sustained a brain concussion, a right hand injury and shock, was hospitalized and lost time from work.

Metz asked $1,000 for injuries to his back and knee. He also said he was hospitalized and lost time from work.

William H. Geppert represents all four plaintiffs.

City Tax Rate Officially Hiked Four Cents To $1.31

Buchholtz Voices Sharp Opposition

The city tax rate was set at $1.31 yesterday as the Mayor and Council voted four to one to approve the levy and budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

The action was taken over the sharp opposition of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will issue a statement in the near future stating his specific opposition to the levy which caused a four cent increase in property taxes in the city.

Buchholtz said that trimming of the budget presented last Thursday by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was the responsibility of the various departments.

To Raise $868,430

Basis for the levy was $48,000,000 of assessed real estate, $3,300,000 personal property held by individuals and another $14,000,000 by corporations for a total assessable basis of $65,300,000.

The $1,31 tax rate will bring in $855,430 from property, with another $13,000 income from bank stock for a total of $868,430, on this assessable basis.

Other income sources included in the levy are:

Allegany County, $7,630; general licenses, $63,000; general and special income, $38,000; interest on taxes, $3,000; permits, $1,800.

Other Income Listed

Police fines, $16,000; weights, $400; bingo tax, $12,000; state admission tax, $4,500; state auto license fees, $23,000; state franchise tax, $1,800.

Gasoline and auto tax, $58,000; income tax, $40,000; racing income, $40,000, and the surplus remaining on June 30, 1951, $85,000, for a total from other sources of $394,130.

The total budget for the year will be $1,262,560.

Commissioners Clash

Before the budget and levy ordinance was passed, Commissioner Buchholtz clashed verbally with Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long over the tax rate increase.

In defending the tax hike, Long said 2½ cents will be used to finance a mandatory pay raise for police and firemen. He also noted that the Fire Department would receive only $7,000 more than it did last year, although the pay boost would cost $13,000.

Long declared the city would have been justified in raising the tax rate five cents instead of four.

He also asked City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson if he (Gibson) had not told the Council at an executive session that the police and fire budget had been cut to the safe minimum.

Buchholtz objected to the question and Mayor Thomas S. Post ruled the discussion closed. After the meeting, however, Gibson told Long he felt the police and fire budget had been cut to the minimum allowed by efficiency.

Long maintained that the police force is undermanned and the Fire Department needs new equipment and repairs to old equipment.

Issues Statement

In a statement last night, Long said:

"The Mayor and Council met recently in several sessions of many hours to plan the budget. Surely if there is some sound reason why the budget should not have been passed today, the finance commissioner, in whose department the budget originated, should have reasons clearly stated before the deadline for voting.

"It is an old political trick to vote against taxes and especially when you know, from executive sessions, that everyone else is going to vote for the raise in taxes to keep the city sound financially.

"The finance commissioner voted no against the budget today and we should have had the benefit of his reasoning then, not when it is too late to do anything constructive about it."

Union Security Election Begins

Balloting in the union security election at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will get under way this morning at 1:30 o'clock.

Last minute arrangements for the National Labor Relations Board conducted poll were completed at a conference yesterday with company and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

James Blackwell, national TWUA representative, said approximately 4,500 workers will be eligible to vote in the election needed to validate union security clauses in the contract signed recently.

It was agreed yesterday, Blackwell said, that employes who have just returned from vacation or sick leave will receive voters identification slips in the main cafeteria during night hours and at the plant personnel office during the day.

Voting will continue tomorrow and Thursday, with the counting of ballots slated early Friday.

PSC Restricts Natural Gas Use

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20 (AP) — The Maryland Public Service Commission today ordered restrictions on the use of natural gas paralleling those the federal government set up last Wednesday.

The commission specified that no natural gas shall be sold to "a large volume consumer" unless gas-using equipment was installed before Aug. 22, 1951, or the seller had agreed in writing to do so prior to that date.

The gas may be delivered to large volume users, however, if the new equipment replaces other gas-fired equipment or if service can be cut off at the seller's request.

The commission also placed restrictions on the delivery of gas for the operation of central space heating equipment.

The commission's action followed notice to federal officials that the Maryland agency would exercise its own authority to the extent necessary to accomplish objectives of the defense production act.

In cases where a state regulatory body has the power to limit the use of natural gas, federal restrictions imposed by the petroleum administration for defense do not apply.

Two B & O Engines Sideswipe Here

Two Baltimore and Ohio locomotives sideswiped about 12:42 p. m. yesterday in the Cumberland yards causing damages estimated at $2,500, a railroad spokesman said last night. The mishap in which no one was injured happened on the eastbound engine tracks when a steam locomotive No. 7600 collided with Diesel engine No. 811. Both engines were traveling in the same direction and the incident occurred near a switch where the tracks run close.

No delay was noted, the spokesman added, and the westbound lead was utilized until maintenance crews cleared the two engines.

Police To Delay All-Night Parking Action For Study

No action will be taken against drivers who park overnight on city streets until police have "thoroughly studied the present situation," Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said last night.

Last week, Long announced the start of an intensive drive against all-night parking, which is prohibited by a city ordinance. A survey showed there were 1,047 violations last week.

"The Police Department," Long said, "does not intend to create any hardship or inconvenience for the persons who must park their cars on the city streets all night.

"This condition is not new — it has existed for many years.

Citizens complain about cars parked in front of their homes. Streets have been posted when they were to be cleaned. The garbage contractor complains that he cannot operate his trucks on certain streets because of parking on both sides of those streets.

"All we ask is that you keep in mind the nights your streets are to be serviced and co-operate.

"The Police Department does not intend to take action toward any night parking - violator until we have thoroughly studied the present situation.

"We believe it can be solved by co-operation by all concerned and the use of common sense."

In announcing th drive last week, Long said first offenders would receive warning tickets. In some cases, he added, permits to park all night would be issued.
